BY JOHN STEELE

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

LONDON, March 18.—The crisis over a rearmament Germany is, it is not over, in a fair way to settlement. Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler has proclaimed an increase of his army to 36 divisions, with an estimated strength of 540,000 men, and got away with it. Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, and Capt. Anthony Eden, lord privy seal, will go to Berlin next Sunday as arranged to talk things over with Hitler and his associates. There they will find already accomplished by German unilateral action what they were quite ready to grant in principle at least, if not in degree.

No one here would be surprised if the "36 divisions" should turn out to be a bargaining figure. Neither would London be surprised if Hitler should be persuaded to enter a collective system of European security with a considerably smaller force.

No Anxiety in Britain

The announcement that Simon and Eden will go to Berlin as arranged came at the end of a day of long distance conferences between all interested powers.

After a week-end of intensive thought on the situation the British were calm and without worry. They regarded the situation as grave from the point of view of effectiveness of the collective peace system to which they intend to adhere at all costs, but they do not expect any rash move by Germany or any other power which might lead to war, at least for some years to come.

An active interchange of views between Britain, France, Italy, and Russia since last Saturday disclosed that these powers took the same view—grave but not tragic.

Cabinet Discusses Action

The British cabinet met this morning at 10 Downing street and sat for two hours considering the draft of the note to Germany protesting Hitler's action. Then it was sent to Berlin and delivered to Foreign Minister Baron Konstantin von Neurath, Nazi foreign minister.

The note said the British government held that it was bound to protest against the decision to adopt conscription and increase the German army to 36 divisions. This, it was pointed out, is contrary to the basis agreed upon for the Berlin conversations, at which it was decided all questions referred to in the Anglo-French communique of Feb. 3 were to be discussed. The note concluded by asking for assurance that Germany still desired Simon's visit to take place within the scope and for the purpose previously arranged.

Text of British Note

The text of the British note follows: "His majesty's government feels bound to convey to the German government their protest against the announcement made by the latter on March 16 of a decision to adopt conscription and to increase the peace divisions of the German army to 36 divisions."

"Following upon the announcement of a German air force, such a declaration is a further example of unilateral action which, apart from the issue of principle, is calculated seriously to increase the uneasiness of Europe."

"The proposals for an Anglo-German meeting arose out of the terms of the Anglo-French communique of Feb. 3 and the German reply of Feb. 14, supplemented by further communications between his majesty's government and the German government."

"His majesty's government considers it necessary to call the specific attention of the German government to the effect of those documents."

"The London communique on Feb. 14, supplemented by further communications between his majesty's government and the German government."

U. S. COURT GETS MURDER TRIAL
JURY IN 3 HOURSJudge Speeds Action on John P. Chase.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Within three hours of court work yesterday a jury was selected for the federal government's first murder trial in Chicago in 42 years. In ten minutes more two alternate jurors had been chosen.

The trial is that of John Paul Chase, a young ex-bootlegger from the Pacific coast, who was the companion of Lester Gillis (Baby Face Nelson) in the machine gun battle at Barrington last Nov. 27 when two department of justice men were killed and Nelson received mortal wounds.

On Trial Under New Law.

Chase is on trial before Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan for the killing of Inspector Samuel P. Cowley, one of the government men. The law invoked against him was passed by the 73d congress in 1934 to give the government agents a new weapon in their war on crime.

It provides trial in the federal court for any one charged with killing a government agent while in the performance of his duty, and it makes the death sentence mandatory in the event of a verdict of guilty without a recommendation of mercy by the jury. With such a recommendation the penalty is life imprisonment.

The remarkable speed in selecting a jury for this case, which evidently will be bitterly fought by both sides, was made possible through Judge Sullivan's taking control and interrogating the prospective jurors on elementary questions as a group. The defense indicated satisfaction with the proceeding.

List of Jurors Selected.

The jurors selected are: Frank P. Chandler of Plano, decorator; George M. Hayes of Harvey, sales manager; John Hunter, 5032 Barry avenue, machinist; Ted Smith, 144 South 17th avenue, Maywood, building contractor; E. Mattison of Morris, farmer; Fred Schier, 7235 Phillips avenue, chef; R. B. Fries, 6225 Oakwood avenue, photographer; John Burns, 6201 South Marshfield avenue, street department foreman; Robert Smith, 6044 North Menard avenue, salesman; Frank J. Novak, 445 West 29th street, iron worker; David Rosenthal, 6142 North Drake avenue, form letter service; Clifford R. Decker of Leland, farmer.

The two alternates are John H. Hoepfel, 7240 South Oakley boulevard, laborer, and William Meek of Lombard, unemployed milk wagon driver.

Opening Statement Today.

The opening statements to the jury will be made this morning. W. W. O'Brien, chief defense counsel, has announced that he will attempt to stop the government from saying anything about what it expects to prove in the way of a written confession from Chase or a dying statement from Cowley. This will probably precipitate a legal battle at the opening.

The government has a list of 53 witnesses but was undecided last night which of these would first take the stand. One of them is Nelson's widow, who is serving a sentence of a year and a day on the federal prison farm at Milan, Mich., for harboring the John Dillinger gang, of which her husband was a member.

Another prospective witness is the Rev. P. W. Coughlan, who is reported to have seen part of the action in the Barrington battle. Father Coughlan was called from Oklahoma by the government for the trial.

First 4 Jurors Quickly Chosen.

While the case did not get started yesterday morning until 11 o'clock, due to the call of other cases, the first panel of four jurors was agreed on and sworn before the noon recess at 12:30.

Judge Sullivan went on process of Judge Sullivan was to excuse all veniremen who had special reasons for not serving. His next was to determine those who objected to the death penalty on religious grounds or for conscientious scruples. Five were excused for this in the course of the day.

Out of the twenty peremptory challenges allowed the defense only seven were used. The government used three of its six challenges.

The prosecution is headed by United States Attorney Dwight H. Green, who is aided by Brian McMahon, a special assistant to the United States attorney general, and James C. Leaton. On the defense side with O'Brien are William B. Henry and James C. Renzino.

Judge Addresses Veniemen.

When the first twelve veniremen were called to the box the black robed judge arose and addressed them.

He described his son as "a fine young fellow who has been around the world four times." Young Hoepfel is now in Arizona.

Cadet Charges
He Bought Way to West Point

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., March 18.—(Special.)—Representative John H. Hoepfel (Dem., Cal.) was charged with selling an appointment to the United States Military Academy at West Point in an indictment returned today by a special grand jury of the District of Columbia. The congressman's son, Charles Jerome Hoepfel, was also indicted.

Two indictments against each of the Hoepfels for conspiracy and making the sale were denied in their entirety by the congressman. The appointment in question, one James W. Ives of Baltimore, Md., reported to the adjutant general's office of the war department that he had given Hoepfel and his son a promissory note for $1,000 for the appointment in May of last year.

According to the charges Hoepfel traded an appointment to the Annapolis Naval Academy for a West Point appointment for his son. The trade was made with a former representative, John H. Burke, who appointed Hoepfel's son.

Ives Seeks Appointment.

Young Hoepfel failed in his examinations and subsequently Ives put in a bid. It is charged that the congressman's son then went to Baltimore under an assumed name and promised Ives the appointment for $1,000.

The government's case at first charged that Ives learned his appointment was illegal and went to the adjutant general's office with his story. Hoepfel admitted that he had obtained the appointment of Ives, saying it was done on the recommendation of men in the war department. He and Burke had signed the papers in blank, Hoepfel had said, after they had agreed on the trade, and the appointment was not made until later.

The government's case at first charged, "and that was when he came to my office with a letter of resignation. There is no truth to these charges and I shall prove my innocence."

Hoepfel said that he had placed his letter of resignation at the disposal of United States Attorney Leslie C. Garnett in Washington and then had been denied the privilege of appearing before the grand jury in his own behalf.

Once Enlisted Man.

"Asked whether he had enemies that might have prompted the charges, Hoepfel replied that he had been an enlisted man in the army for twenty years and that "the generals don't like enlisted men."

Hoepfel said that his membership in the house radical bloc, "the Mavens," had nothing to do with the case. He described his son as "a fine young fellow who has been around the world four times." Young Hoepfel is now in Arizona.

LEAGUE AT HARVARD DEMANDS WREATH OF GERMANS BE REMOVED

Cambridge, Mass., March 18.—(Special.)—The National Student League at Harvard today demanded that the wreath placed in Appleton chapel yesterday in memory of Germany's war dead be removed at once. The wreath, bearing the swastika emblem, was placed by Baron Kurt von Toppel, German consul general in Boston. The league's protest said:

"The National Student League of Harvard university demands the immediate removal of the Nazi wreath in Appleton chapel."

"That the friends and representatives of the Hitler government should dare to lay this swastika wreath in the name of peace at the precise moment when Hitler, throwing aside all pretense, is arming his enslaved nation to the teeth is a fitting sign of the obscene hypocrisy which is typical of Fascist decay."

BOY JAMS HAND IN SPRINKLER AND
1,500 CROWD NEAR

New York, March 18.—(Special.)—Fifteen hundred persons collected in Broadway, near 39th street, today because they wanted to find out what was going on.

The trouble was that 5 year old Abe Hussen had put his hand into an uncovered sprinkler outlet and could not get it out.

Abe screamed. His father, Mehem Hussen, ran back and forth, shouting and waving his arms. His mother, holding a baby in her arms, screamed. A patrolman put in a call for a police emergency squad, but by the time it arrived a machinist had extricated Abe's hand.

OAK PARK FINDS
AN EXTRA $90,000;
CUTS AUTO FEES

The vehicle license fee in Oak Park was reduced from $5 to $3 by an ordinance amendment approved last night by the village board.

Trusts proposed the amendment to relieve automobile owners overburdened with taxes. The reduction was made retroactive to Jan. 1, and Harry Lederman, village clerk, posted notices for motorists who had purchased licenses to apply for refunds. The reduction became possible, the trustees said, when they found $100,000 in the fund set aside for street repair, which an annual cost only $80,000.

London Hunts $1,000,000
Hidden by Yank Banker

LONDON, March 18.—(AP)—Scotland Yard detectives, at the request of American authorities, began a search today for $1,000,000 believed cached in safe deposit vaults here by Walter Clyde Davis, Colorado banker who changed himself in a New York jail cell in 1932 when he faced charges of absconding.

'Lawd' Comes
Pass His Bier

Men and women of all creeds, all races, and all stations of life moved in unending line through the flower-decked rooms of the old home of Richard Berry Harrison, to see the face of "De Lawd," for the last time and to pay their respects to a leading figure of the colored race.

At midnight, police estimated, nearly 15,000 persons had filed through the home at 5942 Indiana avenue. Never before has a man of his race been so honored, nor has an actor received in death such homage. The body will continue to lie in state until it is removed this morning to St. Edmund's Episcopal church, 5831 Indiana avenue where, at 11 o'clock, funeral services will be held.

Wears Costume of "De Lawd."

The body was clad in the long frock coat and the costume of "De Lawd," the part in the quint play, "The Green Pastures," in which Mr. Harrison played 1,657 performances. His long gray locks, as familiar on Broadway as in his home neighborhood, were combed back from the kindly features.

The satin-lined, bronze casket was flanked by a tall brass candelabra, from which slender streamers flickered. At the foot was the Norma G. Bernstein portrait of the actor in his costume. Nearby was the blanket of 1,657 roses—each of which represented a performance of "The Green Pastures"—the floral tribute of his fellow actors—the covered the casket in the cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York, where 7,500 attended funeral services Sunday.

From Marc Connelly, the author of the play and the man who selected Mr. Harrison five years ago as the ideal player for "De Lawd," there was a simple wreath. Seriously ill in the south, Mr. Connelly could not be present.

Many Children Among Mourners.

Through the somber rooms of the old house the steady file of mourners passed. They were mourning not a great educator, a powerful politician, a model ideal—but a simple, kindly man of humble birth, who brought to his people and to all races and creeds humility and reverence to God.

All day and into the night and early morning the procession continued. As schools in the neighborhood closed in the afternoon little children came, wide eyed in awe, to tip toe to the bier. They were paying tribute to the 70 year old man who through long weeks of vacations spent his days watching them at play. He had been their friend and father.

Old men, some shabbily attired, paused at the casket. They had been his fellow workers as a Pullman porter and in other odd jobs in his early years. Later he had not forgotten them; in the years of depression he had given freely of his modest wealth.

Clergy of Many Creeds Come.

There were younger men and women of his race, his students in schools of dramatic arts. To him they looked for guidance in the cultural arts. He had coached them and had helped them in the organization of theater groups. Clergymen of many creeds paid homage to the actor who portrayed with reverence and sympathy the visitations of "De Lawd" among his people.

As the night wore on lawyers, politicians, leaders, physicians, men and women representing every social stratum of the city filed past the casket.

Block Illinois Plans

Federal Emergency Relief administration earmarks $5,460,250 for relief expenditures in Illinois in next two weeks, but blocks state legislative plans calling for reorganization of Illinois relief machinery by providing for administration on a county basis. Bills pending at Springfield call for tax increases to raise state share of relief funds. Details on page 2.

HOW BATTLE STARTED.

A summary of the relief situation in Ohio, leading up to the fight between Gov. Davey and Federal Relief Administrator Harry Hopkins over fraud charges, appears on page 2.

Columbus, O., March 18.—(Special.)—A sensational clash between the federal government and a state government over alleged relief frauds rapidly was nearing a crisis in Ohio tonight. Highlights of the controversy as they have developed are:

1—Federal Relief Administrator Harry Hopkins, with backing of President Roosevelt, charged in letter to Gov. Martin L. Davey of Ohio that he has proof of "corruption" of relief administration in Ohio including soliciting of funds for campaign purposes from firms that sold relief materials.

2—Administrator Hopkins, through C. C. Stillman, FERA regional officer, has taken over administration of Ohio relief.

3—Gov. Davey, after bringing criminal libel action against Administrator Hopkins and daring him to come to Ohio and face trial, called the legislature into special session and demanded an investigation of the state's relief administration.

4—The Ohio state senate tonight adopted a resolution calling for an inquiry into relief administration in the state since 1933 by a vote of 29 to 0. Five members of the senate and five of the house will serve on the investigation committee.

5—After the warrant charging Hopkins with libel was filed Hopkins announced in Washington that affidavits backing his charges have been sent to the Ohio attorney general and to prosecuting attorneys of Lucas county [Toledo] and Franklin county [Columbus].

6—Department of justice attorneys in Washington declared they stand ready to defend Hopkins. There was no indication by the administrator, however, that he had any intention of going to Ohio.

Mr. Davey was elected governor in the last campaign. He is Democrat and served several terms in congress as a Democratic representative.

U. S. Officer in Charge.

C. C. Stillman, FERA regional officer, took over the administration of the state's relief today, backed by an announcement by Hopkins that he had allotted $2,000,000 more to carry on the work in Ohio. Hopkins last Saturday designated Stillman to conduct the state's relief work after setting he had "incontrovertible evidence" of political corruption in the Ohio relief administration.

He charged that the Davey campaign committee, shortly after the November election, "shook down" individuals and concerns doing business with the Ohio relief administration and that the funds collected were "to help pay off the deficit of your inaugural" and the expense of your inaugural.

Gov. Davey dispatched a 700 word telegram to Mr. Hopkins today, notifying him of the criminal libel charges and challenging him to come to Ohio and defend himself.

The treasurer, elected governor last November, struck back vigorously at his critics in tonight's address before the legislature.

Davey Defends Himself.

"Last year I arrived at the age of 60," he said. "I have spent all my life trying to build a reputation for honor and integrity and to be a useful citizen of my country."

"Now comes Harry L. Hopkins, a high official of the federal government, and seeks by implication and innuendo to cast the greatest reflection upon my personal integrity. He did not dare express directly the thoughts that he tried by steady effort to create by inference . . .

"The highest privilege of an American citizen is to rise in defense of his good name. This I do tonight. And I do it with a feeling of deepest indignation. . . .

"For this purpose I went to New York, O., early this morning and swore out a warrant for Mr. Hopkins' arrest on a charge of criminal libel. The warrant has been issued. I am ready and eager for trial. I want the people of Ohio and the nation to know the truth, and the quicker the better. If and when this man, who is guilty of criminal libel, goes to trial there will be a wave of popular indignation against his nefarious and cowardly action, the like of which we have seldom seen. There is sportsmanship among the American people, and they resent foul tactics. . . .

"May I respectfully call your attention to the fact that I have been stating that Mr. Hopkins take public control of the Ohio relief situation, inasmuch as he has been exercising dictatorial control behind the scenes. . . .

Wants Everybody to Know.

"I wanted him to put his own name on the front door as general manager. I wanted everybody in Ohio to know who is responsible for this relief program and all of its faults. Mr. Hopkins has been hiding behind the scenes and running the whole program through his federal agents in Columbus. The state relief director had no power. Nor did the state relief commission. They had to get authority for every little act from Mr. Hopkins' agents. . . .

"Mr. Hopkins did not seize control—he merely admitted the truth and stepped out where he belongs, from behind the curtains. . . .

"Not a single change will be made in the Ohio relief program until it was last week unless they find some of their own employees guilty of wrongdoing. . . .

"It has been reported to me that three of their employees are about to be discharged, or permitted to resign. May I call your attention to the fact that the unnamed sins and the unnamed sinners to whom Mr. Hopkins referred in his unscrupulous letter to me were a part of the regime of the great Gen. Henderson [C. C. Henderson, Hopkins' agent] under the administration of my predecessor. . . . If any one in that regime is guilty of wrongdoing, why does not Mr. Hopkins prosecute him? I challenge him to clean house. . . .

"Welcomes" Investigation.

"For my part, I welcome, most cordially, a searching investigation of everything connected with the Ohio relief program, including any wrongdoing under the administration of Mr. Hopkins and Gen. Henderson. In fact, I now demand just such an investigation. It is my right, as a citizen, and as governor of this state. It is our duty to the people whom we jointly represent, to uncover this whole mess. . . . I conceived it to be my duty to charge repeatedly that the relief program in Ohio is wasteful and inefficient and many times inhuman. Mr. Hopkins seeks to evade this vital issue. . . .

"May I call your attention to a few of the abuses in the present relief system. . . .

"Virtual Inquisition."

"Self-respecting, needy people, who are the unfortunate victims of the depression, are subjected to a virtual inquisition. Theoretical case workers go into their homes with a grocery order in one hand. Hunger gives them their power. They pry into all the private family affairs of their victims, and undertake to psychoanalyze them. . . . The idea of these professional relief workers seems to be to increase the cost wherever possible, and make jobs for more of their kind, without any regard to expense. . . . They do not help people to get employment and keep them off their relief rolls. . . .

"There is plenty of evidence of people who are on relief who are working at other jobs or who have property in sufficiently large amounts that they have no rightful claims for help. . . . There are several causes for this wasteful, inhuman, and destructive policy. One is the theoretical nonsense

Troubles Beset Ohio Relief After Long Political Fight

Cleveland, O., March 18.—[Special.]—The spectacular blowup between Gov. Martin L. Davey of Ohio and Federal Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, which resulted in Hopkins taking over Ohio's relief administration and charging the Davey relief administration with "corruption" had its inception in the 1934 gubernatorial campaign. . . .

Davey went up and down the state in his campaign charging that Ohio's relief was mismanaged and promising a complete reorganization if he were elected. He particularly aimed these charges at the Cleveland relief administration. . . .

This angered civic leaders in Cleveland because relief had been administered through a nonpolitical citizens' committee. When relief became a public instead of a private administration in August, 1933, the citizens' committee, headed by the late A. V. Cannon, prominent lawyer, became the official Cuyahoga county relief administration. . . .

Took Over Trained Workers.

It took over as its staff most of the staff of the Associated Charities and the Jewish Social Service bureau, and only trained social workers were given jobs on the relief staff. . . .

Hopkins often took note of the fact that Cleveland's relief administration under Cannon and his successor, Martin L. Davey, was "one of the best in the country." . . .

Cleveland civic leaders protested to Davey last November and he made a written statement for newspapers, saying he accepted Cleveland in his criticism of Ohio's relief setup, and pledged himself not to touch the Cleveland organization. But shortly after his election and with the reluctant consent of Hopkins, Davey discharged Gen. Frank D. Henderson as state relief director and appointed William A. Walls in his place. . . .

Social Work Leader Fired.

The governor ousted Mary Atkinson, superintendent of the Ohio division of charities, and replaced her with Mrs. Luella Penbury Magruder, former assistant state fire marshal. This job involved certification of the qualifications of relief workers. Miss Atkinson later revealed that she had refused to list the political affiliations of the employees in her department before she was discharged. . . .

Late last month Hopkins appointed Davey to have direct charge of federal relief administration in Ohio. The governor promptly discharged the job to Walls. He also renewed charges of waste and extravagance in the administration of relief in Ohio, especially in Cleveland. . . .

"They don't know where they are going," he said of the Cleveland administrators. . . .

In a speech he guaranteed that he of these young professional case workers who have little or no experience with life. . . .

"Another fault is that they are so bound up with excessive reports and red tape that they have little time to get out and do their work. . . .

"Another fault is the forcing of thrifty and industrious citizens into pauperism before they can get any help of any kind, and forcing every one into the relief rolls before they can receive any aid to secure a job. . . .

"Another fault is the building up of an excessive salaried overhead, playing favorites by those in charge. . . .

"Another vital fault is the policy that has been followed to send stragglers into so many of the counties of Ohio to take charge of a great humanitarian program among people they do not know. . . .

"For this and every other reason, economic, social, and moral, a thorough investigation is urgently needed." . . .

Vote Is Unanimous.

The senate answered Gov. Davey's demand by adopting the inquiry resolution. The inquiry is to be conducted would reduce the size of the Cleveland relief staff by one-third, and charged that "professional relief workers" were "trying to keep relief alive to secure their jobs." . . .

Hopkins Gets Into Fight.

Grossman went to Columbus to confer with Davey and the governor told him that his relief stand was being misrepresented. Grossman also talked with Walls and upon his return to Cleveland stated that Walls would give the state a good relief administration if his hands were not tied. . . .

Grossman got in contact with Hopkins when Davey continued to attack the Cleveland relief administration and after a two day visit in Washington Hopkins took up the fight for Grossman, who is a lawyer. . . .

When Davey wrote Hopkins asking the federal government either to take over Ohio's relief administration or eliminate waste Hopkins replied in a scathing interview, ridiculing the governor, charging him with being only interested in patronage, and refusing to take over relief. . . .

Call for Inquiry.

The state house of representatives passed a resolution calling for an investigation of relief in the state. It was charged that politicians met in secret caucus with Democratic members of the assembly and got them to support Davey. . . .

Grossman and Marvin C. Harrison, also a member of the CCRA board and a close friend of Hopkins, went to Washington to confer with Hopkins, and 200 Cleveland civic leaders started a campaign to get the state legislature to provide Ohio's share of relief funds. . . .

The next step in the fight came when President Roosevelt ordered Hopkins to take over Ohio relief. Hopkins charged that Ohio business men who supply goods to the state relief administration were "shaken down" to the extent of thousands of dollars in contributions to Davey's campaign deficit. . . .

Davey has denied these charges and countered with a threat to jail Hopkins if he sets foot in the state of Ohio. . . .

Democratic Party Is Split.

Davey was supported for governor by the Cuyahoga county Democratic organization, which never has been on intimate terms with the Roosevelt administration because the Clevelanders opposed Roosevelt's nomination through the Chicago convention. . . .

Neither is Senator Robert J. Bulkley, an important voice in the national Democratic party, on good terms with Cleveland's official Democracy, and the wounds of fights between the organization and Congressman Martin L. Sweeney and Robert Crosser never have been healed. . . .

by five members of the senate and five members of the house. The resolution is to be acted upon by the house. . . .

Previously the senate turned down a proposal that the investigation be conducted by Attorney General John W. Bricker, who is a Republican, and a suggestion that the committee be nonpartisan. . . .

Under the resolution as adopted by the senate the committee would investigate both the charges made by Hopkins and the charges of waste and inefficiency made by Gov. Davey. . . .

Senator Paul Glavin, Columbus, characterized the relief situation as the most "outstanding controversy of recent years." . . .

Telegram to Hopkins.

In his telegram to Hopkins earlier in the day Gov. Davey said: "I realize that you cannot be expected for this offense but I challenge you to come to Ohio, submit to arrest and try the case in open court. You have done me a grave and unforgivable wrong and if you have any of the instincts of manhood you will permit this wrong to be righted. . . ."

RELIEF CHANGE FOR ILLINOIS IS BLOCKED BY U.S.

$5,460,250 Earmarked for State's Use.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.] Washington, D. C., March 18.—[Special.]—The Federal Emergency Relief Administration today earmarked $5,460,250 for relief expenditures in Illinois during the next two weeks, but blocked reorganization of the state's relief machinery. . . .

Aubrey Williams, assistant relief administrator, announced before the 5 million dollar grant was revealed that the FERA did not approve of the bills pending in the Illinois legislature to reorganize the relief machinery on a county basis. . . .

"There is no necessity for changing the relief system in Illinois," Williams said when asked about the bills. . . .

FERA Men Unconcerned.

Williams and other FERA officials displayed no concern over the evident understanding among administration leaders in the legislature to postpone imposition of relief taxes until after the election in Chicago. FERA authorities appear confident that a satisfactory and permanent arrangement will be devised. . . .

The grant of $5,460,250 of federal money is to be the federal government's share of the relief fund during the last two weeks of March. It was set aside for use in Illinois during that period whenever Gov. Horner makes formal application. . . .

Legislators in Doubt.

Springfield, Ill., March 18.—[Special.]—Washington's manifesto to the Illinois legislature that it cannot change the system of administering relief in the state probably means that the assembly must concern itself wholly with providing funds. Republican house members, aided by a few Democrats, sought to obtain permission to return administration to the counties, but the Harry L. Hopkins clique put its foot down and the few members in town today for tomorrow's session hadn't any new ideas on the spur of the moment. . . .

Bills are pending before each chamber providing tax increases to raise the 36 million dollars Hopkins decreed should be provided as the state's annual share of relief. . . .

Leaves Tax Bill as Issue.

The statement by Aubrey Williams, assistant Administrator Hopkins, that the present setup is satisfactory and that the Republican proposals for abolition or reformation of the IERC, were unsatisfactory leaves the legislature with nothing to consider on relief save the tax bill, which would increase the gas and sales taxes 1 cent and 1 per cent, respectively, impose an occupation tax on more than 100 busnesses, and bring public utility services under the sales tax. . . .

There is little likelihood, however, that the new proposals will be called for passage until the Chicago mayoralty election is held April 2. . . .

Representatives Lyons, Burns, and O'Neill are expected to protest the Washington edict tomorrow when they learn of it, and they may have new plans for readministering relief. None was in Springfield tonight. . . .

WAR VETERANS RELIEF GRAFT CASE IS UP 7TH TIME IN COURT TODAY

A. Schlupp, former supervisor of county relief to war veterans, and his assistant, Paul Gutzmer, who have had six continuances since their indictment a year ago on graft charges, may get a seventh delay today. They are scheduled to appear in the Criminal court, but their lawyer, Emmett Byrne, is now occupied with another trial. . . .

Some of the delays, it was explained, were caused by Attorney Byrne's political campaign activities. James A. Brown, assistant state's attorney, said he had obtained "one or two" of the delays. The last continuance, Feb. 11, was caused by failure of the sheriff's office to serve subpoenas on witnesses. . . .

Prosecutor Brown said a handwriting expert would testify that Schlupp forged signatures on relief orders. Brown declared that Schlupp instructed Gutzmer to make out orders without proper investigation. Records showed, Brown said, that disbursing orders for about $450 worth of goods were made out against addresses that in reality were cemeteries, vacant lots, railroad yards and forest preserves. . . .

Consider Old Age Pension.

Old age pension bills introduced in the house will be considered by the industrial affairs committee—Joseph L. Rategan (Dem., Chicago), chairman—on the same day. Another important measure will be heard simultaneously by the senate revenue committee. This is Thomas P. Gunning's measure to require personal property taxpayers to file their own schedules by May 1 annually and which assesses penalties for failure to comply. The bill, according to its sponsor, is intended to match in efficiency, the federal income tax statute. . . .

PRESCRIBE REST FOR WHITESIDE, ILL IN MONTANA

Doctors said he was out of danger, although they prescribed complete rest for the next 30 days. . . .

The actor suffered the first attack Saturday, but in spite of physicians' advice appeared on the stage and with difficulty carried through his role in "The Master of Ballantrae." At the close of the performance he was carried to his hotel. All of his engagements have been canceled. . . .

NRA FRIGHTENS U. S. BUSINESS, WILLIAMS SAYS

Its Retiring Chief Warns Senate Group.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.] Washington, D. C., March 18.—(Special.)—NRA has frightened business, and a restoration of confidence might give a billion dollar boost to American industry, S. Clay Williams, retiring head of the recovery administration, told the senate finance committee today.

Many business men saw the specter of government control lurking behind the Blue Eagle. Williams warned the committee which is considering the NRA's fate. This fear that NRA "was a mandate to somebody to regulate everything" has been causing business to hang back, Williams argued.

Blames Radical NRA Boosters. Radicals in the NRA itself, spouting "wild ideas" and "sideline stuff," were blamed by Williams for part of this fear. He made this diagnosis of the administration, whose leadership he is leaving, after Senator David I. Walsh (Dem., Mass.) asked if business had cooperated with the NRA.

"That leads into the question of whether the purpose behind NRA was to take over business and dictate every detail of it. A lot of people, who are enthusiastic over the social ends, wonder whether they better check their enthusiasm lest they be given aid and comfort to other aims," Williams drawled.

"If we in the NRA would get into the habit of shooting with a rifle instead of with a scatter gun, we would improve things. I don't know why, when we start out to control labor, minimum wages, and maximum hours, we shouldn't take a rifle and shoot straight at them instead of shooting with a scatter gun and getting a lot of things."

Hits "Wild Idea" Men. "That's where all these wild ideas came into this thing," Williams said, leaning forward in the witness chair. "There are plenty of men who think the NRA was a mandate to somebody to regulate everything."

"Now I want to show you what confidence can do. You are talking about appropriating 4 billion dollars for public works to restore purchasing power. If we had the confidence to restore the 1929 volume of business, 17 billion dollars would be added to the purchasing power of this country."

Williams cited figures to show that industry's share in the creation and distribution of wealth had shrunk by 17 billions between 1929 and 1933.

A sharp clash occurred when Senator William H. King (Dem., Utah) asked if the NRA had not been "black-jacked" or coerced by business into approving certain trade practices in codes. Williams objected to the senator's words, saying he had never been "threatened" or "black-jacked."

Senator King asked also if the "insistence" was not made by business that NRA set prices high enough to bring profits to every one "regardless of the cost to consumers."

"I'm not in a position to say it wasn't. I'm not in a position to say it was. It wasn't made to me," Williams retorted.

Oppose Selection of Wood. Reports that Brig. Gen. Robert E. Wood, Chicago, head of Sears-Roebuck, might head the NRA after Williams retires brought implied criticism from Senator Tom Connally (Dem., Tex.).

"What capacity does Gen. Wood of Sears-Roebuck have in the NRA?" Senator Connally asked Williams. "There is some talk that he is going to have some high administrative position in NRA. I've got a lot of letters about it."

"He is the window dressing for the 4 billion 800 million dollars," Senator Daniel O. Hastings (Rep., Del.) cut in, referring to Gen. Wood's appointment as head of a committee which will advise President Roosevelt on the expenditure of his work relief money.

Merchants Send Protests.

Chairman Williams said he had heard nothing, but newspaper reports of Gen. Wood coming to the NRA. Senator Connally explained after the hearing that the letters came from small merchants protesting that a mail order magnate should be given control over them.

Clarence Darrow, Chicago lawyer, who as head of the National Recovery Review board criticized the NRA, will be called before the committee Wednesday. Chairman Pat Harrison (Dem., Miss.) said Darrow today issued a statement saying he would not appear because the hearing was a "white-wash" of NRA.

YOUTH SHOT IN ACCIDENT. Robert Ziegner, 16 years old, 3618 Irving Park boulevard, was accidentally shot in the jaw yesterday by Frank Galardo, 17 years old, 3705 Drake avenue, while they were examining a revolver. Ziegner was taken to the Belmont hospital.

YANKEE SUBSEA CRUISERS TEST GUNS IN SECRET

Start Pacific Cruise for Fleet Exercises.

Aboard U. S. Fleet Submarine Narwhal, ON Southern California, March 18.—(AP)—Led by the Narwhal, ranked among the world's great undersea cruisers, six big submarines slipped out to deep water today for maneuvers of the United States fleet in the North Pacific.

These big submarines went through secret gunnery exercises today at the San Clemente naval drill grounds in the Pacific.

Some Super-submarines. Submarine division twelve is rated as one of the most powerful commands in the world for submarine warfare on the high seas. The divers are the Nautilus and Narwhal, 371 feet in length, with 6-inch guns on fore and after decks; the 341 footers Barracuda and Bass, the 307 foot Dolphin, and the newest of them all, the 260 foot Cachalot.

After leaving San Diego harbor the big submarines went their separate ways. The cruising radius of the vessels is about 12,000 miles.

Such ships as the Narwhal carry 88 officers and men. They have Diesel engines of 6,000 horsepower.

As the Ships Dive. After the command to dive, with the hatches fastened, the crews in the control room man the great wheels and valves. The hands of the 20-inch gauges show the ship is dropping into the depths of the sea. In the conning tower the commander is at the periscope control. Forward and aft the torpedo crews are at stations. When the ship is ordered to the sea surface for gunnery the crews of the 6-inch rifles go to the forward and aft hatches, ready to leap out while the decks are still awash, to fire the long range 10-ton rifles which hurl shells weighing 105 pounds.

These guns are fired and then the ship quickly dives out of sight. The torpedoes have a range of nine miles or more.

CUBANS RUSH TO BUY HATS—FEAR MILITARY EDICT

HAVANA, March 18.—(AP)—Men's hats and women's stockings brought crowds into Havana stores today as rumors spread among hatless males and stockingless females that measures already enforced in several parts of Cuba under military law would be put into effect in the capital tonight. Military forces decided that groups of Apache-like youths roaming the streets in several provinces should tidy themselves up or go to jail.

One hat merchant said he had never sold so many hats in one day. He estimated that fully half the men in Havana had joined the "no hat" movement within the past few years and that all of them were reuniting today to avoid the "goma" or rubber hose.

Another said most buyers were taking the necessity in good humor. Few holdouts were passing his door as closing time neared. Stockings for women were running men's hats a close second for honors as "best sellers" in the day's business. Green ties and red ties were also being replaced in a big way by less significant colors—green being the ABC political society color and red signifying the communist party.

CUBA NABS YANK; CLAIMS HE BUILT REBELS' RADIOS

[Copyright 1935: By the New York Times.] HAVANA, March 18.—Suspected of building a radio equipment for the use of revolutionary organizations, Carlos Rowe, an American citizen, is being held in Cabana fortress on orders of the military governor of Havana province.

His arrest on Saturday became known today. United States consular officials have interested themselves in his case.

Rowe is said to have explained that the building of radio sets was merely a hobby with him and that a sending set found at his home was too weak to have been used in anti-government broadcasts. It is stated that the Westinghouse company, by which he is employed, is not in any way involved.

IDAHO PROHIBITION ENDS AS GOVERNOR SIGNS LIQUOR BILL

Boise, Idaho, March 18.—(AP)—Gov. Ross ended legal prohibition in Idaho today when he signed the state-owned package goods liquor stores bill. It became effective at once.

He did not name the personnel of the three man commission which is to administer the law. He will do so within a few days, he said.

Prohibition was first invoked in Idaho in 1915 when the Haight law became operative. Two years later the state constitution was amended to include prohibition.

G. O. P. LEADERS FINALLY MEET THE CANDIDATE

Wetten Tells Them to Go
Out and Fight.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Persistence won a victory for the Chicago Republican organization yesterday when the ward committee members at least a substantial number of them, succeeded in meeting their party's nominee for the mayoralty, Emil C. Wetten.

After Mr. Wetten had been waiting in the morning for a subcommittee a authorized by the city central committee to ask him whether his campaign intentions were serious, he consented to meet the entire committee at the Bismarck hotel in the afternoon. And he did so.

Mr. Wetten did not, however, tell the committee his plans. He told them plainly that it was up to each of them to go out and carry his own ward while the nominee did his part.

Agrees to "Cooperating" Group.
He made only one agreement and that was that he would talk today with Edward F. Moore, acting chairman of the committee, about the appointment of a small committee of ward leaders with whom he will "co-operate."

If there was any enthusiasm among the majority of the committeemen present it was effectively repressed. Harry A. Riley (49th) moved an endorsement of the entire ticket consisting of Mr. Wetten, Otto M. Webb, nominee for city clerk, and Charles W. Swanson, nominee for city treasurer.

There were objections that this was unnecessary and the motion passed on the recovery of his health and urging voters to support the ticket.

Wetten Is Well, He Says.
In his talk Mr. Wetten said he understood the principal purpose of the gathering was to give the organization a chance to look over his physical condition. He said that, although he had been kept to his hotel by his physician's orders, he had done a great deal of thinking and was satisfied that a large anti-Kelly sentiment had developed.

"I have been criticized because I haven't made a campaign," he continued, "but I think I've done as well as any other man could have done under the same circumstances."
"This isn't my personal campaign. I did absolutely nothing to keep any candidate from running in the primary. I was persuaded to get on the ballot by the argument that it was my civic duty to do so."

He'll Do "Best He Can."
"Now I am the regular nominee of the party. But you are the regularly elected ward committeemen of the party. I am going to try to discharge my responsibility as the nominee to the best of my ability. I may not appear at many ward clubs, may not be able to appear at any."
"There isn't going to be any red fire in the campaign. The Democrats haven't been doing much campaigning. If you committeemen go into your wards and organize the campaign and let me coordinate my efforts with yours I haven't any doubt as to the results."

After the meeting some of the committeemen commented on the silence concerning campaign funds.
Before the meeting Mr. Wetten visited his headquarters in the Hotel La Salle, which were opened last Friday, although he was unable to be present on that occasion.

La Grange Girl Wins Spelling Bee

ELIGIBLE PNEUMATIC DILIGENCE

Ellen Wilson of La Grange with County Superintendent of Schools Otto Aken after she had taken first place in the fifth division of the Cook county school spelling contest, an annual affair. She will compete on April 6 with winners in five other divisions for the county championship.

Misses Three Words

Ellen Wilson of the Seventh Avenue school, La Grange, won the championship in spelling of the fifth division of Cook county's annual contest yesterday. She will compete on April 6 with the champions of the other divisions. Ellen withstood the list of words selected by Supt. Otto F. Aken, in whose office the contest was held, until Louise Bancroft of Grove school, Argo, and June Thompson of La Grange, who finished second and third, were spelled down. Then Ellen missed the words eligible, diligence and pneumatic.

MDIVANI NAMES REMOVED FROM LONDON COMEDY

Request Is Made by the Official Censor.
LONDON, March 18.—(AP)—Climaxing the mountainous publicity occasioned by Princess Barbara Hutton Midvanti's announcement she will divorce her husband, the names of both of them were removed today from a comedy scene of the revue "Stop Press" on request of the official censor of the British stage.

The lord chamberlain in his official capacity as censor issued a summons on Clifford Whitley, producer of the show, which is the British adaptation of the New York success "As Thousands Cheer."

Barbara Urged to Protest.
Princess Barbara, who was in a bad temper over the disclosure yesterday that she plans to cut off Prince Alexis without a penny when she gets her Reno divorce, said she had received "many letters from friends urging her to protest" against the show.

Whitley and his associates, however, insisted that she had not taken any action and that the summons was issued independently of her. It was understood the lord chamberlain's action involved a different skit from the one in which the names of the prince and princess were used.

Beginning tonight the stage skit will be entitled merely "Famous American Heiress Meets Foreign Prince," and the characters will not have the names of the Prince and Princess Midvanti.

Two Hijackers Seized; $5,000 Loot Recovered

Frank Caponigra, 27 years old, 2936 Shields avenue, and Michael Condi, 23 years old, 3113 South Wells street, were identified at the detective bureau last night as the hijackers who stole a $5,000 truckload of merchandise near Jolt Saturday. The loot was recovered yesterday by Lieut. James Kerr in a garage at 2241 Cottage Grove avenue, where the men were arrested. Victor Lehnen and Jesse Satterlee of Nokomis, Ill., were the truck drivers.

MAYOR APPROVES NEW COMMITTEE SETUP IN COUNCIL

Cohesive City Government Sought Through Plan.

Mayor Kelly approved yesterday the plan to have the city council committee on committees reorganize the city government. The plan was approved by a vote of 12 to 10 after the council had heard the report of the committee on the subject.

Members of the planning group revealed that the mayor had a hand in outlining the proposed changes and that, consequently, his endorsement of the suggestions did not come as a surprise.

Mr. Kelly conferred during the drafting process with Ald. J. M. Arvey (24th), president pro tem. of the council and chairman of the committee on committees.

The object of the reorganization is to integrate the city government by supplying strong and permanent direction to the council's activities and by keeping the council in direct personal contact with what is going on in the executive department.

Two Principal Proposals.
To give direction to legislation the committee on committees proposes to establish a powerful steering committee. As watch-dogs over the executive branch of the government, the plan would set up one or more permanent subcommittees as adjuncts of each of the chief regular standing committees.

The subcommittee would visit and study systematically the executive unit assigned to its guardianship.

"The steering committee will permit the integration of council work and will enable the council to draft a unified four year program," Mayor Kelly said. "Now that the council is elected for a four year term such a program is especially desirable. The steering committee will keep the council at work; it will see that no important legislation is permitted to die in committee; and it will keep to the fore a balanced council program."

Chain to Make New Big Job.
The chairmen of present standing committees are to comprise the steering committee. It is likely to provide an important chairmanship for Ald. James B. Fowler (15th), a council member of twenty-five years' service.

Some observers suggest, however, that Arvey, as president pro tem. of the council, logically might wish the steering committee to be formed by himself, and that, in such an event, he might yield his chairmanship of the finance committee to Fowler.

The subcommittee plan ranks in importance with the steering committee project, according to Mayor Kelly.

"The subcommittees, by following the activities of the various departments, will enable the council to become thoroughly acquainted with all phases of the city's work," he pointed out.

"In such a capacity they will have opportunity to stop leaks of taxpayers' money, they can help to increase departmental revenues to the city, and they can enable the finance committee to build better and more economical budgets."

The council reorganization will get under way immediately after the committee on committees, numbering five members, is formally selected in caucus on April 3. This group will report on its committee selections and rules changes on April 15, when the mayor and aldermen are to be inaugurated.

A BANDIT'S MOLE EXPOSES HOLDUP PLOT; 7 JAILED

Held as Conspirator.

A mole under the right eye of Cornelius Taylor, 23 years old, 1426 Madison street, led last night to the solution of the robbery plot of the Rex Realty corporation, 5959 Chicago avenue. Seven men were under arrest, including the office manager of the company, who confessed plotting the robbery with the others.

Last Friday Taylor was arrested by Des Plaines street police in a routine roundup of crime suspects. Lieut. Philip Carroll began the usual comparison of Taylor's features with the descriptions of "wanted" men and discovered that one of the five men who robbed the real estate office had a mole under his right eye. Lieut. Carroll questioned Taylor, who finally confessed. He named three accomplices and they were arrested.

Three Seized, Then Another.
They are Vito Battaglia, 31 years old, 830 South Bishop street; John Maeshino, 18 years old, 1511 Washburne avenue; and Richard Williams, 23 years old, 757 Eldon street. These three named George Stout, 23 years old, 257 North Francisco avenue, as the driver of the automobile in which the robbers fled. Stout was arrested at his home.

The five robbers then implicated Lawrence Dittmar, 23 years old, 5058 Kenmore avenue, the office manager of the realty company. They charged he had engaged them to perform the robbery so that he might get a part of the loot for himself.

Seized in his home, Dittmar also confessed. He told Lieut. Carroll that William Martin, 27 years old, 3038 South St. Louis avenue, whom he knew from his days as a salesman, had been his "contact" man with the "gang."

Taken to the station last night, Martin added his signed confession to the statements of the others.

They Disagree About Loot.
At this point, however, Lieut. Carroll found the plotters turning on each other. On the day of the robbery, Dittmar reported to the Austin police, in whose district the holdup occurred, that the bandits had taken $1,500.

But Taylor and the others insisted they had been able to find only $500. Dittmar maintained he had not pocketed the balance, and offered as an explanation: "The robbery occurred a day before it was supposed to and I wasn't ready."

Williams and Taylor were identified as members of the robber gang by Miss Alice Thorsen, switchboard operator in the office. They and the others will be viewed by more of the realty concern's employees.

POLICE WORKING TO GET AT SEAT OF THIS TROUBLE
Brighton Park police will spend today trying to match an irregularly shaped piece of tweed into a gap in the seat of somebody's pants.

If and when this is done the police will have in custody the burglar who looted the home of Peter J. Roney, 3957 South Talman avenue, last night. Roney found the thief in his home when he returned from work, and pursued him out the rear door.

The bandit sprang agilely over a fence in his flight, but left a portion of his trousers thereon. He also dropped his loot, consisting of several suits of clothing, a wrist watch, and other jewelry valued at $200, and a child's bank containing $3.

Police took charge of the torn piece of pants, explaining that this was a

ARE YOUR INCOME AND PROPERTY PROTECTED?

"DON'T PASS UP THIS CHANCE TO SAVE $46 ON YOUR AUTO INSURANCE"

"I'm telling you, Dick, I insured my Packard with American Mutual last year and it cost me about $46 less than the year before. You could have saved as much on your Cadillac. I understand, as a matter of fact, that American Mutual policyholders have always saved at least 20% on their insurance costs."

"BUT, HARRY, IS IT GOOD INSURANCE?"
"Sure thing. This American Mutual outfit is the oldest company of its kind. One of the biggest and strongest in the world. There's no question about it—you'd be fully protected in case of accident."

"HOW ABOUT THE SAVING? WHERE DOES THAT COME IN?"
"Well, as I get it, American Mutual pays dividends to policyholders instead of paying them to stockholders the way stock companies do. You know all good companies charge the same rates to begin with, but mutual dividends reduce the costs. Like in mutual life insurance. And this company I'm in has paid more dividends, for a longer time, than any other mutual in the business."

"AND WHAT KIND OF SERVICE DO I GET IF I HAVE AN ACCIDENT?"
"I can tell you from my own experience that it's mighty good. I drove out to Chicago a few months ago and had a little brush with a street car. I called the American Mutual office there and they took care of the whole thing. The adjuster told me they have offices all over the country—and settle most all their claims out of court."

"WELL, WHAT'S MY NEXT MOVE?"
"Just get in touch with American Mutual. I saw their ad in today's paper. Send in the coupon or call up the office. You'll get the rate on your car for the kind of insurance you want, and an estimate of your costs. You won't be pestered with high-powered selling, either. But you'd better get the dope now—before your policy runs out..."

German Reply to Protest
Note Eases Tension.

3, while noting that the armaments limited by treaty could not be modified by unilateral action, declared the British and French governments favored a general settlement freely negotiated between Germany and other powers which would make provisions for the organization of the security of Europe on the lines therein indicated and would simultaneously establish an agreement about armaments which, in the case of Germany, would replace the relevant provisions of part V. of the treaty of Versailles.

"The committee went on to state that it would be part of a general settlement by which it was contemplated that Germany would resume her active membership in the league of nations and proceeded to sketch out the terms of an air pact between the Locarno powers to operate as a deterrent to aggression and to insure immunity from sudden attacks from the air.

Stresses Nazi Acceptance.
"The German government's reply ten days later welcomed the spirit of friendly confidence which the Anglo-French communiqué had expressed, and undertook that the German government would submit to exhaustive examination the questions raised in the first part of the London communiqué.

"It agreed that the spirit expressed in the communiqué of free negotiations between sovereign states could alone lead to lasting international settlements in the sphere of armaments.

"In particular it welcomed the proposal for an air pact, and the German reply concluded by saying before taking part in the proposed negotiations the German government considered it desirable to clarify in separate conversations with the governments concerned a number of preliminary questions of principle.

O. K'd Exchange of Views.
"For this purpose it invited his majesty's government to enter into a direct exchange of views with the German government.

"Since his majesty's government desired to make sure there should be no misunderstanding as to the scope and purpose of the proposed Anglo-German meeting, they addressed a further inquiry to the German government Feb. 21 to which the German government replied the next day.

"The result was that it was definitely agreed between the two governments that the object of the suggested meeting would be to carry the consultation a stage further on all matters referred to in the Anglo-French communiqué. It is upon this basis, therefore, his majesty's government has been preparing to pay the visit to Berlin which the German government suggested.

"Thus what was contemplated was a general settlement freely negotiated between Germany and other powers and agreements regarding armaments which in the case of Germany would replace the provisions of part V. of the treaty of Versailles.

Criticizes German Decision.
"This has throughout been the purpose of his majesty's government's policy and upon its achievement they have concentrated all their efforts at Geneva and elsewhere.

"But the attainment of a comprehensive agreement, which by common consent would take the place of treaty provisions cannot be facilitated by putting forward as a decision already arrived at, strengths for military effectiveness greatly exceeding any before suggested—strengths moreover which, if maintained unaltered, must make more difficult, if not impossible, agreement with the other powers vitally concerned.

"His majesty's government are most unwilling to abandon any opportunity which the arranged visit might afford of promoting a general understanding but in the new circumstances, before undertaking it they feel bound to call the attention of the German government to the above considerations, and they wish to be assured that the German government still desire the visit to take place within the scope and for the purposes previously agreed as set out in paragraph IV. above."

(Paragraph IV in the official text is the one beginning "Since his majesty's government desired to make sure" etc.)

Germany promptly replied to the note, declaring that she was willing to discuss the Anglo-French peace proposals for Europe.

The reply was regarded as satisfactory. Within an hour or so after the

Roosevelt Confers with Hull and Davis on German Action

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., March 18.—[Special.]—Germany's decision to reestablish a conscript army was studied this afternoon by President Roosevelt in an hour's conference with Secretary of State Cordell Hull and Norman H. Davis, the President's European adviser.

During the conference, it was reported, the German action was considered in relation to European peace in view of the Nazi defiance of the military clauses of the Versailles treaty. The effect of the action on the separate treaty between the United States and Germany was also discussed, it was said.

Although the White House issued no statement and neither Hull nor Davis would comment on the conference, it was reported that it developed no change in the indicated policy of this government. It has been indicated that the government position is still one of attempting to determine exactly what moves are being made by other powers and to leave all initiative to the other powers.

Hull Calls for Davis.

Davis was called into consultation by Secretary Hull early in the day. Senator Key Pittman, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, had declared the German plan to increase the army as "very serious." Following the conference with Secretary Hull, Davis held a series of consultations with state department specialists. He refused to make any comment on the situation or the discussion.

Secretary Hull, Davis and state department officials keenly followed press and other dispatches from Europe on the German action. They were silent, however, on European reports that interested powers would seek consultations with this country.

In his comment on the German action, which would increase the Nazi army to about a half million men, Senator Pittman declared that the note was delivered to Baron von Neurath, he sent for Sir Eric Phipps, British ambassador to Berlin, and informed him that the German government hoped Simon and Eden would pay their visit and that the scope of the conversations will be such as agreed on in Berlin's reply to the Anglo-French communiqué.

The London government immediately announced Simon and Eden would proceed to the German capital Sunday.

When the house of commons met this afternoon Simon was questioned concerning the protest note. He replied he could not make public the contents of the message until it was received in Berlin. Later the text of the note distributed to members of parliament as a white paper.

George Lansbury, Labor leader, asked if the government intended to discuss the situation with the United States and signatories of the Versailles treaty [the United States signed a separate peace treaty with Germany], or request the evacuation of the league of nations council. Simon replied both these matters were under consideration.

Germany's prompt and satisfactory reply to the British, however, has rendered such steps unnecessary.

It is fully realized in British circles that what Germany has really done is to jump the gun on the situation which was likely to be created by agreement after Simon's visit to Berlin and further talks among the powers. She has taken by unilateral action what the powers were almost ready to concede her multilaterally.

The task of the peace-makers now is to reconcile the injured feelings of nations like France and Russia, which are genuinely afraid of Germany with the new lineup in European power.

REAL INTERVIEWS WITH REAL FOLKS as told to Madam X, EX-LAX Reporter

"Can't fool with my health, I use Ex-Lax"

—says John P. Megerle, 55 E. 28th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

HIS smile would have done your heart good. Husky, healthy... and he likes to stay that way. Busy, efficient, successful. A fine type of American business man. But no-one is ever too busy to talk about his health. Here's what Mr. Megerle had to say on the vital subject of combating constipation... and the laxative that helps him do it. Read it in his own words:

"About two years ago I heard of Ex-Lax through the program on the air.

"Running a garage, being on the job every single day to watch things and keep customers satisfied, I cannot afford to allow myself days off.

"My hours are long and irregular, for a successful garage needs the attention of the man who owns and runs it.

"Therefore, I have my meals whenever I can get off for a short time. That sort of existence always takes a lot of energy and concentration, so I can't afford to fool around with my health. I watch it because I must.

"Naturally, if I need a laxative I want one that doesn't interfere with my daily routine. Ex-Lax is perfect for that."

45,999,999 other people seem to share Mr. Megerle's high opinion of Ex-Lax... because 46,000,000 boxes were bought last year! Far and away America's largest selling laxative...

—because it is as safely thorough as any laxative you can take, yet, it is gentle. It won't cause stomach pains. It won't gripe. It won't leave you feeling weak afterwards.

United States should not become involved "in the threatening situation in Europe." He described the action as "the inevitable result of the failure of existing countries to get together after the war to adopt some new defense system other than military alliances.

Sees Possible League Service.
"Whether in this age such cooperation is possible only experience would have demonstrated," the senator continued. "The league of nations might have been the medium through which the present situation in Europe might have been deferred many years.

"It seems clear to me, however, that when the allies refused to permit the conquered countries and Russia to become part of the league, and the United States refused to participate, that the league could not perform the functions of such a mediator."

"There was only one alternative left and that was the return to the balance of power through the medium of alliances.

"It is quite difficult for me to visualize how Germany can be kept under Hitler's program. I do not mean by this to condemn or criticize the German government and realize that every people and every government has the right and responsibility to chart its own course without interference where its welfare is threatened.

"The United States is fortunately not involved in a military sense in the situation in Europe nor should we become involved. While we are bound to suffer from the effects, there is nothing, in my opinion, that we can do to alleviate the situation and therefore intervention on our part would tend only to aggravate a very serious, if not threatening, condition.

"It behooves our government, in my opinion, to postpone all action with regard to Europe, either of an economic or monetary nature, until a better mental and moral condition is established in Europe."

On a War Footing.
Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda, after the foreign ministry had replied to the note of protest, made this startling announcement:

"Germany already possesses a powerful, well equipped army with excellent artillery and huge reserves of trained men. German arms factories are working virtually on a war footing. Material is being supplied from them in an ever increasing volume. This nation is amazed at the astonishment manifested abroad at the recreation of a German army.

"One would have believed that the news would have been received with visible relief and satisfaction, now that the world knows where we stand. Not that it was not aware before, but it has the certainty now."

Speaks of "Unknown Terror."
Goebbels declared Stanley Baldwin, lord president of the British council:

Material is being supplied from them in an ever increasing volume. This nation is amazed at the astonishment manifested abroad at the recreation of a German army.

GERMANY CALLS YOUTH TO SERVE IN HER NEW ARMY

Conscription On; Storm Troops Disband.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

BERLIN, March 18.—Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's Nazi government today informed Great Britain that Germany is ready to discuss European security as originally planned. The statement was in the form of a reply to a British note of protest against a rearmament of Germany. In other words, Berlin undertakes to discuss the proposed eastern security pact, the air Locarno proposals, as well as the possibility of a general arms agreement and the return to the league of nations.

At the same time there was every indication that conscription of soldiers for the new German army already was underway.

The British protest note, which was drafted yesterday by Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, was presented to the Nazi foreign office by Sir Eric Phipps, London's ambassador. The note said Hitler's decision to raise an army of more than 500,000 men was bound to suffer from the effects, there is nothing, in my opinion, that we can do to alleviate the situation and therefore intervention on our part would tend only to aggravate a very serious, if not threatening, condition.

POLAND UNDISTURBED; FEELS GERMAN ARMY DECREE CLEARS AIR

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

WARSAW, Poland, March 18.—Germany's declaration of her intention to rearm has not interfered with Polish preparations to celebrate Marshal Jozef Pilsudski's 68th birthday tomorrow.

The foreign office refused to comment, but an important official pointed out that in February, 1933, Poland introduced a resolution at Geneva for liquidation of the disarmament conference.

"Our suggestion was tabled, and since then Poland has made her own arrangements with Germany," the official said. "Germany's declaration has cleared the atmosphere, and Poland hopes that the visit of Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, to Berlin will result in England's recognizing Hitler's action."

The foreign office confirmed the visit of the German military attaché, Gen. Max Schindler, to Marshal Pilsudski, and it is understood that one of the questions discussed was the assignment of Polish officers to the German army and Germans to the Polish army.

Premier Pierre-Etienne Flandin of France and other European leaders have dwelt on the "unknown terror" existing among the peoples of Europe as arising out of ignorance as to what Germany has been doing in the way of building up its armed strength. He also said that Winston Churchill on Nov. 28, 1934, publicly declared that German rearmament was the most notable development of the previous 18 months.

"Now that the world has been informed as to what we are doing, it professes to be both astonished and indignant," he said. "Would it not have been more courageous and logical if it faced the new situation? The German people have not greeted the fuhrer's proclamation with warlike delirium or cries of revenge against their old enemies. They accepted his order with calm faith in their own strength."

The proud Storm Troops, who served in Hitler's private army since his ascendance to power, are being disbanded in connection with military conscription. Orders were issued to supply stores and tailor shops to stop making equipment and uniforms for the once cocky Brown Shirts.

Army officers who said the army would be patterned after the old imperial war machine, were constructing an officers' corps and arranging for military supplies. It was reported that the military class of 1914—those attaining the age of 21—will be called to serve in the army for one year.

MUSSOLINI JOINS MOVE TO DELAY ACTION ON HITLER

Italy Leaves Door Open for Understanding.

(Copyright, 1935: By the New York Times.)

ROME, March 18.—It is not expected any final decision as to the attitude the powers will assume toward Germany's decision to reintroduce compulsory military service will be taken, at least until after tomorrow's cabinet meeting in Paris.

As a consequence of the consultations actively proceeding yesterday and today at London, Paris, and Rome, Benito Mussolini's government has adhered, perhaps reluctantly, to the Franco-British idea that no positive steps to enforce observance of the military clauses of the Versailles treaty are to be taken immediately.

The danger that military measures might be taken against Germany, which were considered a probability on Saturday and still a possibility yesterday, are now believed to have completely vanished.

Future Plans Up to League.
It is considered quite certain in Rome the powers will limit themselves at present to making a collective protest in Berlin and will

BRITISH PROTEST NOT TO GERMANS UPSETS FRANCE

Paris Plans to Send Own
Message to Berlin.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
PARIS, March 18.—(AP)—Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler has won the latest round in his stubborn battle against the Versailles treaty. This became unmistakably evident in the French capital today as the former allies in the world war exhibited complete discord. In the general confusion, only two facts were clear:
FIRST—That the French have failed to rally a solid Franco-British-Italian front against Germany.
SECOND—That even French official opinion is torn between two conflicting policies.
One faction still pins hope on international conciliation. The other wants to engage France resolutely to a policy of defiance by concluding at once a Franco-Russian military alliance.

Upset by British Action.
The French foreign office is particularly upset because the British protest note to Berlin was sent and the decision for Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, to go to Berlin was taken without consulting the Paris government. The text of the British note was communicated to Foreign Minister Pierre Laval by R. H. Campbell of the British embassy after it had been delivered in Berlin.

Laval tonight sent identical notes to the French ambassadors in London and Rome for communication to the British and Italian governments. Three points are explained in the notes:

(1)—The French government believes that a rapid, energetic, solemn protest is necessary.

(2)—It is suggested that urgent consultations under the Franco-Italian and Franco-British agreements, both of which provide for consultations under an emergency, should be started immediately.

(3)—Immediate convocation of an extraordinary session of the league of nations council, which is not due to meet before May 12.

Premier Drafts Protest Note.

Premier Pierre-Etienne Flandin, it was reported, has already drafted a protest note to Germany. The French realize they are placed in an awkward position by being forced to make an independent protest.

A semi-official communiqué said that two points in the British note attracted attention at the foreign office. One was the protest against unilateral denunciation of the Versailles treaty. The other was Simon's projected visit to Berlin. Regarding the latter, the communiqué said that officials maintain the "complete reserve."

Back of this diplomatic word juggling is the fact that there is not the slightest trace of coordination between French and British diplomatic action. France's suggestion that the two powers draft a joint or parallel protest apparently went unheeded.

Delicate Question Before Cabinet.

The question of presenting France's protest is so delicate that while it will be discussed at a cabinet meeting tomorrow, no official decision will be taken until Wednesday's council of ministers. It is hoped the Italian government will associate itself with the French protest, but the foreign office is not counting too much on it.

André François Poncet, French ambassador to Berlin, was so shocked Saturday about rearming that he made a personal protest without waiting to consult Paris. The French government, however, does not consider this a formal protest.

So great is the confusion here that Le Temps, which traditionally sets the pace for the rest of the semi-official press, today abstained from editorial comment on the crisis.

Even more striking, perhaps, was the article published by the influential financial organ, L'Information, under the signature of its foreign editor, Count Fernand de Brinon, one of the most authoritative diplomatic mouthpieces. Brinon declared that the recent statements of Hitler indicate Germany will shortly demand revision of the territorial clauses of the Versailles treaty. He urged the allied powers, headed by France, to anticipate this move by themselves by taking the initiative in proposing treaty revision.

"Day for Showdown Near."

"The day is coming when a showdown will be inevitable between the conformists and revisionists, between those who only consider form and those who look facts in the face," Brinon said. "Yesterday Premier Mussolini's Popolo d'Italia said that the treaty of Versailles now is only an empty shadow. This, alas, is reality. Along among the chiefs of the victorious states, Mussolini has understood the lessons of experience."

"It is still time for the rest to understand. Let the former allies, united in the face of danger, once more take command of events instead of being carried along by them."

Such words, coming from a writer with the authority of Brinon, who often plays the rôle of unofficial diplomatic agent, appear to have a sensational significance at this moment.

PASTORS GIRD TO FIGHT FOR GERMAN CHURCH LIBERTY

Charge Nazis Attempt to Cloud Real Issue.

BERLIN, March 18.—(AP)—Protestant pastors throughout Germany girded themselves tonight in anticipation of a battle on which they said depended the right of religious liberty in Germany.

They had an intimation from Nazi German Christian leaders, their foes, that any attempt to read a fiery manifesto denouncing the Nazi religious attitude would be construed as "an effort to sabotage Saturday's conscription decision," by which Adolf Hitler started the world.

To prevent the reading of this manifesto secret police arrested or detained an estimated 700 Confessional synod pastors yesterday. Many of them were still in jail today.

Quarters of the opposition synod, which is fighting the Nazi program to unify the Protestant church in Germany, said this intention was "a typical attempt to cloud the issue," pointing out that "the manifesto was read eight days ago, before an inkling was given out of conscription."

A Clearcut Issue.

They also pointed out that a man like their leader, the Rev. Martin Niemöller, a former submarine captain, "of course favored the new law [conscription]." Niemöller was still under arrest today.

Confessional pastors said this controversy over ecclesiastical appointment and policy [Kulturkampf] had a clearcut issue.

"On one side," they said, "is the Nazi philosophy of blood, race and people as constituting an eternal value superseding religious faith, and on the other the opposition belief that the religion of Jesus Christ is an eternal verity. Nazis are aroused that

Ex-Crown Prince Praises Hitler for Reviving Conscript Army

(Copyright, 1935, By the Associated Press.)

BERLIN, March 18.—Former Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm broke a self-imposed silence of many months today to tell America that Saturday, the day Adolf Hitler announced reintroduction of military conscription, was one of the happiest days of his life.

"I know myself to be one with the entire German people in rejoicing that the honor and independence of our fatherland have been recovered," he said in a statement.

The 53 year old son of the house of Hohenzollern said emphatically that "the third reich unconditionally needs peace for the completion of its great cultural and economic tasks," and in giving praise to "our Führer," the former Austrian corporal who holds more power than did the crown prince's own father, former Kaiser Wilhelm II.

VATICAN CITY, March 18.—(AP)—Pope Pius forecast even sharper religious struggles in Germany in a letter written to Cardinal Karl Schulte, archbishop of Cologne, on the occasion of the 25th anniversary of his consecration. The pontiff recommended development of social service work notwithstanding the difficulties of the times.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

PARIS, March 18.—The German ambassador, Roland Koester, today protested the exhibition in a humorist art show here of a drawing portraying Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler as a head chopper. The drawing, which expressed French horror at the execution of two women spies in Berlin recently, showed Hitler with an ax in one hand and two heads in the other. The caption underneath read: "To succeed in life one must be loved by women." The sketch is being withdrawn.

2,700 REFUGEES RETURN HOME AS FLOODS RECEDE

High Water Crest Moves Farther South.

Little Rock, Ark., March 18.—(AP)—Flood waters of the St. Francis, White, and Black rivers still menace a half dozen, northeast Arkansas towns to night, but as the crests of these rampaging tributaries moved southward, waters receded from southern Missouri farm lands and 2,700 refugees returned to their homes.

Barring unforeseen heavy rains, the big Mississippi river, which has played no part in the spring sprees of its tributaries, will crest at Memphis a week from today at from 37 to 37½ feet, slightly above the technical flood stage, the weather bureau said today. A stage of at least 43 feet would be necessary to cause concern along the main stem.

Tents Sent Refugees.

National guardsmen dispatched 100 tents to house refugees in Arkansas at Devil's Bluff, Clarendon, and Des Arc, to which towns farmers were taken from their flooded homes.

As the danger zone shifted into Arkansas, the Red Cross moved field headquarters to Jonesboro and engineers established a new base at Blytheville.

Despite the return of many Missouri farmers to their lands, the Red Cross estimated that 12,000 persons still temporarily are homeless and receiving relief.

100,000 Acres Flooded.—The area under water totals more than 100,000 acres in Arkansas, through the day to save the McClellan levee, south of Augusta, on the White river. Thirty miles south another fight was being waged to prevent a collapse of the Jackson bayou levee at Bienville.

Overflow waters from a dike on the channel in east bottoms, near Kennett, Mo., threatened levees that would inundate 1,000 more acres if a break occurred.

The fight to hold the St. Francis levee near Senatobia, Mo., appeared to have been won as the waters fell at that point.

Levee Breaks Ease Strain.—Levee breaks along the St. Francis over the week-end relieved much of the strain on levees below, but waters rose slowly about the towns of Monticello, Mace, and Black Oak, Ark., following lower breaks.

Waters in the Big Lake section west of Blytheville, led by Little river, climbed higher, with a crest due tomorrow.

Like the upper St. Francis, the upper waters of the White and Black receded.

Delta rivers in north Mississippi, including the sometimes troublesome Tallahatchie, were being watched by levee officials, but there appeared little likelihood of danger.

FIREMEN BATTLE WAUKEGAN FIELD BLAZE TWO HOURS

A prairie fire which covered an area of twenty acres obscured the vision of motorists on Sheridan road north of Waukegan, kept the fire department of that city busy for two hours yesterday morning. Automobile traffic on Sheridan road had to be rerouted.

The fire at one time threatened a 20,000 gallon tank of naphtha of the Ciesco-Pfizer Tanning company on the outskirts of the city. A strong south wind kept the dense smoke from spreading over the city.

The fire was said to have been caused by oil drippings in the marshland east of the North Shore Gas company plant near Gillette avenue. Oil sludge was responsible for the heavy smoke, firemen said.

NEW FEARS HELD FOR FRENCH PARTY DOWN IN JUNGLE

BRAZZAVILLE, Middle Congo, March 18.—(AP)—New fears arose to night for the safety of a party of six Frenchmen and a Farina woman society leader, forced down in a dense jungle inhabited by "tiger men," so called because of their custom of dressing in the skins of wild animals. In the plane were Gen. Gen. Edouard Renard of French Equatorial Africa, his wife, and five army officers. Optimism which arose last night when a feeble radio message was received explaining the plane became lost in a fog Friday and landed safely far off its course was replaced by concern because no further word was heard.

News of The Tribune Experimental Farm Ridgway

When Grinding Pays

GRINDING roughage pays when feed is scarce and high. That is the opinion of cattle feeders at the Tribune Experimental Farm near Plains and Yorkville, where more than 50 tons of corn fodder, 30 tons of alfalfa hay, and 10 tons of soy bean have been run through the feed chopper and grinder this winter.

The cost of grinding is comparatively small if the work is done on the farm, according to Clarence Thurow, farm manager. When feed is cheap, grinding might not pay.

"As soon as we realized that our feed was going to be scarce and that we had on hand our normal number of steers to feed, we decided to make liberal use of our feed grinder," said Mr. Thurow. "We ground the feed to make it go farther and found that the corn fodder, for example, was much more palatable and that the steers wasted less. By chopping up the ears along with the stalks and blades we increased the feeding value of the fodder. We fed the coarse corn fodder meal to our main bunch of steers from Dec. 15 to Feb. 15. Now we are chopping up the corn fodder and feeding the coarse meal to our new bunch of 114 Hereford steer calves."

"Other cattle feeders might be interested to know that our experience this winter taught us that it is necessary to chop the corn fodder daily. The fodder heats if left piled up in large bunches on the ground or on the wagons. It also heats and later molds if large quantities are ground up and allowed to stand in bins for any length of time."

Mr. Thurow recommends the feeding of corn sirup poured on the corn fodder meal. He fed several tons of corn sirup in self-feeders this winter, but found that he could cut down costs and get just as good results with less sirup by pouring it on the ground fodder as it lay in the feed bunk. From the self-feeders, Mr. Thurow thinks, the steers ate more sirup than was necessary.

"I consider corn sirup," he asserts, "a supplement and not a substitute for corn."

The Yorkville farm recently sold 45 head of hogs, ranging in price from $7.50 to $9.25 a hundred, bringing a total of $667.88 after transportation and terminal marketing costs were deducted. The trucking bill from the farm to the Chicago market amounted to $13.67; insurance, $2.25, and terminal market charges, $24.90. The terminal market charges on the 45 hogs were made up of yardage, $4.35; corn [3 bushels], $4.65; National Meat Board, 15 cents; inspection, 25 cents; commission, $13.50.

The first turkey egg was found at the Yorkville farm this week-end. After barrels partially filled with straw were furnished to the turkey hens, one of them decided to make her nest in the small turkey house under the tree where the birds roost. There the egg was found.

John Rawlings at the auxiliary farm reports that 13 eggs have been laid by the Muscovy ducks. One of the ducks with 10 eggs is getting ready to "set." During the recent cold snap, when the temperature went down to zero at the farm, one of the duck eggs was cracked, leaving only 17. Four more ducks are building nests and are expected to begin laying in about a week.

ETHIOPIA WILL NOT BE BULLIED ITALY IS WARNED

Emperor Cites Fiction of Border Incidents.

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, March 18.—Emperor Haile Selassie declared in an interview today Ethiopia would not be bullied by Italy into a policy of apologizing for wrongs which she never committed.

"Ethiopia is bound by international agreements and treaty to exhaust every possible means of obtaining a settlement and Ethiopia intends to do so," the emperor said.

"But we will not be coerced or intimidated by the military preparations recently announced into according the satisfaction which Italy demands."

Troops Withdrawn.—The alleged presence of Ethiopian troops in Opaden, on the borders of Italian territory "is not only imaginary but a deliberate invention," the emperor declared. Even before the appeal to the league, he said, orders had been given to withdraw all troops except the garrisons of existing posts, and those orders have not since been modified.

"As yet there has been no mobilization in neighboring provinces or elsewhere in Ethiopia," the emperor asserted.

Incident a Fiction.—"The alleged Ethiopian attempt to surround Italian troops at Afduh on Feb. 2 was pure fiction, since Afduh then was not garrisoned, although Italians occupied it soon afterwards. All such pretended incidents are merely pretexts for Italian military preparations.

BRITISH RUNNERS OF LIQUOR TIRE OF U. S. WATCHING

New York, March 18.—(Special).—Four known British liquor runners which have been lying between thirty and sixty miles outside of New York harbor for more than a month waiting for a dark night or bad weather to slip in with their contraband gave up today.

Capt. William H. Shea of the local coast guard, who has been directing the watchful waiting operations of three patrol boats, reported to Secretary Morgenthau in Washington that the liquor ships began to depart from these waters last night. The last of the vessels, he said, left at 5:30 o'clock this morning.

All were headed northward, but it was doubted that they would make any attempt to drop their cargo near New York as the cost of transporting the illegal liquor back here, which is the natural and lucrative market, would make their profits negligible.

STATE DROPS ITS REMAINING CASE AGAINST INSULLS

Martin Leaves for Canada Thursday; Green Silent.

Samuel Insull, former public utilities magnate, and his younger brother, Martin, whom he brought to this country, educated and elevated to the management of several of the companies in the expansive Insull empire, yesterday heard Judge Cornelius J. Harrington of the Criminal court not pro the remaining state embezzlement cases against them. The brothers were charged with embezzlement of $104,722 of funds of the Mississippi Valley Utility Investment company.

The motions to not pro were made by Assistant State's Attorney John O'Hara, who prosecuted both of the brothers in separate trials before Criminal court juries which acquitted them. As Judge Harrington seated himself on the bench, Prosecutor O'Hara left the counsel table where the Insulls sat beside their attorneys.

Judge Agrees to Not Pro. "In view of the acquittal of these two defendants in previous cases," he told Judge Harrington, "and since practically the same evidence would be used in the pending cases, the state feels that it would be futile to try them again. The state moves for a not pro."

Judge Harrington replied that the state had already presented its evidence in the trial and that to not pro the remaining cases was the only plausible thing to do.

"There is an object lesson for the state in the trial of these cases," commented Judge Harrington. "The corporations involved were foreign corporations, organized under the laws of other states. In 1933 the Illinois legislature passed a law forbidding Illinois corporations to lend money to their own officers. This provision does not apply to foreign corporations. I suggest that State's Attorney Courtney take steps to have the legislature extend this criminal code provision so it will apply to foreign corporations doing business in Illinois as well as to domestic corporations."

The elder Insull telephoned his wife in the Seneca hotel, where they live in style much less elaborate than in former years, as soon as the charges against him were disposed of. As he emerged from the booth he answered newspaper men's questions.

Refains from Comment. "I don't know that all of my troubles are over," he said, "but I hope they are. I am just an ordinary citizen again and am going to exercise the prerogative of one and not say any more."

Attorney Eli M. Aaron, counsel for Martin Insull, said his client, an English citizen and now subject to deportation, will leave Thursday for Canada, from where he was extradited after a long battle. Insull will report to immigration authorities in Detroit and then proceed to Toronto. He was released on his own recognizance by Fred Scholtfeldt, director of the Chicago division of the bureau of immigration and naturalization.

United States District Attorney Dwight H. Green yesterday refused to comment on the bankruptcy fraud case still pending in the federal court against the elder Insull, Samuel Insull Jr., and seven former associates, but it is expected that this case, too, will be dropped by the government in view of the acquittal of Insull and 16 co-defendants before a federal jury on mail fraud charges.

EVANSTON PICKS 3 BUILDINGS AS BEST DESIGNED

Mayor Charles H. Bartlett announced last night the annual award for the best designed buildings in three classes in Evanston. The selection was made by the Evanston Art commission, of which Thomas Tallmadge, the architect, is chairman. Owing to the negligible amount of construction, this was the first award since 1931, and covers the years 1932-34.

Winner in the public building class was the Deering Memorial library on the Northwestern university campus, designed by James Gamble Rogers. The Tudor shops, 707 Church street, designed by Maher and McGraw, an Evanston firm, won the award for commercial buildings. The home of Prof. H. F. Harrington, dean of the Northwestern university school of journalism, at 2214 Lincoln street, was given the first prize in residences. It was designed by Harry Howe Bentley. The city formerly awarded bronze plaques to the winners. Because of present conditions, Mayor Bartlett explained, the winners will be given only models of the plaques.

SEE CHANGES IN GREEK POLICY AS METAXAS QUILTS

Charges Premier Too Easy on Rebels.

ATHENS, March 18.—(AP)—Gen. John Metaxas resigned from the Greek cabinet to-night as a result of a disagreement with Premier Panayotis Tsaldaris, leading to the belief important government changes are in prospect.

Metaxas, an ardent Royalist, was minister without portfolio and assumed the war ministry during the recent revolt when Gen. George Kondylis took the field.

Metaxas issued a statement saying the leniency of Premier Tsaldaris made his presence in the cabinet "unnecessary." It was assumed he had reference to the trial of rebel officers under court martial, now in progress.

Thirty former officers, stripped of their swords and sidearms, were brought before the military court today. The prisoners were herded from their cells in jails on the outskirts of Athens. A platoon of soldiers with fixed bayonets stood at attention at the entrance to the court building, while a cordon of police kept Athenians from the vicinity.

The Greek public believes few, if any, of the prisoners will be sent to their deaths by firing squads. Gen. Kondylis, regarded by his admirers as the strong man in the republic today, stands for moderation, apparently believing wholesale executions may only plunge Greece into further strife and recriminations.

Metaxas had demanded ruthless measures to purge the country of the followers of former Premier Eleutherios Venizelos, executing those convicted of participation in the revolt.

"Greece's most vital need at present," said Gen. Kondylis, "is not further bloodshed, but peace, unity of spirit and real brotherhood. If those who erred show due spirit of contrition and remorse I am sure the government will follow Lincoln's great principles of mercy and magnanimity in settling the American civil war."

PORTER MAID'S $50,000 SUIT UP IN COURT TODAY

The $50,000 damage suit against Washington Porter II, 4043 Lake Park avenue, wealthy art collector, brought in behalf of Miss Marie Sauer, a maid in the home of Porter's mother, Mrs. Frances Lee Porter, at the Lake Park avenue address, is expected to be called for trial this morning at present.

According to the bill, Porter caused Miss Sauer's arrest Jan. 3, 1932, for questioning about a $10,000 set of silverware which was supposedly stolen but was actually found to have been misplaced. The suit has been pending since April, 1932.

Yesterday Porter was named in a suit brought by the law firm of Silber, Isaacs, Clausen & Woley, seeking to collect $8,592 in attorney's fees for legal service rendered Porter in the period from April 3, 1932, until May 17, 1934.

STEEL COMPANY GROWTH TRACED IN MELLON CASE

25,000 Ton Plant Climbs to 595,800 Tons.

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 18.—(AP)—The growth of the McClellan-Marshall corporation from a $250,000 concern to a $44,000,000 industrial giant in the space of three decades was illustrated today in charts introduced as evidence at Andrew W. Mellon's income tax hearing.

Arch McKinley, long time employee of the steel fabricating organization, sketched the rise of the company founded by two young engineers with the aid of the Mellon brothers, Andrew and R. B., who bought a 60 per cent interest in the McClellan-Marshall construction company in May, 1900.

Begins to Expand. The first step in the expansion was the purchase of a plant at Pottsville, Pa., with an annual capacity of 25,000 tons.

Capacity increased with the rising "steel age." In 1928 the capacity was 485,000 tons and at the time McClellan-Marshall was absorbed by the Bethlehem Steel corporation it was 595,800 tons. Today marked the beginning of the fifth week of the hearing. Attorneys say six weeks more of hearings will be required.

Through more than 300 pictures of plants and buildings which McClellan-Marshall built, and a general history of the concern, Maynard Teall, Mellon attorney, tried to show that Mellon's 30 per cent interest in McClellan-Marshall grew from $75,000 to $4,603,000 on March 1, 1933.

Bigger Profit Seen. The government asserts the stock was not worth more than $1,431,000 and seeks to prove that when it was absorbed in 1931, a much greater profit was realized.

About $1,000,000 of the $2,089,000 the government is trying to collect from Mellon on his 1931 income return is involved in the McClellan-Marshall transaction. Mellon claims the government owes him $139,000, overpaid.

COURTS ABASED, KAVANAGH SAYS, BUT RUNS AGAIN

Even though, in his opinion, the courts of the county have "degenerated," Judge Marcus A. Kavanagh, 76 year old dean of the Superior court, said yesterday he had decided to stand for reelection. The judge, for 37 years in the Superior court, had announced earlier in the day that he doubted whether it was worth his while to seek the bench again.

"The judges now," he said, "don't compare favorably with the old times when I was first appointed by Gov. Tanner. The public hasn't the confidence in the courts that it once had."

He spoke about rumored opposition to him from the Chicago Bar association, but ended with defiance: "While the Bar association has opposed me, the individual members are for me, and so are the people. Why should I not be a candidate at the next election?"

So the veteran judge does choose to run.

WALKER THINKS HE MIGHT SERVE NEW YORK AGAIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.] LONDON, March 18.—Dapper Jimmy Walker, ex-mayor of New York, today made his second appearance in an English court to answer two summonses, and created a small stir by suggesting that he might some day again be in service of New York.

The summonses were on New York accounts which Walker attributed to his former wife. The first, for $2,440 owed Sommers, Inc., was struck out when the creditors made no appearance. On the second, regarding a bill owed the Mayfair hotel, Walker took the stand. Counsel for the hotel suggested that Walker, who claims he is penniless, might have some money laid away in the New York pension fund.

Jimmy replied he was not entitled to a pension for twenty-two years service and had not made a claim for return of the money deposited, for if he lived to be 55 years old or returned to public service and completed twenty-five years, his pension would be much larger. He estimated he had paid in between $5,000 and $10,000. He admitted he wrote lyrics for popular music about twenty-five years ago, but emphatically informed the counsel that he was not drawing royalties from them now. The judge made no order on the hotel bill.

EX-WIFE SUES FOR SHARE OF KELLER INCOME

Mrs. Marion Keller, 1245 Jarvis avenue, filed suit in the Superior court yesterday seeking $100 a month of the $300 a month being paid to her divorced husband, Theodore P. Keller, from the estate of his father, the late Theodore P. Keller, wealthy coal man who died in 1930.

The bill, filed by Attorney Jacob Chapman, names as defendants her former husband, the Central Hanover Bank and Trust company of New York, and Jessie P. Keller, as trustees for the Keller estate. The suit is in the form of a complaint to enforce the former husband's liability to support the Keller's two children, Lloyd George, 16 years old, and Edith Jane, 15. Keller has remarried since the divorce in 1927 and now lives in Massachusetts.

Under the divorce decree Mrs. Keller was awarded the income from the building where she now lives, then amounting to about $250 a month. Mrs. Keller alleges she has lost her equity in the building during the depression and now faces eviction. On Feb. 17, 1933, she says, Superior Judge Joseph Sabath allowed her $100 a month from Keller, but he is $2,600 in arrears.

Kane County Gets Suspect in $33,000 Elgin Fraud

George M. Lindsay, alias Livingstone, 48 years old, sought for several months as one of a gang of five men who swindled Miss Laura B. Penney, Elgin school teacher, out of $33,000 in Liberty bonds and other securities, was taken from Chicago to Elgin last night by Sheriff A. J. Kampmeyer of Kane county. Lindsay was captured in St. Louis and brought to Chicago by police from the Cook county state's attorney's office. Ralph Becker, 45 years old, charged with complicity in the plot, now awaits trial in jail at Geneva.

IDENTIFY BODY OF TRAIN VICTIM. The body of the man who was killed by a train Saturday on the North Western tracks in Des Plaines was identified yesterday as that of Lawrence Lavin, 40 years old, 931 North Hamilton avenue.

MRS. ERICKSEN'S TRIAL IS BEGUN, THEN CONTINUED

The case of Mrs. Anna Erickson, 38 years old, mother of six children who is accused of the insurance murder last December of her husband, George, a tavern owner, was placed on technical trial yesterday before Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan of the Criminal court. Twelve prospective jurors were called into the box and then Judge Sullivan continued the hearing until tomorrow so that he might dispose of other cases on his call.

James Senese, 19 years old, who says he was hired by Mrs. Erickson to kill her husband, and Albert Kroeger, 21 years old, who has admitted he was hired by Senese to assist in the slaying, are expected to be state witnesses.

U. S. COURT GETS MURDER TRIAL JURY IN 3 HOURS

on John Paul Chase.

against Chase and explaining elementary principles of the law which protect the defendant in so far as the indictment and reasonable doubt are concerned, the court asked the men if they had any conscientious or religious scruples against the death penalty.

Two men raised their hands. They were elderly and explained that they had held these scruples a long time. They were excused.

Other general questions were put to the veniremen. One was excused because he had a son-in-law working for the government.

Another was sent from the box after he said he would be prejudiced because of what had happened to him when he was in the "beverage business" in Lake county about eight years ago. Evidently his trucks had been hijacked, but he did not explain where his prejudice would lie. A third was dismissed because he had lost one of his friends in "this type of a case."

Attorneys Go Into Action.

At the conclusion of the general questions the court asked the prosecutor and defense counsel for suggestions as to further questions. Mr. Green took less than ten minutes in finding a satisfactory first panel after this.

Mr. O'Brien took one look at the panel tendered and dismissed a bank cashier quickly. He accepted the next man in the box and one-third of the jury had been found. After this start the other eight jurors also were quickly chosen. The procedure in the state courts might have taken several days, or even weeks.

Chase, guarded by two deputy marshals, sat next to O'Brien. He was frequently consulted by his attorneys.

From his seat facing the jury box Chase studied the jurors carefully. He was neatly dressed in brown, with shirt and tie to match, his black hair brushed back sleekly. He has a strong, hard face, with the appraising eyes of one who looks for enemies.

Man of Many Aliases.

Chase has, according to the indictment, used the following names in his career:

John Scott, John Madison, T. Cody, John Powers, Addie James, Earl Butler, Ed Burns, William Chase, R. Huff, Johnnie Chase, and Elmer Rockwood. He nodded and smiled slightly in the direction of his brother, Charles Chase, who sat in the courtroom with his wife and Mrs. Juliette Fitzsimmons, sister of the slain Nelson. Otherwise the defense gave his entire attention to the jury box, out of which one day will come a message of death, prison, or freedom for him.

JURY IS SELECTED TO HEAR TRIAL OF 'DON CHAMPAGNE'

CRIMINAL COURT.
Frank Murphy, robbery, sentenced to one to 30 years in the penitentiary by Judge William V. Brothers.

John Donald Walker, 34 years old, ex-convict who gained the nickname of "Don Champagne" when, the state alleges, he spent in night clubs much of the $220,000 he is accused of having obtained from Mrs. Grace Forschner, wealthy Palos Park widow, was placed on trial on a larceny charge yesterday in the Criminal court of Judge John C. Lewie. The jury was selected yesterday and testimony will start today.

JOHN D. WALKER.

Mrs. Forschner, 65 year old widow of a Chicago contractor who died in 1930, was instrumental in obtaining Walker's release on parole from the penitentiary at Joliet in May, 1933, where he was serving a sentence of one to 14 years for forgery. Mrs. Forschner said she afterward loaned him various large sums when he explained he was buying and expanding an iron works business, which she later learned was false.

JUDGE DECREES DEATH FOR THREE IN BANK MURDER

Leonore Bandits All Will Appeal Case.

Ottawa, Ill., March 18.—(Special.)—Fred Gerner, 27; Arthur Thielen, the Leonore bank bandit gang were sentenced today by Judge Robert E. Larkin to death in the electric chair, on April 11, for killing J. Charles Bundy, Leonore bank cashier.

They were taken from the La Salle county jail this afternoon to the penitentiary at Joliet by Sheriff Ralph H. Desper. He was aided by deputies and state highway police.

The men under sentence also killed Charles Selpp, Richland township supervisor, and Sheriff Glen Axline of Marshall county, following the bank robbery, Jan. 16.

Hauff had pleaded guilty, asking mercy, and was given a hearing in mitigation of sentence last week. Gerner and Thielen were convicted March 6 and the jury named the death penalty. All three prisoners plan to appeal to the State Supreme court.

In passing sentence the judge said: "A jury of good citizens of this county fixed the punishment for you Fred Gerner and you Arthur Thielen. I believe that their verdict is just and right. The command to shoot and the intent to kill were deliberate and willful."

"It has now become my duty to fix the punishment for John Hauff. It is unusual for a court to give the death penalty upon a plea of guilty, but this is an unusual crime. I have listened attentively to all the evidence and am unable to find any mitigating circumstances—every fact and circumstance is in aggravation of the crime. The killing of Charles Bundy was unnecessary, willful, wanton and deliberate; there was no lack of intelligence, no intoxication, no uncontrollable passion."

When asked by Judge Larkin whether they had anything to say as to why sentence should not be imposed upon them, Gerner and Thielen replied they had not shot Bundy.

AIR CONDITIONED

An air-conditioned office in Tribune Tower can make your working hours this summer the most comfortable hours of the day.

While the city will swelter in the 90s, tenants in this modern, centrally-located building will enjoy the increased comfort, efficiency and morale which office temperatures in the 70s assure. And in winter good health is promoted by an atmosphere humidified, warmed and circulated according to recommended medical standards.

Air conditioning and the many other advantages enjoyed by Tribune Tower tenants are generally associated with premium rentals. Yet it costs less to have an office here than in many buildings which do not offer Tribune Tower's advantages.

Characteristically a man's building, 60 per cent of the space in Tribune Tower is used by the production and executive divisions of the Chicago Tribune. The prestige of address is enhanced by the high type of business and professional men which the building attracts. There are no retail shops or stores above the first floor.

Offices here are clean, quiet and comfortable. The standard of maintenance and service to tenants is unexcelled. Elevators are of latest express type, manned by a courteous staff. The location on a two-level street makes parking convenient. The Chicago Tribune also maintains a special lot, adjacent to the Tower, with parking privileges to tenants.

More detailed information, blue prints and estimates of costs will be gladly furnished to individuals and firms seeking an address of distinction, at rentals no higher than they now pay.

PEARSON OFFERS 20 YEAR PLAN FOR VIRGIN ISLANDS

Claims Much Done in His First Four Years.

(Copyright, 1935, by the New York Times.)
ST. THOMAS, Virgin Islands, March 18.—Gov. Paul M. Pearson, celebrating today the fourth anniversary of his assuming his present post, announced a 20 year plan for the "rehabilitation" of the Virgin Islands. He declared that the department of the interior at Washington had tentatively approved the second "four year plan" in the program.

Speaking of his rule here, which has been marked by much political unrest and many bitter charges against his regime, he said:

"When we arrived, 25 per cent of the people in St. Croix were idle and cared for by the Red Cross. Now there is not an employable person in St. Croix who is willing to work, who is unemployed."

Builds Tourist Trade.
"St. Thomas," he said, "is in establishing a tourist trade, and the first important step has been done. The Blue Bead Castle hotel has been completed by the government and is operating to capacity. Every public building in the islands has been repaired, renewed, or replaced. Beach houses have been erected on St. Thomas and St. Croix for the recreation of the people."

The interior department has approved our plans for further improvement of the islands by developing economic, social, and educational conditions in our new four year program."

The governor explained that in his opinion the first four years of his long-range program, which had been formulated in cooperation with experts, spoke for themselves.

The opposition, however, which has bitterly fought Pearson's regime, denied that material achievements had been made.

War on Opposition.

Ell Baer, deposed government attorney, who was removed last fall by Secretary Ickes after he had started an investigation of the ineffectual public works department, declared that "for three and one-half of Pearson's four years there has been a consistent and ever growing opposition to his rule."

"In the beginning the Pearson administration sought, through control of the local press and the news outlets, to keep the opposition strictly localized," he added. "As the opposition grew, attempts were made to discredit the opposition leaders. Today, in seeming desperation, Pearson is attempting to convey the impression that the struggle here is entirely political, namely of the outs against the ins, but that is not so."

"Nearly every New Dealer sent here by the Roosevelt administration has been removed from office at the instance of Pearson," he said. "Pearson remains, although his administration has proved itself incompetent, wasteful and odious to at least 90 per cent of the people. No amount of whitewash on the part of Ickes or the interior department officials will change the situation."

SIX CLAIM TO BE MISER'S COUSINS; SUE FOR ESTATE

Probate Judge John F. O'Connell yesterday authorized Attorney Werner W. Schroeder to file his appearance in behalf of six claimants to the estate of James Thomas Kelly, West Madison street miser who left $140,000. The claimants are Frank Dwyer, James Dwyer, Annie Donnelly, Arthur Nolan, Edward Nolan and Francis Nolan, and, according to the attorney, they are cousins of Kelly.

Chief Investigator Jack Rubens of the public administrator's office said the source of Kelly's wealth has not been ascertained. Kelly, an ex-convict, lived in cheap rooming houses in Chicago and St. Louis and after his death on Feb. 26 seven persons were indicted on charges of conspiracy and forgery in presenting a fake will to Judge O'Connell. Yesterday Criminal Court Judge William V. Brothers set that indictment on the call for hearing April 22.

Cashier and Patron of Clark Street Cafe Robbed

Three masked robbers invaded the Elm cafe, 1148 North Clark street, last night and escaped with $103 in cash and a wrist watch valued at $350. The trio first took $50 from the cash register, then turned to Mrs. Jean E. Loftus, 25 years old, of 5240 Sheridan road, a patron, and saw her wrist watch. After taking that, one of the bandits said: "Give us your purse; you look like you have money." The purse yielded $53.

GEMS WORTH $185,000 RECOVERED; 2 SEIZED IN HOTEL ROBBERY

Miami Beach, Fla., March 18.—(AP)—Police tonight reported recovery of jewelry valued at $185,000, stolen from Mrs. Margaret Bell of New York by two masked robbers who invaded her suite Jan. 26 in the Miami Biltmore hotel, Coral Gables.

Nicolas Montone, 25, and Charles Call, 27, both of New York, were arrested here and charged with the robbery.

Mrs. Bell, the former Margaret Hawkesworth, ballroom dancer, and Harry Content, New York broker, were bound by the bandits. Mrs. Bell, wife of a retired New York broker, had worn the jewelry—four pearl necklaces and two rings, a bracelet, and a wrist watch, all of platinum and diamond studded—to Hialeah Park race track that afternoon.

PHI BETA KAPPA ELECTS MEMBER 51 YEARS LATE

Fifty-one years after his graduation from Northwestern university the Rev. Edmund B. Patterson of Cincinnati yesterday was elected to membership in the university chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic fraternity. The Rev. Mr. Patterson maintained a straight A average during his undergraduate years, but at that time there was no chapter of the fraternity at the university.

Undergraduates elected were: Theda Jane Childs, Mary Jane Cummings, Barbara Devine, Laura Dodge, Janet Eisenberg, Donna Finger, Evelyn Gilpatrick, Dorothy Guthrie, Helen Harlan, Gertrude Holbrook, Elizabeth Lewis, Richard Loeper, Mary Jane Mess, Jean Grace Protter, Jesse Riley, and Seymour Simon, Chicago.

Graduate students elected were Cortland Eyer and Mrs. Wilberforce Stoughton.

Eight students from Chicago and suburbs were among 63 honored by election to Phi Beta Kappa at the University of Illinois last night. They were Howard Hester, Isabel Adams, John Brown, Viola Dunbar, Wilma McBride, and Lucretia Michels, all of Chicago; Jean Armstrong, River Forest, and Grace Meier, Northbrook.

TRAP GIRL AND 3 EX-CONVICTS; 20 HOLDUPS SOLVED

A three day police vigil ended yesterday in the arrest of three former convicts from Oklahoma who have confessed twenty recent robberies in northern Indiana, and the 18 year old sweetheart of one of them.

Policemen John Killy and Joseph Barnes of the Kensington station traced a stolen automobile last Saturday to a garage at 12241 South Union avenue and arrested the garage owner, Sam Calpene, 18 years old. They captured the three ex-convicts yesterday when they called for the car.

The men identified themselves as Frank Pevlench, 22, and Collins, 22 years old, and Angelo Gengo, alias Robert Marino, 24, both of 6220 Dorchester avenue, and George Christy, 20, of 8019 Dobson avenue. At the Dobson address the police arrested Margaret Yelich, 18 years old, of Gary, who described herself as Christy's fiancée. Five pistols, a sawed-off shotgun, and several articles of jewelry were found in the men's rooms.

Christy said he and Pevlench had served terms in the Oklahoma state prison for robbery, while Marino had been in the reformatory at McAlester, Okla.

DENTAL SCHOOL OFFICIALS OPEN MEETING HERE

About 75 per cent of the people in the United States do not regularly receive dental care, some 250 administrators and faculty members of dental schools were told in the opening session of the American Association of Dental Schools at the Stevens hotel yesterday.

Using as his subject, "The Challenge of the Future," Dr. Harlan H. Horner, assistant commissioner for higher education of the New York state education department, said that twentieth century civilization needs to pause in its self applause until it finds a way to bring the benefits of modern dental science to this 75 per cent of the population.

Dr. Horner cited statistics showing that of the 21 per cent of the people who receive dental care, a large proportion go to dentists only for emergency relief from immediate pain. Of the $455,000,000 spent annually for dental care, he said, 60 per cent is from 25 per cent of the population which has incomes of $3,000 or more. The convention will continue today and tomorrow.

"RACKET" JURY INDICTS 3 MORE IN N. Y. INQUIRY

Quiz Group Hears Two Vice Crusaders.

New York, March 18.—(Special.)—The New York county grand jury investigating vice and gambling this afternoon voted three more indictments, bringing to six the total number since the inquiry began.

One charged with perjury Mrs. Mary Gallasso Siano, housekeeper for John Frendergast, who is secretary to Supreme Court Justice Leary. The other two indictments voted today were not immediately filed. It is understood they name two ball bondsmen, one of whom is charged with perjury, and the other with perjury and subornation of perjury.

Testimony Brings Charge.
Mrs. Siano is a sister of Charles Gallasso, who was arrested on a charge of selling policy slips in the Criminal Courts building. She and her sister, Mrs. Anna Frances, supplied $1,500 cash bail for his release. It was later learned that Mrs. Frances is on home relief. When questioned, she said she had got the bail money from Mrs. Siano.

The perjury of which Mrs. Siano is accused is alleged to have been committed in her testimony before the grand jury.

The Rev. George Drew Egbert and Samuel Marcus, president and counsel, respectively, of the Society for the Prevention of Crime, were before the grand jury for two hours today.

Loud, angry voices were heard in the grand jury room, and "once Mr. Marcus emerged breathless and perspiring. He dropped into a chair, where he rested 20 minutes before returning.

Dodge Reports "Progress."

District Attorney William C. Dodge, who has criticized the two crusaders for failing to produce evidence against the so-called "higher ups" in the policy racket, remained in the grand jury during the interrogation.

"Everything was harmonious; we've made considerable progress," said Mr. Dodge, denying as did Mr. Marcus that the veteran vice crusader had offered to resign from the post of special assistant district attorney to which the prosecutor named him when the inquiry began.

Waiting to be heard were J. Richard Davis, attorney to Dutch Schultz, alleged overlord of the policy racket, and Magistrate Jonah J. Goldstein, who has made numerous suggestions for the regulation of commercialized vice.

Calls Quiz "Publicity Drive."

Mayor F. H. La Guardia, asked to comment on Mr. Marcus' recent charge that the racket inquiry was "a mad scramble for publicity," said:

"I think he's right."

Reminded that Commissioner of Accounts Paul Blanshard was included in Mr. Marcus' comment, the mayor repeated his observation.

CONGRESS LOOKS AT NRA.

Gen. Johnson's successor, S. Clay Williams, has told the senate what he thinks the new NRA law should provide. He would limit the recovery administration's activities to the establishment of minimum wages, maximum hours, the prevention of child labor, and the protection of the right of collective bargaining.

This recommendation is in the right direction, but Mr. Williams seems to have overlooked the fact that if his idea prevails there will be no need for a recovery administration with 7,000 payrollers. If congress wants to restrict NRA to the matters mentioned by Mr. Williams it need only pass general laws incorporating its ideas. The federal courts and the department of justice can do the rest. The seven thousand job-holders can be sent home to find useful employment.

How vast and cumbersome that bureaucracy has become was well illustrated the other day when it was disclosed that seven weeks' time and half a dozen exchanges of letters were required before the proprietor of the Bee Hive store in New Ulm, Minn., was permitted to give one of his employees an extra half hour for lunch as her doctor had recommended. How tyrannous the bureaucracy is needs no emphasis. The case of Fred Perkins, the battery manufacturer of York, Pa., is only an outstanding example among hundreds of the cracking-down process at work.

In the first recovery act congress didn't know what it wanted to do and accordingly passed the buck to the executive. Congress provided the penalties, but gave the recovery administration, the right to describe the crimes. The scheme failed for a number of reasons, one of the most important of which was the fact that neither Gen. Johnson nor any of his associates was better able than congress to lay down general rules which would be acceptable to all the hundreds of thousands of business enterprises in the country, and, when accepted, would work. The first result of the adoption of the codes was confusion and the second and abiding result was wholesale disregard of their provisions.

Gen. Johnson has said the Blue Eagle is dead as the dodo. Mr. Williams' recommendations amount to pretty much the same thing. It remains to be seen if congress will accept these judgments, coming as they do from the two men who ought to know most about the matter. With 7,000 and more patronage jobs at stake, congress will be tempted to keep the bureaucracy even though there is no more need for it. Certainly the bureaucrats can be counted upon to press for the continuation of their jobs and salaries. Political history suggests that the bureaucrats will win.

THE VOCABULARY OF CRITICISM.

Dr. Hans Zinsner is distinguished among bacteriologists. His recent book, "Rats, Lice, and History," is among the best sellers.

Dr. Zinsner's book is about typhus fever and he has been obliged, therefore, to discuss the natural history of the louse at some length. He has had to use the word "lousy" in numerous connections. Accordingly, for the first time in their lives, some tens of thousands of earnest critics of the arts who are too young to have served their country in France have found the word used in its original meanings. "Lousy," they have learned from Dr. Zinsner's pages, is a word which has come into esthetic criticism in secondary senses. Originally it had two meanings which in their context were always readily distinguishable.

In one of these uses it means louselike. Many an actor is lousy in this sense; a poor, gray thing, without spirit, capable of arousing nothing more heroic than minor irritation. In this sense, too, almost all amateur theatricals are lousy. "Bar-nam" was a lousy movie, and all tap dancers but three are lousy.

In its other sense "lousy" means infested with lice, hence loathsome. This is a most important concept for purposes of contemporary esthetic criticism. A good many people apply the word in this sense to crooners, the plays of Eugene O'Neill, and midjet acts in vaudeville.

The chief fault with "lousy" as a word in criticism is that it has these two opposed meanings. When the critic asserts that a show at the Art Institute is lousy the listener cannot know whether the show is poor and dispirited or violently objectionable. All that can properly be concluded is that for one reason or the other the critic did not like it.

Language is failing to perform its proper function of sharp definition when the same word can be employed in opposing meanings. Perhaps the difficulty can be cleared up if "louselike" is used to qualify the insipid items like the food served in hospitals, while lousy is reserved for such infestations as the dramatic vehicles ordinarily supplied to Miss Joan Crawford.

Where "lousy" has two, but only two, disparate meanings, each with its figurative extension, "swell" as an adjective has so great a diversity of meanings that for practical purposes it has no meaning at all. Used in criticism, "swell" can convey every judgment from contempt to warmest admiration. With a little repining along the lines indicated "lousy" can continue to serve; "swell" should be abandoned as beyond repair.

AID TO RECOVERY.

A chart on the financial page the other day showed the employment status of leading industries of the country. A few are ahead of the 1923-'25 average and most of them are not far behind it. The outstanding laggard is car building. This industry, supplying equipment for steam and electric railroads, is employing barely a third as many men and women as it did a decade ago. In contrast the automobile industry is employing 107 per cent of the average numbers on the pay rolls at that time.

There is at least as great need for new, improved cars, both freight and passenger, as there is for new automobiles and motor trucks. Modern railroad equipment, almost everywhere it has been installed, has proved profitable. The streamline trains are making money. The introduction of new street car equipment in Indianapolis has made money for the company and this experience has been duplicated in New York.

All the railroads and all the local transportation companies are operating, with the fewest exceptions, with old equipment. Much of it is still serviceable in the limited sense of the word. It still runs, perhaps as well as it ever did, but the public wants more speed, less noise, and greater comfort than it now gets.

These desires are appreciated by many railroad and street car operators, but if the car building industry waits for the orders for the newer models to come in the wait may be a needlessly long one. The car builders can hasten matters by introducing the new equipment in as many places as possible on whatever credit basis can be worked out to best advantage. The new equipment will promptly prove its worth, just as the new automobile models quickly drive the old ones off the streets. A great industry will be revived for the benefit not only of those engaged in it but of the larger traveling public as well.

DECLINE OF THE SYSTEMS.

Partisans of Northwestern football should gain encouragement from the announcement of their new coach, Lynn Waldorf, that he will institute no system of football tactics, but will fit his system to his material.

If there ever was a day when the vogue for system coaching threatened to fasten a deadening ritual on football, that day is certainly past. Robert Zuppke has coached Illinois teams for twenty-two seasons, has won his share, at least, of championships, has always been a radical in football tactics when he judged that radicalism would win games, and he has stated that there is no Zuppke system, and never will be one. Clark Shaughnessy of Chicago is acknowledged by his rival coaches to be the most fertile originator of plays the Big Ten has seen in many seasons, yet no one attributes Chicago's football renaissance to a Shaughnessy system.

System coaching has been a great boon to young coaches trained under a football master. But the success of Notre Dame, greatest of the system schools, was due approximately 99 per cent to the late Knute Rockne and a bunch of valiant Irishmen named Stuhldreher and Schwartz and Savoldi, and about 1 per cent to the Notre Dame system. Rockne pupils have made fine coaches, but then Rockne always favored smart players. The coach is left on the sidelines at the kickoff. When that big tackle shifts through it makes no difference whether the half back started from a Warner wingback or a Michigan short punt formation, whether he was executing a Notre Dame shift or a rumba. He has still lost five yards.

Editorial of the Day

THE STRANGLEHOLD.

[Boone, Ia., News-Republican.]

By a vote of 5 to 4 the court has recently returned the opinion that the contract in the government's gold bonds is not binding. By a decision of 5 to 4 the court says that the congress violated its constitutional rights in abrogating the gold clause, but as the possessor of these bonds allegedly has not been hurt, nothing can be done about it.

In other words, for a concrete example. In May, 1933, the government issued over $500,000,000 in bonds promising to pay in gold, and in June the congress okayed a law that makes it illegal to possess gold. This strange proceeding has been made legal by the highest court of the land, although it administered a slap on the wrist to the legislative body for doing so, and gave it a strong hint not to do it again. Government by chicanery was given full sanction, and if it so pleases the congress, having been told it is possible to devalue the currency to 50 per cent, it can now order it devalued to 25 per cent or 1 per cent, and be within the law. Gold promises are abrogated and the monetary system can be juggled at the will of political satraps. No wonder Dissenting Judge McReynolds exclaimed, "The constitution is gone." Epitomized in more picturesque language is the conclusion of Senator Glass, prominent Democratic United States senator, who remarks: "The court said that what was written on our gold bonds was a cheat and a repudiation, but in spite of it, if a bondholder undertakes to get what is due him, he can go to hell."

Are the American people proud of this decision, or does it leave a bad taste in their mouths? Has the minority no rights which the majority is bound to respect? Will Mr. Justice Hughes, who decided the question, still be revered as a sacrosanct arbitrator? Does the government itself believe in the interpretation of its Supreme court, and if so, why did it pay the Philippines a balance of $24,000,000 to make up for the depreciation of United States currency, and why will it eventually do the same thing for Panama?

PA'S IDEA.

"Did you ever hear anything so perfectly wonderful?" exclaimed daughter as the radio ground out the last notes of the latest thing in jazz. "No," replied dad, "I can't say I have, although I once heard a collision between a truckload of empty milk cans and a freight car filled with live ducks."—Toronto Globe.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

"Tis a Long Monday, Patrick."

(Reprinted by request of half—at a rough, oh, very rough guess—the readers of "A Line o' Type or Two.")

Monday is a bad day at best. And we wrote this on Monday. You're reading this on Tuesday, but, remember, what is read on Tuesday is written on Monday. Monday is about the worst day in the week to start back to work on after a vacation. It's not merely a blue Monday; it's a deep, black-fringed purple Monday with hectic green polka dots strewn all over it. Getting back and settling down to work on Monday is one of life's bitterest experiences. But it reminds us of the story Larry Stewart told us down at Cashel of the Kings in County Tipperary when we were in Ireland. It's a true story because we went down to the Lough on the slope of Galtymore, not fifteen Irish miles from Cashel of the Kings, and we saw the black mysterious waters of the Lough and it was all just as Larry said.

"You mind," says Larry, "'Tis a true story. My old grandmother told it to me. Many's the time have I been down a-walking by Lough Dillveen on Easter Monday and I've heard the thing just as plain as you hear me now a-talking to you. And, besides, here we are sitting right here on the old ruins of Cashel of the Kings, where Brian Boru, God rest his soul, the last of a long line of Irish kings, lived in this very palace, and it isn't likely I would be telling a lie with the ghost of auld Brian Boru himself maybe sitting right behind me or a-leaning out of that auld tower a-listening most attentively to every word I tell you. Here I've lived, man and boy, for going on to fifty years, and some of those years the Black and Tans were here—a curse on them forever—and it isn't their fault that I am alive today and a-sitting here smoking me pipe on the ruins of the grand house of Brian Boru. But I'll tell you about the Black and Tans in the quiet of the little barroom of me own hotel down here in the village of Cashel."

Larry's solemnity frightened us a little bit. There we sat high up on a high hill with the majestic ruins of the old castle all about us. It was still and lonely, with only the cawing of the rooks flying in and out of the gaunt skeleton towers. And it makes anybody a little nervous to realize that what he says may be overheard by the ghost of Brian Boru, to say nothing of the long line of Irish kings.

"Maybe, Larry," we said, "it might be better if we went down to your hotel in Cashel now where Brian Boru wouldn't hear us. He might not like it."

"Be easy," says Larry: "I've sat around up here so much that me an' Brian Boru are like twin brothers. Sure, he likes to hear me a-talking so cheerful like, because I've no doubt at all, at all, that he gets a bit tired of the place now and then, what with haunting it night and day for a thousand years and more. 'Tis no easy job being a ghost what with having to live in a castle with the roofs all fallen in and the rooms all damp and covered with moss."

"But, as I was telling ye. Ye see, away back in the days of the good old St. Patrick, who went around doing kind and helpful things for every one, there lived down on the slope of the Galties just beyant a terrible wicked baste. Ah, he was bad, that baste. He roamed over the fields and spoke most polite to the people he met and asked them about their health and when they started to tell him he just opened his big, wicked mouth and swallowed them alive. Yes, he did so—me own grandmother told me. Well, the people got so afraid they just hid in their houses and didn't dare come out to work in the fields. And they sent to St. Patrick and begged him to come and rid them of this horrible baste."

"So St. Patrick came down here and he walked up the slope of Galtymore, where the terrible baste lived, and 'twas at Easter time. And the baste came out and his eyes were like great blazing balls of fire and his mouth like a red cave. But St. Patrick wasn't afraid of him. He just stood still and talked nice and kind-like to the baste. And he said the people were afraid to come out and work in the fields, and that if they didn't raise crops they would die and the land would be a desert. Ah, the baste listened to that, he did. He knew that if the land turned to a desert there'd be no more people and that he would have to go hungry. So he listened while St. Patrick said that he thought it would be nice if the baste would take a day off on Easter Monday and go down under Lough Dillveen. On Tuesday morning, the good saint promised, he'd come get him out. 'You've had a pretty good time,' said St. Patrick, 'eating people up all over the place, but 'twould be nice for you to take a good bath once in a while and let the people alone for a whole day.' Well, St. Patrick kept him a-talking and a-talking, and the big baste commenced to feel so bad that he started cryin' and he followed St. Patrick to the lake and under he went. 'But mind now,' said the baste, 'I stay down there only over Monday and then you come and take me out! But St. Patrick knew that it was best that such a murdering, destroying wicked baste should stay down in the lake and not come up any more, so he went away and never went back there again, and the wicked baste is there yet."

"Yes, he is so, and anybody that is down by the lake, on any Easter Monday that is, can hear him crying, 'Tis a long Monday, Patrick. 'Tis a long Monday, Patrick.'"

And so all day yesterday we couldn't help giving a piteous wail every now and then:

"'Tis a long Monday, Patrick."

THAT TIRED FEELING.

WOULDN'T it be fine if spare parts of the human body could be obtained from a shop? If a kidney wore out we could call a dealer, order a new one, and have a good mechanic install it. A heart showing signs of wear could be thus replaced, or perhaps a new gasket is all that would be needed.

The human body differs considerably from a man-made machine. It is made up of millions of living cells that require water, food, and certain mineral salts. These cells produce important endocrine substances, transmit nerve impulses, secrete urine, bile, manufacture blood, etc. Naturally, living cells are not everlasting, but with ordinary care and good treatment they function efficiently throughout life. In some instances living cells may be called upon for so much activity that waste products will accumulate more rapidly than they can be disposed of. Again, if parts of the body have been damaged by disease and are required to perform the same amount of work as though normal, fatigue may follow. Fatigue, in the main, is an expression of overload, faulty nutrition, inadequate rest, or insular living conditions.

Many symptoms, such as rapid heart action, sleeplessness, muscle weakness, digestive upsets, dark circles under the eyes, pallor, delayed or inaccurate mental response, may indicate fatigue. One can have no special sympathy for the person who deliberately and with malice aforethought burns his candle at both ends. The tremendous reserve which the body possesses will for a considerable time endure an excess load, but after a while nature will rebel, organize a strike, and the body's functional, and fatigue symptoms be replaced by those of actual disease.

Few of us realize how completely the proper functioning of the body is dependent upon the integrity of the nervous system. If we permit trifling difficulties to vex us and keep us "on edge," if we carry our troubles to bed with us at night, we need not wonder then "that tired feeling" appears. There are so many people who wear themselves out nervously over inconsequential troubles. They never seem to be able to acquire poise, to throw off irritations. Nervous strain, from whatever cause it may arise, probably has more to do with fatigue than all phases of overwork.

There is the fatigue of toxemia, of lack of sleep, of poor digestion and absorption of poisons from the intestine, of susceptibility to infections, and finally that of glandular origin.

The first remedy is more mental and physical rest. A friend who has large business responsibilities had a sense of fatigue that had been gradually increasing for months. A careful physical examination revealed no detectable disease. In spite of a well selected lunch he was nervously, mentally, and physically exhausted by 3 p. m. Sleeping late in the morning, arriving at his office at 10 o'clock instead of 8:30, as was his custom, failed to bring relief. Because of the nature of his duties he was obliged to make important decisions many times during the day. The remedy was found in thirty minutes to one hour.

DIVORCE DECREE.

Chicago, March 15.—Legal Friend of the People—Wife took out an absolute divorce in Minnesota (uncontested). She must wait one year in that state to marry again. The husband was here when she got it. If the husband wants to marry in Chicago, must he also wait one year in Illinois because the divorce was in Minnesota? Can the wife also marry before the year if she comes to Chicago, or any other city? J. G.

As we understand it, the decree entered in Minnesota is a final divorce decree as distinguished from the interlocutory type of decree entered in California previous to the final decree. On this assumption, and if the husband agrees that he will not object to his contracting another marriage at once.

If the wife resides in Minnesota and intends to continue to reside there a marriage contracted here during the one year period would be invalid under the marriage evasion law. The attorney who handled the divorce proceedings is in a better position to advise you than we are.

FLYING STORIES

By Test Pilot Jim Collins

AN upside down landing is one of the showiest maneuvers a stunt pilot can perform. He doesn't really land upside down. He comes all the way in in his glide upside down until he is about ten or twenty feet off the ground. Then he rolls over and lands right side up.

Jack, who had got pretty hot at this maneuver, hit a telephone pole coming in like that one day and woke up in the hospital.

Some time before that I had almost done practically the same thing. I had dived low over the field down wind at the end of show I had been putting on at a little air meet and had pulled up until I was on my back at about eight hundred feet. I decided I would not only glide in upside down but would make it really fancy and slip both ways in the glide. I started to slip, but I forgot that it was the same as I would have had I been right side up, and produced a bank instead. No, no, I told myself, coordinate, don't cross controls. There, I tried one to the other side. That's what I told myself. I got so absorbed in this little maneuver that I completely forgot the ground until I was almost too low and too slow to turn right side up again. I actually missed the ground by inches as I rolled over, and only some kind fate presiding over absent minded stunt pilots enabled me to do it then.

I saw Jack in the hospital, when he was well enough.

"Hey, Jack," I started kidding him. "I hear that you practiced upside down landings for months, and that finally you made one. Is there any truth to that?"

He clamped his jaws, but grinned back at me. "That's all right," he said, "but if I remember correctly, I saw a pilot by the name of Jimmy Collins just miss landing upside down once."

"Yeah, Jack," I said, "but—" I hesitated. This was too good not to emphasize. "But I missed," I said. Jack just glared at me. There wasn't any answer.

PROPAGANDA.

Chicago, March 15.—It is odd to hear Mr. Roosevelt castigate as propaganda the utility holding companies' efforts to save their very life's blood when it is remembered that his various enlarged departments have hired scores of expert writers to put out fanciful stories explaining unpardonable phases of things which they are backing up. In the face of this propaganda we see a statement of Lewis Douglas—who was too sound to remain on the magic carpet—that if the spending continues the effect must be catastrophic. We see the statement of the lovely Justice McReynolds of the United States Supreme court in connection with the gold clause: "Loss of reputation for honorable dealing will bring us unending humiliation." Space does not permit the recitation of thousands of similar indictments.

In considering the merits of utility holding companies it does not seem possible that any can be as bad as painted, but presuming they are, for the sake of argument, would any thinking man substitute political control for private management which, after all, survives or falls eventually on results and is not forever entrenched as with destructive government agencies?

Does any thinking man believe that 45 years of regulation by the interstate commerce commission has helped the railroads? Does he believe that the infant securities exchange commission, of which Mr. Roosevelt is so proud, will be able to prevent people from losing their money? Did the nation-wide government supervision and inspection of banks prevent the closing of every bank in the United States in March, 1933?

CONCENTRATION IN CLASS.

Columbus, Ga., March 14.—High schools have study halls where a teacher presides to keep quiet in order that the students may concentrate on their work.

In homes, libraries are placed in secluded parts of the house where one can read and study without interruption. In public libraries notices read, "Quiet, Please!"

Why is it that the grammar schools over the country within the last fifteen or twenty years have divided their grades into two sections with recitations going on at all times. A section studying while B section recites and B section studying while A section recites?

I am told this teaches children concentration. But, most likely, this accounts for the increasing nervous ailments—mental and bodily—among the American youth—causing criminal tendencies.

CLEANING THE CLEANERS.

Des Moines, Ia., March 15.—In your issue of March 12 you published an editorial, "An Industry of Lawbreakers," and seriously indicted that industry as it operates in the city of Chicago.

Without going into a discussion of the facts as it relates to the business in Chicago, let us assume for the purpose of argument that everything you say is true and that the industry is guilty as charged. Then let us ask the question, What can we do about it?

There is no law on the statute books of Iowa to prevent one dry cleaner destroying himself and his competitor at the same time by ruinous price cutting. There is nothing to prevent an unscrupulous operator conducting a sweatshop and putting a decent, fair minded operator, willing to pay a living wage and work decent hours, out of business by continually underselling him.

A code of business ethics will be voluntarily complied with only until such time as compliance hurts and then the code of ethics goes into the ash can.

A code (not necessarily the code) to set up standards of practice was vigorously opposed by cleaners who object to any regulation except their own kind of regulation, and they were joined in that opposition by many others, among them being your own powerful newspaper.

Most of the cleaners and dyers of the state of Iowa would welcome a set of rules by which they could operate and would be glad to see the code of ethics as approved by the federal trade commission several years ago for the cleaning and dyeing trade made a part of the statutes and enforceable in the courts, but how to get it done is the question.

A preponderant majority of the cleaners and dyers are self-respecting, law abiding citizens who only wish for an opportunity to conduct their businesses along legitimate business lines and are living in constant fear of the destruction of their business, which in most instances represents all their tangible assets as well as their means of livelihood.

How can these people be protected against the racketeer and against the racketeering methods which you so vigorously protest? You, among others, would vigorously protest any protection under a code because the word "code" is disagreeable to you. What other form of legislation could be made to apply?

I was employed a year ago by the cleaners and dyers of Iowa to help them stabilize their business within this state and I have given good deal of study to the matter and I can't see any answer to it and so I am writing to you thinking perhaps you know the answer. Your editorial gives one answer, but it isn't the right answer because you know perfectly well that the public will not and cannot do their own dry cleaning.

There must be some other answer. What is that answer unless it is code of fair competition, and, if that is the answer, how can we get it?

E. R. STOTTS,

PLANNED UNEMPLOYMENT.

Monmouth, Ill., March 14.—The closing paragraphs of your recent editorial, "Planned Unemployment," are unfair to land owning farmers and greatly misrepresent effects of crop control on tenants and farm hands in the corn belt.

Almost one-half of the farms in the more fertile parts of the corn belt are farmed by tenants, mostly on a crop share rental basis, where both the landlord and tenant must sign up to take advantage of the crop control plan. Where one refuses it is usually the landowner. Individually the landlord does not get as high a return from land taken out of production as he would if it produced corn or wheat, and he is often conservative and opposed to the New Deal. Tenant farmers are apt to be younger, more progressive, and desperately in need of higher prices to provide the necessities of life for a growing family.

The percentage of crop reduction is so small that it is rare that fewer men are employed on a farm on that account, and farm hand wages have increased since farm prices have risen.

Men are, it is true, being laid off at the stockyards on account of fewer hogs. Lighter receipts of hogs are caused as much by the fact that lightweight pigs were forced to market by the drought last summer as by hogs being slaughtered and production control. The pigs slaughtered would have been on the market last year when there was a big surplus without them, and not this year, as your editorial infers.

It is also true that men have been put to work by the hundreds in tractor, automobile, and other factories to supply the demands brought about by better farm prices.

ELVIN T. GODDARD.

ASK FARLEY.

Chicago, March 12.—The New Deal has dealt the forgotten men of the postoffice department another raw deal.

The subcarriers have been laid off since March 1 until further notice. Last year they were laid off for three months. Mr. Farley gave us a $12,000,000 "surplus."

In the Congressional Record I read that 705 subs are filling regular positions, but are being paid as subs. Why aren't they appointed regular carriers? Will some one tell me why the subcarriers must be the only ones to make a postoffice "surplus" possible?

NONSUB.

AMENDMENT.

Newton, Ill., March 16.—I see in your Springfield dispatch that the house welfare committee has reported out favorably a bill to sterilize mental defectives in the state institutions. I have no doubt the bill will pass and become a law, but I think it should be amended. The amendment should specifically provide that the Illinois legislature be included among state institutions.

DRAFT COUNCIL BATTLE ON NEW AIR BILL TODAY

Hope to Avert Crippling of City Plane Service.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

A special meeting of the city council's committee on recreation and aviation will be held this afternoon to study proposed amendments to the federal air mail laws which would limit commercial flying at the Chicago airport and definitely imperil the city's position as a great air center.

Call for the meeting went out yesterday after Ald. John E. Egan (13th), chairman of the committee, had conferred with Mayor Kelly on possible results of passage of the pending Mead bill by congress. Air line representatives and Chicago business heads who contend that Chicago's existing air line services will be seriously impaired if the bill is passed, inspired the meeting.

Means Elimination of 9 Trips.

Nine regularly scheduled trips over four airway routes leading to the southwest and south from Chicago would be eliminated by the proposed legislation, it is charged. The danger to Chicago's position as an aviation center, according to these advocates, lies in paragraph 15 of the proposed bill which reads: "... after June 30, 1935, no air mail contractor shall be allowed to maintain passenger or express service off the line of his air mail route which in any way competes with passenger or express service upon another air mail route."

At yesterday's conference Ald. Egan suggested that the city should take formal action opposing this legislation and send telegrams to all Illinois senators and congressmen demanding an active campaign against section 15 of the bill.

Asks Attendance of Leaders.

Mayor Kelly directed Ald. Egan to call today's meeting and invite representatives of civic organizations to attend. An effort will be made to examine the proposed bill in detail and to suggest changes which will eliminate the damaging paragraph. The attitudes of the air line involved will be obtained from officials who have been asked to be present.

An examination of the air line web converging at Chicago disclosed last evening that American Airlines, Braniff Airways, Chicago and Southern Air Lines, Eastern Airlines, Transcontinental Western Air, and United Airlines all will be involved in the tangle if the bill becomes law.

PLANES TO LINK NOME AND CITY IN 3½ DAY TRIPS

Scheduled airline operations over the northernmost airways in the world will begin on April 2, when planes of the Pacific Alaska Airways, a subsidiary of Pan-American Airways system, will inaugurate flights which bring Nome within three and a half day's journey of Chicago via Seattle. At present Seattle is 37 days from Nome by steamer.

With the beginning of the scheduled flight operations the "barnstorming" type of airplane transportation in Alaska virtually will vanish. In the past pilots, usually flying their own airplanes, have operated what has been considered a "taxi service." Passengers, supplies and mail have been carried by the barnstormers for nearly ten years.

By 1932 several small air transport companies which had developed transferred their holdings to Pan-American Airways, but active service was not immediately begun. During the three year interval radio and meteorological stations have been constructed along all the routes which now will be flown. Terminal fields and intermediate landing airports have been constructed and improved. Most of the veteran pilots have been enlisted for the Pacific Alaska Airways.

PHONE COMPANY REPAY $34,000 TO CITY IN FEES

Mayor Kelly announced yesterday that the city has received a check for $34,000 from the Illinois Bell Telephone company, making a total of $314,198 repaid for fees and expenses advanced in the telephone rate case. This is in conformity with the United States Supreme court ruling last June requiring the company to refund nearly $30,000,000 to 400,000 coin box subscribers and to reimburse the city for costs of eleven years of litigation of the case.

The telephone company began last summer and the company repaid to the city $279,590 which had been advanced to Attorneys Benjamin F. Goldstein, George I. Haight, and Edmund D. Adcock for their services and expenses in the rate case.

ON VISIT HERE

MAURICE CHEVALIER.

Maurice Chevalier of Hollywood fame passed through Chicago on his way from Hollywood to New York, where he will sail for Cannes, France. As he took a stroll through the loop he explained his recent disagreement with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. "They want me to laugh, to play all the time," he said. "What I want is something different. I told them I wanted parts like in my last picture, 'Folies Bergere.'" He plans to stay in Cannes, he said, until some producer gives him the kind of part he wants.

DUKE IN COURT TO ANSWER FOR RUBBER CHECKS

Second Appearance of Manchester Lord.

BY JOHN STEELE.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

LONDON, March 18.—William Angus Drogo Montagu, the ninth duke of Manchester, stood in the criminal dock today at Westminster police court on two charges of fraud by checks. He was remanded after a bare statement of the charges on $1250 bail and will appear again Friday, when the details of the charges will be gone into.

If the court finds a prima facie case the duke will be sent for trial to Old Bailey. This is not the first time this most noble of dukes has stood in the criminal dock. In 1916 he was charged at Bow street police court with obtaining three carpets worth $225, paying for them with a dishonored check and not disclosing the fact that he was an undischarged bankrupt.

He was held for trial in London sessions, but was acquitted there on the testimony of two actresses that they had heard him say he was bankrupt. The charge this time is obtaining two sums of $2,000 and $1,250 by false pretenses with intent to defraud from two men who now are dead. They were Thomas Miller Sutter, head of London's greatest pawnbroking firm, and Walter Mathew Lawler, his manager. The duke twice has been bankrupt and has been involved in innumerable civil suits.

The duke, whose mother was the famous New York beauty, Consuela Yznaga, married, as his first wife, Helena Zimmerman of Cincinnati. She divorced him in 1931. The same year he married Katherine Dawes, London actress.

The duke's second son, Lord Edward Montagu, lately has been figuring in the public eye as well. After a checkered career in America he recently attempted to serve with the French Foreign legion, but fell downstairs and was invalided out before he had time to do any fighting.

Kidnap and Rob Operator of Gasoline Station Chain

Harry L. Beck, 5815 Winthrop avenue, owner of a chain of gasoline stations throughout the city, was kidnaped by two men at Diversey and Southport avenue yesterday and robbed of $300, his watch, and automobile. The bandits put him out of his car in Westchester. Beck telephoned to his office at 640 Lake Shore drive for another car.

CITY COURT STAFF WINS $510,000 FOR ITS PAYLESS DAYS

A writ of mandamus ordering the mayor and the city council to pay $510,000 in back salaries of 700 deputy clerks and bailiffs of the Municipal court was issued yesterday by Superior Judge James J. Kelly. The employees are demanding $750,000 for deductions from their salaries under the city's economy program in 1932, 1933, and 1934.

In his decision Judge Kelly allowed reimbursement for 25 days' pay deducted in 1932, 30 days in 1933, and 32 days in 1934. The court scaled down the requests for 75 days' pay for 1933 on the ground that the judges of the Municipal court had concurred by resolution in the deduction of 45 days from their salaries for the year.

Whether the city will appeal the decision has not been decided, according to Joseph F. Grossman, first assistant corporation counsel. Even if an appeal is not taken it was regarded as unlikely that the back salaries would be paid for several months, inasmuch as no appropriation for the payments is included in the 1935 city budget.

FORT SHERIDAN TO HOLD REVIEW FOR CLUVERIUS

The first review of Fort Sheridan troops in 1935, to which the public is invited, will be held at 3 p. m. tomorrow, it was announced yesterday by Lieut. Suratt T. Harries.

It will be in honor of Rear Admiral Wat T. Cluverius, retiring commandant of the Ninth naval district, who will leave March 26 for San Pedro, Cal., to take command of the base force for the Pacific fleet.

Brig. Gen. Dana T. Merrill, who took command of the post March 1, will review 1,200 men and 125 officers from the stand in front of the post headquarters. With him will be Maj. Gen. Frank McCoy, commander of the Sixth corps area; WA 13 gun salute will be fired for Rear Admiral Cluverius when he is escorted to the stand. An informal tea will be held after the review in the quarters of Brig. Gen. Merrill.

RELIEF CLIENT ORDERED INTO ALIMONY CELL

Superior Judge Joseph B. David removed Phillip Duggan, 45 years old, of Aurora, from the relief rolls yesterday by committing him to alimony row in the county jail. Duggan had failed to make payments on $1,980 support money which he owes to his divorced wife, now Mrs. Irene Stetani of Ottawa.

Duggan informed the court he couldn't pay, inasmuch as he is a relief client. "If that's true," Mrs. Duggan said, "it's because he quit his job as manager of Expedition park in Aurora to avoid paying $15 a week for the support of our three children. Judge David then ordered Duggan to jail."

The support money payments were ordered when Duggan was granted a divorce in the Superior court here in 1925.

FOUND HANGED IN SUPPLY YARD.

The body of Emil Bunn, 47 years old, was found hanging yesterday in the supply yard of the Miller Supply company where he had been employed as a laborer.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

An unseen but potent contributor to her perfection is a new perfume, a languorous but not heavy fragrance recently introduced by a great house.

It isn't often that an announcement of a new product throws us into a fever of excitement. Such things pop up in our mail every day of the year, we cease to palpitate a long time ago, or thought we did. We were surprised to find that we could still get excited about a new beauty aid a week or so ago, when we received word from one of the greatest of French perfumers that they were bringing out a new scent.

There are products created and packaged in France and their perfumes are among the finest in the world. You undoubtedly know of them. Personally, we are mad about most of them.

And for this new one we'd toss in all our other worldly possessions. It's heavenly... a languorous, though not heavy perfume that is completely different. The most feminine woman can wear it; it will accent her femininity and at the same time impart a subtle dash that is needed for smartness.

The sophisticated can wear it, too, and will undoubtedly like it. While it is definitely on the romantic order, it isn't at all lacking in sparkle.

Since this is a perfume of the highest quality, it lasts well and one drop of it is as efficient as a half pint of one with a more ephemeral fragrance. Perhaps it's because of this last factor that sniffing it out of the bottle isn't at all the way to test it—it seems sharp because it is so concentrated. Instead, rub a drop into the back of your hand, pause a minute and let its subtle and exciting fragrance waft up to you. What the actual scent is we couldn't say. We thought jasmine was the most distinct, but three others had three different guesses. But all four of us agreed that the new perfume was a success.

New Hosiery Tints to Adorn Girls' Ankles

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Another gentle jog about new hosiery shades! There are some enticing new tones that will decorate the best ankles on the street and boulevard. The most spectacular, called chamais, a butter yellow, rather brighter than the chamais yellow tones of all the popular gloves, belts, and hats of this shade. On the instep it will be fine for warm spring weather with dark blue and black clothes, but you will have to wait for plenty of sunshine.

A stunning new gray shade is called maltose—yes, just the shade of a gray maltose cat, or the rather sinister sheen of a pistol, with enough blue in the shadows to make it a perfect find for all the varying gray suits and coats. It's plenty dark, and quite the surprise shade of gray. Another shade called topaz goes with black, this topaz is the color of a bright new penny, glowing and tremendously effective with black and some of the deep gingery browns and later with all white outfits.

If you have protested about the price of hosiery, you can now buy without the grumbling, for in this same shop are some new spring numbers just in time to go places with your new tweed and wool spectator or active sports clothes that are amazingly good to look at and with price marks that will make you open your eyes. Two grand patterns of well wearing lace designs are available. Some interesting lace effects come in the silk hose, exquisitely fine and dainty in lots of good deep blues and flesh shades. Another lively evening shade is called sungold and goes with gay colorful printed silks and nets and pastel chiffons. A very French shade for evening is called coral, a rose coral effect combined with flesh.

Sports socks in white or pastels are well worth shopping for now, as they are going fast. You'll find them in smooth featherweight lilies and some fuzzy textures for contrast with your rough tweeds and wool sport clothes. All colors are clear and bright, with blue and yellow going out as favorites.

Miss Martha Jenkins to Be Summer Bride

Engagement to Hamilton Noyes Announced.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE thoughts of Miss Martha Williams Jenkins, who will be graduated from Smith college this June, will not be entirely upon studies and graduation festivities during the rest of the school year, for her engagement to be married is being announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Austin Dickinson Jenkins of 780 Rosewood avenue, Hubbard Woods, and a summer wedding is in prospect. Her fiancé is Hamilton Noyes, son of Mrs. May Wells Noyes of 850 Hill road, Winnetka.

Miss Jenkins, usually called "Patty" by her family and friends, made her debut at a tea at home in the autumn of her sophomore year in college. Her younger sister, Anne, who took part in the debutante festivities of the last season, also is a student at Smith. Anne will arrive at home Thursday, but Miss Martha already is here. Both girls prepared for college at the North Shore Country Day school.

Jane Schuttler Will Be Bride in May.

The Walter Schuttler family, which two years ago this spring was busy with plans for a May wedding, is again with similar plans this year. It is Miss Jane Schuttler who will be the bride this spring and she is being married to George R. Beach Jr., whom she met at the wedding of her sister Anne to Norris Love on May 6, 1933.

Miss Jane, better known as "Dee Dee," was her sister's only attendant and Mr. Beach, who comes from Montclair, N. J., was the best man.

At the wedding this May Mrs. Love will attend her sister as matron of honor and Mr. Love will serve as Mr. Beach's best man. His sister, Miss Katherine Beach, will be the bride's other attendant. The wedding is to take place at the summer home of the Schuttlers in Wheaton on Saturday, May 25.

Mr. Beach and his bride plan to spend the summer in the Montclair home of his parents, but in the fall they will take an apartment in New York City.

Winnetka Club Holds Hobby Show Today.

Some time between 10 o'clock this morning and the same hour this evening practically every Winnetka resident is planning to visit the village Woman's club to see how his next door neighbor spends his leisure hours.

The club, which has Mrs. Ernest A. Ballard for its president, is holding its annual arts and crafts exhibit or hobby show and presenting everything from intricate battleship models to exquisite needlepoint chairs.

Two of the needlepoint chairs are the work of Mrs. Clark J. Lawrence, who finds interesting relaxation in her needlework. A battleship model has been built and is being exhibited by Alfred Freeman, who with A. Ballard Bradley agrees that ship modeling is a fascinating "after hours" occupation.

Mr. Bradley, whose entries are always among the highlights of the show, is exhibiting two racing models that every schoolboy will look upon with envy. The entire Bradley family also is listed for an exhibit. This is a puppet show that Mr. and Mrs. Bradley and their children have created with the puppets portraying characters from Dickens' novels.

An entry that guests are sure to examine with more than a passing glance is the bookbinding of Mrs. Perry Dunlap Smith. She has made an intensive study of the art over a period of years and now is presenting some stunning volumes in handsome leather covers.

Still more exhibits to be reviewed today are a screen made of old Japanese floral prints, the work of Benjamin K. Smith; two wooden dolls with which Mrs. Anita Willetts Frankham took a ribbon at the Art institute, and pastel portraits by Mrs. Frank W. Ketcham. The oil paintings that Allen E. Philbrick likes to do in his leisure hours will be hung and so will the water colors of Mrs. Hazel Crew Ewell.

Mrs. Foster Hannaford, as chairman of the art committee of the Woman's club, is in charge of the exhibit. The Junior Auxiliary of the club announces that it is to have an arts and crafts exhibit a week from today at the clubhouse.

Party to Enjoy Trip to Bermuda.

Mrs. Byron S. Harvey and Miss Peggy Hamilton left yesterday morning for New York, where they will meet the John R. Winterbushs.

Good Morning!

Will Rogers' lucky star is in the ascendant! No two ways about it! Picture after picture of his has been proving a bell ringer. Comes "Life Begins at 40" to swell the procession of successes!

As a homespun country editor he has the time of his life in this opus. His horny finger is in every pie—politics, romance, justice. He even takes a poke at hog calling and, from start to finish of the movie, has just one darned, good time.

The piece is replete with laughable situations and nippy with Rogers' witticisms. The quiet wings of pathos brush it now and then with disarmingly softening effect. Acting, direction, and settings are superb.

While Mr. Rogers is, of course, the big white light, there's plenty of glow in the players who surround him. George Barbier, who plays his enemy, is one of the grandest veteran actors extant. Jane Darwell, as Miss Ida, who lives next door and watches over, bosses, and, you know, entertains a sentimental attachment for the hero, who you are QUITE as certain, would be a lost chord without Miss Ida, in comfortable proximity, is a peach. Rochelle Hudson and Richard Cromwell handle the love interest pleasantly.

So—get out the old bus, pile the family in and roll down to the Chicago for one grand, good time.

See you tomorrow.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Here is a new and young company, presenting a musical play so old that it has become new and young all over again. On both counts the attraction at the Auditorium demanded and received interested attention in its first performance last night.

"La Vie Parisienne" is a tale of Paris in the time of the second empire. Its plot is merely something to hang events upon, the tale of a graceful young scamp who meets a Swedish baron and baroness at a railway station and volunteers to be their guide and show them the sights of Paris. Most of the sights are there upon improvised on the spur of the moment, with the aid of friends and servants hastily impressed into duty.

This is the sort of thing that may mean everything or nothing, depending upon how it is done. In this case it means a lot of gay, high spirited, frothy entertainment, with possible improbabilities hinted at and not expressed, all in the spirit of good, clean fun.

To it comes the accompaniment of Offenbach's music, as gay, high spirited and frothy as the book, fast moving, uncomplex, with over and over again a line of witty scoring and memorable melody to give it point.

It is something for which you should dismiss all memories of jazz music and floor shows in favor of the Parisian ancestor, and go back to a time when never were there such beautiful maid servants and when the railway stations were constantly inhabited by the brilliantly costumed natives of most of the nations of Europe and some of Asia.

It is the youth of the company that helps quite as much as even Offenbach's music to project the show and make an entertainment out of it. Offenbach wrote the music of youth, and youth should always sing and dance it. Wherefore you will find that Miss Bodansky is quite an ideal of what a singing comedy should be, one who goes to the point of extravagance in her fun making, and yet conquers everything through a lovely voice and young grace.

Likewise you will have a good time during the ballet, a sort of black and white Polka Bergeuse affair, with lively new evolutions, and music that seems to be the ancestor of all whoopee music. And you will find some good singing by Mr. Messinger and Mr. Brownell, some more with the addition of uncommon good looks by Miss Hopple and Miss Allen, some amusing comedy by Mr. Colacore, and a quite astonishing ability on all sides to project the English language in a large theater.

Over it all presides the Wagnerian Dr. Knoch, conducting with all the spirit ever known.

CHILD WONDER

Meanwhile there were two piano recitals, one of them by that amazing youngster, Ruth Slenczynski, at Orchestra hall. One hearing of her and you promptly run out of adjectives, for none seems to fit the case with any degree of completeness. This chubby little ten-year-old looks at first sight like a little girl that one could play dolls with, but get her up to the piano, propped so that she can reach the keys and pedals at the same time, and she becomes not only a child wonder but a musician before whom you feel like bowing.

THEN there is the airplane pilot who flies a mail plane from Chicago to St. Louis and from St. Louis to Texas. He always made excellent time on the trip from Chicago to St. Louis, but invariably was late setting down at the Texas airport after the trip from St. Louis. An investigation disclosed that the fellow got unbearably bored on the St. Louis-Texas trip. So he looped the loop all the way.

PERHAPS Alexander Woolcott, who is in town and who is speaking at Mandel hall at the University of Chicago tomorrow evening, knows it and perhaps he doesn't, but the Indian agent in Chicago from 1920 to 1930 was Dr. Alexander Woolcott. He was a native of East Windsor, Conn., and he lived at the agency house at what is now State street and the river.

During his bachelor years the agency house was known as "Cobweb Castle" and every bit as good a name as Wile's End, too. For some years after his death the street on which the house was situated was called Woolcott street. In 1923 Alexander Woolcott married Ellen Martin, eldest daughter of John Kinzie, and the first white child born in Chicago.

THERE is perhaps no relation between the present day bearer of the name with the doubled letters and the Indian agent of Chicago's early days. But one wonders, particularly after reading a part of a letter sent by Woolcott to Gov. Cass regarding the language and customs of the Potawatamies:

"The only prominent trait in their character is their universal and insatiable love of ardent spirits, and that is common to all tribes who are so lucky as to live in a state of frequent intercourse with the white man."

Is or is there not a slightly Woolcottian tinge to those lines?

SPEAKING of America's present day troubador, this probably is the time to repeat a little witticism of his own, one that the paragraph printed in this space the other day about Margaret Ayer Barnes and the club lady called to his mind. The club lady—you may remember—came up to Mrs. Barnes after a lecture and confided that she had a friend who knew Mr. Woolcott, and Dorothy Parker, too. She had even heard their conversation. Awfully risque it was, she added, dropping her voice a little.

Mr. Woolcott said her description reminded him of a sketch he wrote for Al Woods years ago at the time his bedroom comedies were flourishing. It was, "Nothing risque—nothing gained."

THERE were many complimentary comments about John T. McCutcheon's joyous St. Patrick's day cartoon in Sunday's TRIBUNE, showing an Irish featured nymph painting the leaves of the tree green. But there was a pious old Irish lady in Waukegan who disapproved. We quote her verbatim:

"O, God bless us! What's the world coming to? she exclaimed in shocked surprise when she saw the picture. 'Spring out in her pet on a March day and nothing between her and nakedness but a bit of muslin thrown over her lap. No wonder the pope is distracted with nudity.'"

Composer as well as virtuoso and teacher, he introduced a fairly elaborate group of his own works, but before this he had played the Beethoven Sonata, opus 109, the first sustained tone in Chopin Ballade, and the same Chopin sonata that little Miss Slenczynski was playing about the same time.

The thing that one admires most about Mr. Levy's playing is its nobility of utterance. His firm, sustained tone is enough to indicate the fact that he is a serious musician, but this fact is amplified by means of his thoughtful though warmly imaginative manner of interpretation. His recitals, few, but each one is worth the time.

is positively incredible. The Chopin Sonata that contains the Funeral March is just part of the day's routine with her, so are the Beethoven Thirty-two Variations, and so are any number of other brilliant and difficult piano pieces.

And though it is sometimes said that it is necessary to grow up in order to interpret music properly, this unbelievable young person becomes a little more unbelievable because of the real, artistic imagination that she displays. All she needs to do is to grow up in the way she has started, and there will be a new genius of the keyboard, and probably with few competitors.

LEVY RECITAL

The other recital was given by one of Chopin's learners and greatly admired pedagogues of the piano, Hanot Levy, who appeared at Kimball hall.

SYNOPSIS.

Sarah MacNeil, young American living in London, accepts a post as traveling companion to Miss Venables, English aristocrat, who has been receiving letters that cannot be traced threatening her life. Miss Venables spends most of the year at St. Brigid's, a small resort in southern France. Her nephew, Harry, is to join her there soon. With Miss Venables in London is her widowed sister-in-law, Mrs. Mark Venables, Harry's stepmother. She is in poor health and Miss Venables has Dr. Gilcrest, her St. Brigid's physician, who is visiting in London, prescribe for her. Dr. Gilcrest sends Sarah with good wishes, though she and Harry immediately become friends. That night Mrs. Venables dies. Her death is attributed to natural causes. On the way to St. Brigid's, Miss Venables tells Sarah that the death threats began after her friend, Maj. Frampton, was killed in a fall down an elevator shaft. She believes he was murdered. She and the major were both threatened by two oriental drug sellers they had had presented. The Venables' particular friends in St. Brigid's, besides Dr. Gilcrest, are the Baron and Baroness de Bellevue, Beryl Tomlinson, town librarian and harmless gossip, and a few old residents of the resort hotel. Sarah rather than Dr. Gilcrest is in love with the baroness. Harry arrives. The evil looking gardener of the de Bellevues arouses Sarah's suspicion. Beryl Tomlinson dies suddenly. She had just had a prescription of Dr. Gilcrest's filled by his dispenser, Marjorie Burrows. Sarah had received capsules for Miss Venables at the same time. Dr. Gilcrest states that her death was caused by an intestinal hemorrhage. Miss Venables receives another threatening letter telling her she has no more day to live. The fatal day comes. Harry is on a visit to Monte Carlo. The baroness has gone to Arles for the day. Mrs. Cripps, Beryl Tomlinson's sister, has tea with Miss Venables.

INSTALLMENT XXXII THE FATAL DAY.

The gale whistled, always on the same high note. Mrs. Cripps blew her nose, swallowed nervously, and gave a gasping response.

"I never heard of it before. I—I wrote the name down." Fumbling in her bag, she fished up a bit of paper and recited haltingly, "Mesenteric thrombosis. . . That's what he called it. We—we've only the one man's word for it, you know. No time for a consultation. What I mean is, can we be quite sure she did die of this mesenteric what's it is?"

Sarah eyed her attentively. Miss Venables, slightly stiffening, set down her cup.

"Dr. Gilcrest is too experienced to make mistakes," she declared in a polite but distant tone. "Have you any reason to feel dissatisfied with his diagnosis?"

"Not—not exactly. That is, I do know quite well how highly he's thought of amongst you all. Beryl had perfect belief in him—and it's true, I suppose, that he did her a lot of good before this?"

"A vast amount of good! She became a different creature. But you seem troubled about something. May one ask what it is?"

"I—I hardly like to mention it. . . but," with another gasp, "I feel

Don't Force a Child to Walk at Early Age

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"He's a 'forward' child," said his mother, meaning of course advanced for his years. "He walked at eight months," she said, and her voice was full of pride.

Since your Jeanette didn't walk until she was 14 months old and Joey didn't really navigate capably until he was 17 months old, do you keep rather quiet—or feel a little inferior?

Well, don't.

If your small one seems slow in his wobbly lumberings from chair to chair, with frequent collapses as if he were a sack of coal dumped suddenly and unexpectedly on the floor, don't urge him to more rapid accomplishment. Don't coax him or support him. In a word, don't hurry your child in his efforts to walk. Let him alone.

Let him do his learning according to the natural laws of his individual development. Each child has his own rate of speed. Nature knows what it is, but you don't. To be sure, an observing mother may discover, after a while, certain things about her own child's tempo—but she should also discover at the same time that she must not interfere with it.

She may, for instance, notice that her child's growth has an uneven rhythm—as in his gaining of weight or his upward growth. Or she may notice that she is "forward" phys-

Sauerkraut Aid to Appetite in Spring Meals

Cooking Editor Offers New Recipes.

BY MARY MEADE.

It's been some little time since we last voiced our always abundant enthusiasm on the subject of sauerkraut. Just be patient, please, for as soon as this little outburst is finished we'll try to curb the instinct for another few months.

Sauerkraut really is something about which to do a little serious thinking these days, however. It has a sharp, tangy appeal for laggard appetites [much more pleasant, too, than sulphur and molasses, for one thing]. Then, too, these last favorite sauerkraut recipes of ours fit in nicely with the general theme of Lenten meals.

Here they are, these very fine mild dishes, equipped to face the waiting world at luncheon, or as the backbone of meatless dinners. The first is, of all things, an omelet!

Sauerkraut Omelet.
4 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup sauerkraut
2 eggs, separated
7 cups sauerkraut
1 teaspoon lemon juice

Melt the butter or margarine, add the flour, and cook slowly for about one minute. Add the milk and sauerkraut, stirring constantly, and cook until the mixture is smooth and thick. Stir in the sauerkraut and unseasoned egg yolks, mix well, and fold into the stiffly beaten egg whites. Add the lemon juice, pour into a buttered omelet pan or large skillet, and cook either on top of the stove or in the oven until slightly browned on the bottom and cooked through (but not dry). Fold and serve immediately.

An unusual scalloped dish is this next pet, with potatoes (leftover ones if you like) and peanuts vying with the sauerkraut for their share of applause.

Scalloped Sauerkraut with Potatoes and Peanuts.
1/2 cup chopped peanuts
1/2 cup bread crumbs
2 cups sauerkraut
2 cups sliced cold cooked potatoes
1 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon paprika

Mix the nuts and bread crumbs together and sprinkle in a shallow layer in a greased baking dish. Then add a layer of sauerkraut, a layer of sliced potatoes, and repeat until the dish is full (for you're run out of things), finishing with nuts and crumbs on top. Pour over this the milk, to which the salt and paprika have been added, and bake in a moderate oven for 30 to 40 minutes.

Foods that boast the name "smoothie" usually turn out to be mighty fine, don't you think? That's why we tried this next one, but it's not the only reason we're passing it along, by any means.

Smoothed Sauerkraut.
1/2 cup sliced onions
3 cups sauerkraut
3 tablespoons flour
1 tablespoon powdered mustard
1/2 teaspoon paprika
2 tablespoons fat
1/2 cup water

Add the sliced onions to the sauerkraut. Then melt the four, mustard and paprika with the melted fat, brown slowly, and add the water slowly, stirring constantly. Cook slowly until thickened, then remove from the heat and add the lemon juice. Pour this mixture over the sauerkraut and onions, cover, and allow to simmer slowly and gently for a half hour. Chanel Ties Her Simple Print Frocks for Afternoons with Bright Ribbons

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. (Special.)—Chanel, who is looking brighter and more vivacious than ever these days, with the handsomely Paul Irie hovering behind her protectively, is showing a collection that is sweetly tied up with ribbon in the old-fashioned, girlish way. The famous little lady is going to be married, and her collection reflects her mood of happiness. Irie designs her prints. The one used for the ribbon bound model in our sketch has columns of shadowy leaves in pastel colors rising from the hem to the neckline. The background is ivory colored. The frock is tied with soft blue ribbons that are laced around the waistline and the neck and ties in soft bows at the front.

Ms. Chanel herself wears this dress sometimes, and with her dark hair in curls across her forehead she looks like a debutante, and not in the least like a lady who has earned five million a year and refused dukes and princes as consorts to her kingdom. I ask you particularly to observe the width in the skirt of this dress. Skirts, my dears, are inflating for daytime, and though you may scorn this width today, you'll come to it. Wide daytime skirts—and somewhat shorter ones—are on the way.

Grace Moore's Musical Movie Has 5 Bosses

Hollywood Wonders How They'll Get Along.

BY GEORGE SHAFER.

Hollywood, Cal., March 18.—[Special.]—The question at Columbia studio where Grace Moore is starting a new musical starring vehicle, is: Who is going to tell whom what to do? Victor Scherzinger, directed Miss Moore's last one, "One Night of Love," and the popularity and money it made are now movie history. For the new one they haven't yet been able to agree on a title and Harry Cohn, head of the film plant, has engaged Gaetano Merola of the San Francisco Opera company to conduct the orchestra while Mr. Victor Scherzinger has been engaged to act as singing advisor and voice instructor. Maratelli is Miss Moore's personal voice tutor. They're waiting with bated breath around the studio to see whether the decisions as to how to sing and act the picture are to come from Cohn, Scherzinger, Moore, Maratelli or Merola.

In telling who she thinks the motion picture industry should pick up its dolls and move to Florida it takes get too high in California, Louis B. Mayer, the production head at M.G.M. studio, asked, "Would it surprise you if I were to say that if fewer than 100 persons were removed we would have no film industry? If fewer than 25 persons were removed from our studio we would be finished although we have several thousand employees."

These key persons, Mayer explained, are the stars. He termed them "the personalities."

"The pictures in which they appear," he said, "support the industry. Stories and writers are chosen with them in mind. How do we get these people? We lure them with money; that is the only way. The radio, the stage, and England are holding out offers to them and to get them we must pay large salaries."

Mayer also said: "The motion picture industry takes nothing from California, but from all parts of the world it brings in between $150,000,000 and $200,000,000. The studios also lure tourists. Mayer said the latter was something for southern California not to lose sight of."

Reb Russell and Lucille Lund, both former Northwestern university students, have just finished another movie in which Reb starred and Lucille played leading woman. The story, titled "Range Warfare" was the ex-Without fail back's sixth in a row for Producer Willis Kent and he starts the seventh next month after a flying trip back to the Evanston campus and to see his folks in Oklahoma. The movie tough guy who was to fight a set-dog with Russell in the middle of this one demanded double his normal fee or no fight after learning the fight would have to be rehearsed and redone several times. Producer Kent had to hire a new, bigger, and tougher brawler to go through with the fight.

The new candidate enthusiastically cut Reb's head and Reb bloodied his nose and now says mildly, "I think the camera will show we really were trying to hit each other."

Tim McCoy is engaged in filming a cowboy story titled "Range Raiders," with Billie Seward as leading woman, but the two wild west films with the similar names are not to be confused.

Awkward Walk Is Among Worst of Feminine Failings

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Let's talk about walking again today. Not three mile hikes, although there's much to be said about that, too. But the walking I want to discuss is the good walk versus the walk that makes you look like nothing to which any one ever would turn a head to give a second glance. And I ask you, what's the use of putting money in clothes and then wearing them like a broken down lizzie with the litters?

I'm going to talk a great deal from now on about this walking business. I want you, girls, because it is your worst failing on the whole. You have your faces all tuned to a smiling, well made-up bit of appeal. You have your figures under fairly decent control, and you certainly do things with your hair that deserve the highest commendation.

But stand with me some day in any lobby, hotel, theater, movie, or on one of the busy street corners and study the way the average woman carries herself, with no regard whatsoever for the youth and beauty of the erect carriage and the easy motion that goes with it. There isn't any better way of acquiring knowledge about the walk than by standing and studying the female passersby. Of course you can give the men the once over, too, and learn a lot from them. But it's enough to study the women.

From your sidewalks you'll see Mrs. Waddle, loose hipped and sloppy looking no matter whether she's swathed in mink or imitation fur. She waddles from side to side and back again, her feet, nine chances to one, turned out wide, her shoulders at half mast. None of that fine erectness and easy movement that makes one give the distinguished looking one in the parade a second look.

There's the woman who plows the air with her arms and legs. There's the one whose posterior lurches twice with the normal also because of the forward bend of the whole body. There are the mincing feet on spiked heels that do not look smart for street wear and which throw one's body out of position. But you go and look them over yourself. And when your eyes come at that lovely one who comes along with perfect grace of carriage, study her well and see wherein you might possibly err in your foot and body management.

WONDERED WHAT IT WAS LIKE

"I used to wonder, but what Midol tablets do for the woman who has a difficult time and really suffers with periodical pain. I am grateful beyond expression, simply because I get such relief from Midol that I don't even have to favor myself on those days."

Many could give Midol just such endorsement. It acts fast, is effective for several hours, but it's not a narcotic. It is a special medicine, for this special purpose, and specialists can tell you how well it works! You'll usually find it displayed on the druggist's counter—or just ask the clerk for Midol.

1935's Increased Sales Quotas are coming mostly from readers of The Comic Weekly!

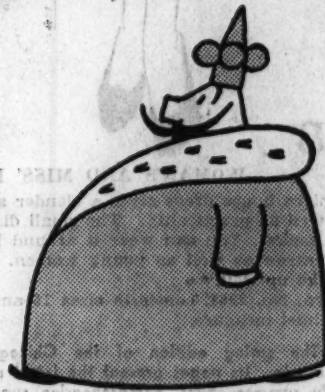

CIRCULATION

Even if you figured numbers alone, The Comic Weekly's readers would account for a tremendous proportion of possible purchasers of your product in 1935.

The largest weekly audience on earth... 5,770,066 unduplicated circulation for this single publication, The Comic Weekly! 5,770,066 families, some 18,000,000 readers, more than a fifth of all the English-reading people in the United States.

But number isn't everything... Let's look down into the next panel for the quality of The Comic Weekly's circulation...

A bold claim... but here are the 3 inescapable factors upon which we base that statement

BIG CITY CONCENTRATION

Who needs to tell you that the greatest buying in 1935—as in other years—will come from the larger population centers?

Out of a total of 5,770,066 circulation—5,770,066 families—the greatest circulation on earth—The Comic Weekly concentrates 4,192,008 in the major markets, the 995 Key Cities of 10,000 population and over.

In these 995 Key Cities, where The Comic Weekly has a greater circulation than the total of the next largest national publication, business concentrates out of all proportion to population. These 995 cities, with less than half the families, account for 70% of all retail sales. Truly the master market of America!

Now 32 pages Tabloid Size!

The Comic Weekly, with 32 full pages of entertainment and advertising, is a greater value than ever, to the reader as well as to the advertiser.

THE Comic Weekly, distributed through the 17 great Hearst Sunday newspapers, attracts the largest weekly audience on earth.

It fascinates them with the four great emotional forces, the secret of all true entertainment—laughs, loves, thrills and tears.

It is modern pictorial entertainment, provided by the highest-paid talent in the world.

The Comic Weekly brings to its eager public each week the latest doings of the world's best-known and best-loved characters, headlines all—Shipky, Jiggs and Maggie, Mickey Mouse, Flash Gordon, the Little King, Pop-Eye, the Katzenjammers, Tillie the Toiler, and others.

And to advertisers, The Comic Weekly has brought results seldom equaled by any medium, even in the most prosperous times! $12,000 is the price of the back cover, $10,000 an inside color page—closing only eight weeks in advance.

The Surest Way to Greater Sales!

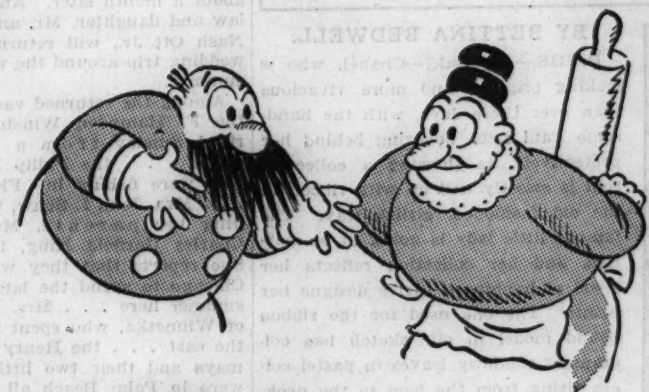

It makes no difference what you have to sell. If you want to make money, go where the money is! Go where the traffic is heavy.

Go where The Comic Weekly goes. Into the big cities and towns. For it is from there that your 1935 increased sales quota—if you make it—will come.

And the most economical way to reach these big-city markets, this quality circulation, is through The Comic Weekly. Because The Comic Weekly's color page rate per 1000 families is less than half the average of the ten leading national magazines.

Go into the largest markets, and place your advertising where it will get most attention. "More people read the comics than the front-page banner story," says Dr. George H. Gallup... "68% of all men, 72% of all women." And 99% of the juveniles, whose influence on family buying, from toys and foods to radios and automobiles, you well know.

Find out more about this unusual medium today by calling COLUMBUS 5-2642 in New York, or Superior 6820 in Chicago.

COVERAGE

But The Comic Weekly does more than merely go into these 995 Key Cities—it covers most of them adequately and generously.

In each of 134 cities, it reaches 1 out of every 2 families.

In 125 more cities, 40 to 50% of the families.

In an additional 165 cities, 30 to 40%.

In another 173 cities, 20 to 30%.

And in 2,514 additional cities and towns of 2,500 to 10,000 population it reaches 20% and over of all the families in each and every town.

The police brought the chairman of the state boxing commission, and George Getz, another member, tried to stop the fight. By that time Cartin had a slight knife wound. Score Off Gabler.

Phelps' predecessors were two men in whom Dykes has only a passing interest. The first was Johnny Michaels, a former Boston Red Sox, who was taken from the Rochester club. Johnny, a left hander, permitted three hits in as many innings. Only one of these was legitimate, it being a contribution by Gil English once a Giant.

Between Michaels and Phelps three innings were apportioned to Glen Gabler, an unemployed minor leaguer who is not actually Sox property. All the hostile runs were scored during Gabler's regime, but two of them were inspired by Zeke Bonura and Dykes.

Splitter's Fool Sox.

The Sox were not especially vicious about their hitting, but this can be attributed to two things. One was that at the half way point Dykes ordered rookies into all positions except shortstop. There was nobody available to relieve Luke Appling. The other reason was Pudge Gould, a Cleveland some years ago who was the route for the Beavers. Pudge is one of the few survivors of the spit ball era and some of the Sox never had seen that variety of pitching while others had not looked at it for many seasons.

The Sox found the aged Mr. Gould extremely annoying in the first two innings, a single by Bonura being the lone favorable happening, but they did better in the third. One run scored after a pair of hits. Haynes doubled third base with one out. A single by Radcliff then drove Haynes home.

Hafey Goes for Two.

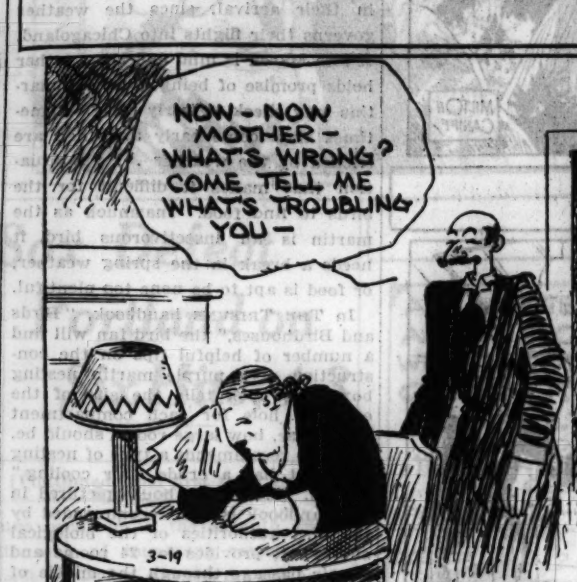

Two more hits in the fourth proved the Sox with another run. Hafey led off with a loping drive over short, and as the Beavers' left fielder wasn't particularly vigilant Hafey stretched the effort into a double. A moment later Hafey was able to sprint home on a single contributed by Dykes.

The minor league contingent also scored in the fourth. It picked up a run against Gabler on a triple by English and an infield out. This reduced the Sox to a one run lead and a few minutes later they were behind.

For a starter in the Beavers' fifth Gould rolled to Bonura who tumbled the ball. Bongiovanni beat out a bunt that would have rolled foul if Gabler hadn't been in too much of a rush to pick it up. Both men advanced on a sacrifice by Wilburn. Davis popped out and the inning would have been concluded without harm if Dykes had not pulled Bonura off the bag on a wide throw of Clell's roller. This error enabled Gould to score. Then a double steal was started and Clell was caught, but not until after Bongiovanni had scored, putting the coast leaguers ahead, 3 to 2.

Back to Lead.

The Beavers couldn't stand up under the strain apparently so promptly put the lead back into the hands of the White Sox. The presentation of two

There were only six bouts on the fight bill at Marigold Gardens last night. But it was the seventh bout, an unscheduled attraction, that brought down the house of 800 and called out police reserves from the Town Hall station.

Jackie Sharkey of Minneapolis, Minn., and Orville Dwyer of Windsor, Ontario, had fought an eight round draw in the junior lightweight class. The decision brought a howl of protest from George Ade, 1400 North Clark street, the Canadian's manager, and an answering howl from Hugh Cartin, 2650 Seminary avenue, who has an interest in Sharkey.

Cartin Gets Knife Wound.

Hot words between the two managers led to blows. Nearby bystanders joined in the fray. Police rushed to the scene. The police brought the chairman of the state boxing commission, and George Getz, another member, tried to stop the fight. By that time Cartin had a slight knife wound. Police hustled both men to the station, where Cartin preferred a charge of assault against Ade. Triner indicated last night that disciplinary action might be taken against the two managers.

Drouillard was the aggressor most of the route, but Sharkey made up for this by his boxing skill. Drouillard weighed 13½, one-quarter pound less than Sharkey.

Stigall Beats La Monte.

Eddie Stigall outboxed Bob La Monte in the six round semifinal. Jimmy Richards beat Davey White. Willie Ross whipped Eddie Jackson, and Nestor Bruggman won from Ed Schiller in four round preliminary engagements.

Johnny Liston, Chicago middleweight, won the eight round decision over Keith Graves, Peoria, Ill., in the main event at Midway arena last night. George Van Der Hayden, South Bend, Ind., whipped Bill Reardon, Chicago, in a six round lightweight bout.

Other results:

Sam Scollie stopped Floyd Embury (31); Rocky Nelson and Rusty Allen drew (41); Buck O'Neil and Rudy Kay drew (20-00) (twelve);

BLACKHAWKS TO MEET CANADIENS IN FINAL TONIGHT

Then Comes Battle for Stanley Cup.

Playoff Saturday

MONTREAL, March 18.—(AP)—Dates for the playoffs in the National Hockey league were completed today with the announcement that Chicago Blackhawks and Maroons would start their second place series in Montreal Saturday and the third place Rangers will play the Canadiens in New York Sunday. Each series will be decided on a two game total goal basis.

The Blackhawks, holders of the Stanley cup, and the Maroons will play their second game in Chicago Tuesday, March 26. The Rangers-Canadiens second encounter will be the same night in Montreal.

The winners will clash for the right to meet the league champions to be decided in three of five series between Boston and Toronto for possession of the Stanley cup. The Bruins-Maple Leafs series also will get under way Saturday in Boston.

Three hockey games in three cities tonight will mark the finish of the regular National Hockey league season. At Montreal the world's champion Chicago Blackhawks will battle the Canadiens; at Boston the Montreal Maroons will clash with the Bruins, and at Toronto the Maple Leafs will tackle the St. Louis Eagles.

The results of the games will have no bearing on the final standings. New York Rangers, New York Americans, and Detroit Red Wings have already wound up their seasons. The final stages of the scoring battle in the United States section saw Syd Howe, Detroit wing man, pass Frank Boucher of the Rangers and his own teammate, Laurie Aurie, to gain the section scoring leadership. Howe finished the season with 41 points ahead. Their final official figures:

Goals	Assists	Points
Howe..... 23	20	43
Boucher..... 17	17	34
Aurie..... 17	17	34

Want Trophy for Chabot

Tonight's game will see the Hawks battling to win the Vezina trophy, for goal tenders' annual award, for their teammate, Lorne Chabot, who is leading his nearest rival, Alex Connell of the Montreal Maroons, by four points. Eighty-six goals have been scored on Chabot and 90 on Connell. Connell will have the league leading Toronto Maple Leafs opposing him tonight.

In the five games played to date between the Blackhawks and the Canadiens, the Hawks finished in front three times by 4-1, 3-0, and 2-1 scores; the Canadiens triumphed once, 4-1, and the other game finished a 1-1 tie.

One of the most amazing features of the present season was the reversal of form shown by Lorne Goldworthy, who, after playing in the first five games of the season with the Hawks, was sent to the minors. Goldworthy, playing with the London Tecumsehs of the International league, but still the property of the Hawks, was loaned to the Canadiens and played his first game against the Blackhawks at Chicago Dec. 23. Goldworthy now is tied with Pit Lepine at 28.

Always in Playoffs

The Canadiens have not been out of the playoffs in the last two seasons. They are the only team in the big league to win the Stanley cup twice in a row and still have six players who were members when they won the cup in 1929-30-31. They are Lepine, Wilmore Laroche, Aurel Joliat, Sylvio and Georges Mantha, and Armand Mondou.

The Hawks came out of the Boston and New York games in excellent condition and win, lose, or draw in tonight's game, Manager Loughlin's instructions to his players are to take no chances. He wants the champions to be at full strength for the opening cup clash with the sturdy Montreal Maroons.

50 TURN OUT AS DE PAUL OPENS FOOTBALL DRILL

De Paul university's first spring football practice yesterday found about fifty candidates vying for the position of the largest turnout in history at De Paul, and Coaches Jim Kelly and Ben Connor ascribed the boom in enthusiasm to the opening game next fall with Northwestern university.

SMITTY-CATCHING UP WITH HIMSELF

Charges Hockey Game Thrown; Club for Sale

Buffalo, N. Y., March 18.—(AP)—Frank P. Baird Jr., young millionaire owner of the Buffalo International League club, announced tonight he was through with professional hockey.

Baird's announcement followed receipt of a reply to his telegram to Charles S. King, league president, demanding Syracuse and Cleveland be expelled as a result of their 13 to 7 scoring spree last night.

King's message read: "Much grieved on receipt of your telegram. Will have both managers in my office tomorrow morning, but, as nothing can be proved, nothing further can be done about the matter."

Baird accused the Syracuse team of allowing Cleveland to score at will in the last period of their game. Prior to the game, Cleveland and Buffalo were tied for third and Syracuse was fifth. The game brought the three teams into a tie and total goals for the season then determined the final standing and playoff entrants.

Before the Syracuse-Cleveland game, Buffalo was leading Cleveland in total goals, 113 to 108. Cleveland's seven goals yesterday gave it a two goal edge over Buffalo and the higher ranking in the standing.

HOLMES IN DENIAL.
Cleveland, O., March 18.—(AP)—Harry Holmes, manager of the Cleveland Falcons, informed of charges made by Frank P. Baird Jr., president of the Buffalo club, said tonight: "I'd rather lose than have a game come under suspicion."

"Before the game," Holmes said, "Mike Brophy (Cleveland captain) and Bud Cook (center) came to me and suggested that we go out to score all the goals we could."

"I disagreed and said, 'We'll go out to win or tie, and if we can't do that then we'll go in for scoring only.'"

Holmes denied entirely Baird's allegation of charges that the Syracuse Stars allowed the Cleveland Falcons to score enough points in their game here last night to force Buffalo out of the International Hockey league playoffs was made tonight by Eddie Powers, Syracuse coach.

Powers said Syracuse had clinched the game when it obtained a 10 to 2 lead by the opening minutes of the third period and then concentrated on offense to fatten individual scoring averages. Organized teamwork and the Cleveland players were forgotten, Powers said. Cleveland kept five forwards inside the Syracuse blue line.

This strategy, the Syracuse coach pointed out, brought goals and cost goals, but Cleveland knew at the time it could not win.

Syracuse, N. Y., March 18.—(AP)—Billy Knox, Philadelphia, the first man to bowl a 300 game in the American bowling congress, almost made history again today as he took over first place in the singles competition with 681.

He rolled his 300 at Toledo in 1913. Knox opened his bowling in the individual event with nine straight strikes and came up to the tenth frame needing three more strikes to land his second perfect game in the national classic.

He crossed to the Brooklyn side and was left with the No. 10 pin. The spare was made and he followed with a strike for 272. Games of 220 and 182 then were recorded.

Knox also landed in a tie for sixth place in the all events with 1,844, being tied with Matt Moro, Tarrytown, N. Y. His totals were 613 in the five man, 551 in the doubles, and 681 in the singles.

COACH RESIGNS UNDER FIRE; WON 31 GAMES IN ROW

Jefferson, Ind., March 18.—(Special.)—Before citizens could complete circulating a petition for his resignation this afternoon, Janis (Hunk) Francis, coach of the Jefferson High school basketball team, announced he is quitting his coaching career at once.

Francis' team was defeated by Anderson High school, 23 to 17, in the title game Saturday night at Indianapolis in the state high school basketball tournament.

Prior to the Anderson defeat Jeffersonville had won 31 consecutive games. No pre-tournament undefeated team ever has won the Indiana title. The petition asked Francis' resignation on the ground that he was not in condition to manage the team.

Asked whether he thought he had been dropped or whether he was indicated early Saturday, Francis declined to answer saying, "Any comment might involve some very prominent Jeffersonville citizens."

In the title game Jeffersonville players repeatedly failed to make good several free throws. In earlier rounds they had been successful at the foul line. Despite their defeat which upset pre-tournament predictions, Jeffersonville students today paraded through the city and then went to their neighboring city New Albany.

Purple Martins Soon Due; Fix Homes Now!

BY BOB BECKER.

The first purple martin scouts are on their way northward toward Chicagoland. Suburbanites, farmers, estate owners, and others who annually provide nesting boxes for these popular migrants should be getting the boxes ready. Martins are uncertain in their arrival, since the weather governs their flights into Chicagoland. If late March is mild and the weather holds promise of being good, the martins may check in fairly early. Sometimes they come early and then are tricked by the weather... a situation that makes it difficult for the birds to find food. Inasmuch as the martin is an insectivorous bird, it needs a break in the spring weather, or food is apt to be none too plentiful.

In THE TRIBUNE handbook, "Birds and Birdhouses," the bird fan will find a number of helpful tips on the construction of a purple martin nesting box. The book tells the size of the entrance hole for each compartment in a house, how large rooms should be, and also recommends a type of nesting box that has a crude "air cooling" system. The martin house pictured in the handbook is that recommended by the bird authorities of the biological survey. It provides for 24 rooms and an air passage through the middle of the structure.

Martins Like Open Site.

Another important point explained in the book is the preference of martins for a fairly open site. If the bird fan who is trying to capture a colony of purple martins will erect a house in open area near his home he has a better chance to get tenants than by putting a nesting box among the trees. Another attraction for the birds is a pond of water.

The TRIBUNE bird book (36 pages and profusely illustrated) contains information on another bird many Chicagoans apparently do not know, although they see this bird quite often. Judging by the letters and telephone calls we have received during the last month there are many residents who have not yet become acquainted with the European starling.

Starling Becoming Nuisance.

This foreign invader is taking over lots of nesting sites and already has become a nuisance in some neighborhoods, a situation that this department predicted more than three years ago when it was urged that bird fans get busy to keep down the number of the starling. "Birds and Birdhouses," which gives information on the starling, is on sale at the Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street. The cost is 30 cents by mail.

25 LAKE FOREST FOOTBALL MEN BEGIN PRACTICE

Twenty-five candidates have reported for spring football practice at Lake Forest college. A number of men will not be able to participate in the drills because of baseball and track practice, which began two weeks ago, Coach Ralph R. Jones announced. From all indications the turnout next fall will be the largest in the college's history.

Coach Jones will have seven first string men around which to form a team for next fall. Candidates from last season's freshman squad, which was the strongest in years, are expected to strengthen the eleven. The 1935 schedule includes games with Ripon, Lawrence, Carroll, Beloit, Northwestern, and Millikin.

TIGERS FACE DODGERS.

Lakeland, Fla., March 18.—(AP)—Leadership of the mythical Grapefruit league will be at stake tomorrow when the Detroit Tigers journey to Orlando to meet the Dodgers. Like the Tigers, the Brooklyn team won its first two exhibition starts.

Manager Mickey Cochrane will be in harness tomorrow for the first time in an exhibition contest this season. Mickey cut his finger opening a pop bottle the other day, and remained out of last week's games. He will resume his old place, No. 2, in the batting order.

Elden Auker and Vic Sorrell will do the pitching against Brooklyn.

COMES TO GET CONTRACT.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 18.—(AP)—Although no official announcement has been forthcoming, probation days apparently are over for Earle Combs, one of the New York Yankees' dollar-a-year men. Having showed that he has fully recovered from injuries, suffered last year when he crashed into the left field fence at St. Louis, Combs is expected to receive a contract call for the same salary he drew last year.

RED SOX MEET CARDS.

Sarasota, Fla., March 18.—(AP)—Fred Ostermiller and Wes Perrell will divide the pitching assignment tomorrow when the Boston Red Sox resume competition against the Cardinals at Bradenton. Manager Joe Cronin gave his squad much more mental exercise than physical work today.

Sox Defeat Portland on Six Hits, 4-3

runs occurred in the seventh. Mauldin, one of numerous replacements made by Dykes, opened the inning by fanning. Calthamer dropped a double back of short and Bonagiovanni's return throw went into the crowd, Calthamer continuing to the plate. Haas tripled to left and scored on a perfectly executed squeeze bunt by Conlan.

Phelps had a little trouble in the eighth, but the agility of Haas came to his rescue. After two were out Bill Cassell, the faded $100,000 phenom of a few years back, singled to center, stole second and continued to third on Calthamer's wild throw. Clabaugh walked. Then English hoisted a fly to short center, but the Mule galloped in pell mell to make the catch.

Now the Pirates.

The Sox have more important matters to attend to tomorrow. They will move back to Pasadena for the first of their long spring series with the Pittsburgh Pirates. The pitchers due to be employed are John Whitehead, Joe Vance and Lee Stine. This is the trio that shutout the Cubs in last Saturday's exhibition.

Two Eastern Fives Out of Loyola Meet

Word was received last night by officials of the National Catholic intercollegiate tournament, which opens tomorrow at Loyola gymnasium, that neither of the two teams entered from the Massachusetts tournament would be able to compete here, because of difficulties in obtaining permission to go to Chicago.

As a result, their places will be filled by De Paul academy, runner-up for the Chicago Catholic league championship, and Marmon academy of Aurora.

Marmon academy will play at 7:30 p. m. Thursday against Penwick High school of Oak Park. De Paul's first opponent will be De La Salle High school of Minneapolis, Minn., a former national champion, at 9 a. m. Friday. Ray Wozniak to Fight Bittner at C. Y. O. Thursday

Ray Wozniak and Joe Bittner, two of the most formidable light heavyweights in the Catholic Youth Organization Boxing club, will meet in the feature of an eight bout show Thursday night at the C. Y. O. Center gymnasium, 21 East Congress street.

Wozniak, Polish boy from Villa Park, held the C. Y. O. 175 pound title in 1933, but was defeated in the 1934 tournament finals. In the recent Golden Gloves tournament, he reached the quarter-final round, dropping a close decision to Joe Cossans.

Joe Du Pont, novice featherweight champion of the C. Y. O., will hook up with Joe Wiley in another match. Du Pont, a French-Mexican boy who was born in El Paso, Tex., is a second year student at St. Patrick's High school and in his spare time trains at the C. Y. O. gymnasium downtown. In the six months during which he has been boxing, Du Pont has won 14 and lost two bouts.

Jimmy Christy, one of the greatest fighters ever to graduate from the annual C. Y. O. tournament, who is now boxing in the professional ranks, will referee two of the eight bouts Thursday night. Christy returned to Chicago Saturday from a successful invasion of California and the west coast.

THARNISH, ONCE FASTEST HUMAN IN WORLD, DIES

Memphis, Tenn., March 18.—(AP)—E. A. [A.] Tharnish, 66 years old, who, a half century ago was considered the world's fastest human, died today. A native of Durbin, N. Y., Tharnish early became identified with foot racing. He was trained by Ed W. Moulton, trainer of Charlie Padlock.

From 1884 to 1891 Tharnish never was defeated in a race for money from a 50 yard dash to four miles. His time for 100 yards was 9.45 seconds. He wore flannel lights from neck to ankles.

Once when Tharnish was at Audubon, Ia., a circus came to town ballyhooing the world's fastest human. Tharnish, barefooted and in overalls, raced him and won. The next year Tharnish ran for Barnum & Bailey.

What other cigar has ever won so great a smoker preference?

For years—at 10c—Bayuk PHILLIES was the choice of more men than any other 10c brand on the market.

Reduced in price to 5c—this same identical PHILLIES has become the largest-selling cigar at any price in America.

This amazing preference can mean but one thing. PHILLIES has something that men want and haven't found in any other cigar they have ever smoked.

This "something" in PHILLIES is MELLOW flavor—the result of blending fine, mild long-filler Havana and Domestic tobaccos. Cigars made of just ordinary tobaccos cannot give you this distinctive mellow flavor.

That's why you can't compare PHILLIES with any regular 5c cigar—or any cigar now selling for 5c. There is no other cigar—at any price—like it on the market. Sales definitely prove it.

UTILITY'S PROFIT RISE IN GROSS

Northern Indiana Unit's Costs, Taxes Higher.

Despite an increase of 3.50 per cent in total gross revenues in 1935, net income of the Northern Indiana Public Service company showed a decline of $12,645 from 1934 as a result of increased expenses, maintenance, and taxes, according to the annual report of the company, published yesterday.

Net income in 1934 amounted to $36,613 as compared with $1,063,658 for 1933. Gross earnings were $12,163,835 as compared with $11,756,423 a year ago.

John N. Shannahan, president, stated in his report that electric operating revenues increased 3.01 per cent, gas operating revenues 6.04 per cent, and water revenues 1 per cent. Operating expenses amounted to $4,939,700 as compared with $4,547,000 in 1934.

Tax Bill is Higher.
The 1934 tax bill was $1,075,950 higher than that for 1933 and equaled more than 12 cents out of every dollar of gross revenue. The company paid one-half of its regular preferred dividends during 1934 and 1935. Net income after taxes was $4,610,400 as compared with $4,175,457 as compared with $3,296,223. The surplus was $231,418 as compared with $712,303.

The company reduced its indebtedness by $286,500 through the purchase of that amount of Northern Indiana Gas and Electric company gold bonds which were a direct obligation of Northern Indiana Public Service.

Plan Change in Directorate.
Shannahan said that at the annual meeting of stockholders on Thursday the management will recommend the election of a majority of the board of directors from among representative men living in the territory served by the company.

"The management believes it to be the best interests of the company to have the benefit of the viewpoint of men engaged in other lines of business," Shannahan said. "Realizing that it is a part of the community it serves, the company is now turning over to the stockholders a voice in determining its policies. This recommended change of policy was called to the attention of stockholders in a letter dated March 1, 1935."

OBJECTORS WILL BE HEARD BEFORE DECISION

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday took under advisement an order prepared by attorneys for creditors of the Western Power, Light and Telephone company asking that May 7 be set as the date for hearing on a final decree which would take the company out of trustees' hands under section 77-B of the amended bankruptcy act and place it under its own management.

Judge Wilkerson announced he would consider the matter after lengthy arguments by representatives of small amounts of securities who are objecting to a plan of reorganization developed by committees of the company's creditors. It was stated in court that 77-B of the company's class stockholders have approved the plan.

Consider Stock Options.
Since the plan was originally submitted to Judge Wilkerson it has been amended to give something to holders of the company's class stock who received nothing in the first proposal. The amended plan provides that the class A holders be given options to purchase within one year one share of the common stock at $2.50 for each five shares now held.

Franklin Lyons, representing $12,000 of bonds, demanded that bondholders be given first refusal of the company's stock at $2.50 for each five shares now held.

Plan Weighs 2 1/2 Years.
Edward R. Johnston, representing a bondholders' committee headed by Hamilton Lindsey, pointed out that the plan had been arrived at only after two and a half years of study. A majority of these security holders were agreed that the plan offered the best position where a new reorganization would not be necessary in a few years, he said. Mr. Johnston said that 16,000 persons, either owning securities or holding them in trust, had been twice before informed as to the details of the plan.

Charles Aaron, representing over $3,000,000 of noteholders, said his group was convinced that the plan would best preserve their interests.

Judge Wilkerson asked the objectors what they would suggest be done should the company, despite the fact that a large majority of the creditors had approved a reorganization plan, be sold in bankruptcy. He added that the law clearly provides that when two-thirds of the creditors of a company plan to reorganize, the plan should be confirmed, provided that the court is so convinced it is fair.

CARSON STORE
ANNOUNCES BIG IMPROVEMENTSCost Is Estimated at 1½ Millions.

Carson Pirie Scott & Co. last night announced an extensive program of improvements for its retail store. These are to cost between $1,250,000 and $1,500,000 and include new elevators, escalators, air conditioning, and an entirely new heating and power plant.

Work will start almost immediately and is to be finished by fall. Employment of the durable goods industries both will benefit from the program, executives of the store pointed out.

"For several years we have looked forward to the improvement and rehabilitation of our State street premises. In fact, ever since we completed our improvements on Wabash avenue and on Monroe street," said John T. Pirie, president of the company. "Now we are going to be able to serve our customers better than ever before."

More Efficient Store.

"After experiencing the considerably improved business of 1934, culminating in such heavy traffic in the store last December, when customers by the thousands were unable to reach our upper floors with any degree of promptness, it was out of the question to delay longer. Everything we are planning to do—new elevators, escalators, air conditioning, heating, power plant, departmental rearrangement, and many minor improvements—has just one object in mind—to give Chicago a more efficient, convenient, attractive store. It no more than we should do to return for the good will Chicago has shown us."

The major changes will be made in the State street sections of the store. Two banks of escalators will run from the basement to the seventh floor. They are to incorporate latest improvements for smooth and quiet operation, and are designed to carry 100 persons per hour. Sixteen new elevators of most modern type will be installed in present shafts.

To Rearrange Departments.

Together with the improvements of a few years ago in the Wabash and Monroe sides of the store, these improvements in the store's transportation system will make possible rearrangements of some departments to bring related sections closer together and improve convenience and accessibility of all upper floor departments, Mr. Pirie said.

Important sections of the store are to be air conditioned, preliminary to possible complete air conditioning. This would be a tremendous undertaking if done all at one time, it was said, and plans have been developed with the object of avoiding faults. Comfort of customers and employees will be served both winter and summer by eliminating the necessity for opening windows and transoms, thus keeping out dust.

Describe Power Facilities.

Described as the heart of the store's operating and maintenance facilities, the new heating and power plant will include four giant steam boilers, turbines, Diesel engines for power development, refrigerating machinery, and other mechanical equipment. It is pointed out that the plant serves 50,000 to 70,000 persons on a busy day.

No structural changes are contemplated outside the State street buildings, and the ornamental iron front created by the late Louis Sullivan, will be repaired where needed, but will remain the same at the Madison State corner.

Work has been planned to cause little inconvenience to customers or interference with business.

BOSTON & MAINE
PASSENGER GAIN
FIRST IN 11 YEARS

New York, March 18.—[Special.]—The Boston and Maine railroad reported today that its passenger revenue in 1934 increased for the first time in 11 years and that its freight revenue increased for the first time since 1929. The company also increased its revenue from highway operation last year, according to the report.

Passenger revenues in 1934 were $7,662,793, against $6,955,142 in 1933. The report states that the company spent $76,000 advertising in 1934, up $13,937 from 1933, and this, with reduced fares, special trains, air-conditioning, faster train speeds and a cold winter helped stimulate this traffic.

The Boston and Maine Transportation company, which operates trucks and omnibuses, reported a net profit of $510 in 1934 against $6,955 in 1933, the parent company reporting it realized economies through the substitution of motor vehicles for railway service. Omnibus revenues increased and highway moved freight increased in volume.

SEC Gets Only
$61,031 Fees
from Markets

Washington, D. C., March 18.—[Special.]—The dollar value of transactions on the National Securities exchanges on which are based the regulation fees paid to the Securities and Exchange commission totaled $61,031,038.75 during the last three months of 1934, and the fees amounted to $61,031, the commission announced today.

The important part that the New York Stock exchange played in this picture was shown by the fact that the dollar volume then during these months aggregated $2,620,839, or 85.9 per cent of the total on all registered exchanges. On the New York Curb exchange transactions were $308,516,302 and the combined dealings on the two represented 96 per cent of the aggregate.

Denver Not Included.

The grand total given did not include $360,918 on the Denver Stock exchange, which was not recorded in compiling the aggregate because the registration fee was not paid when the volume was reported.

An upward trend in the dealings on most of the exchanges was shown by a monthly compilation. On the New York Stock exchange the value of transactions in stocks and bonds increased from $732,378,888 in October of 1934 to $1,284,234 in December, all of the increase being represented by dealings in stocks which rose from $462,265,591 to $752,850,257, while transactions in bonds showed a decline of about $5,500,000.

Payment March 15.

The securities exchange act provides that on March 15 of each year each registered exchange, of which there are twenty-four, must pay a registration fee amounting to one five-hundredth of 1 per cent of the aggregate dollar valuation of transactions during the preceding year. On the New York Stock exchange that total did not become registered until Oct. 1, 1934, the initial fee applied only to the last three months of last year.

At the time of the law's adoption it had been estimated that the total of fees for a year might run as high as $600,000, but according to the figures reported today there must be a great increase in transactions before that goal is reached.

RAILROAD CAN'T PAY OBLIGATIONS;
BLAMES NRA COST

Norfolk, Va., March 18.—[Special.]—Col. Henry W. Anderson, receiver for the Seaboard Air Line railway that is tiffing in the Federal District court today declared the "New Deal" has added $3,500,000 to the fixed charges of the railroad, making the meeting of existing obligations impossible.

He petitioned the court for a refunding of $28,000,000 in receivers' certificates and equipment trust obligations so that interest rates can be slashed and a five year moratorium to stay off the foreclosure of any outstanding mortgage under the plan proposed. The interest on $4,480,000 in receivers' certificates first issued in 1931 for one year and extended to three years in 1932 would be cut from the prevailing 6 per cent to 4 per cent.

The interest on approximately $24,000,000 in receivers' certificates and equipment trust obligations would be placed at 2 per cent for the first three years, 3 per cent for two years and 3½ per cent on the remaining five years of the 10 year retirement period that was scheduled to have begun this year.

FIRST PROFIT IS SHOWN SINCE 1930
BY KELLOGG FIRM

Kellogg Switchboard and Supply company, Chicago, last year had a net profit of $59,780, the first since 1930, according to the annual report issued yesterday. In 1933 there was a net loss of $315,711.

Net sales in 1934 were 40 per cent greater than in 1933, and the value of orders received during the first two months of 1935 shows improvement over the corresponding period of last year. G. A. Yanowski, president, stated in a letter to stockholders.

Current assets as of Dec. 31, 1934, amounted to $3,046,000, including cash of $218,777, against current liabilities of $1,055,944. At the end of the preceding year current assets totaled $2,923,118, cash $152,896, and current liabilities $182,976.

Starts Decline.

Cotton suffered another precipitous drop in domestic markets yesterday as a flood of selling from foreigners and frightened speculators swept into the pits. Some futures managed to rally slightly from lows for the day, but most closing levels were at or near minimums for the session.

In Chicago prices were down $1.30 to $2.50 a bale. New Orleans and New York returned losses ranging from $2.15 to $2.90 a bale, while cash prices fell $2.50 to $2.75.

The day's news offered little to account for the decline. Liverpool was bombarded with selling from Bombay and other far eastern centers. The English market, in turn, sold large quantities in the United States, particularly at the opening, and the ensuing liquidation from speculators was too heavy to throw off.

Lows for Season Recorded.

October and December cotton in Chicago sank to new low levels for the season. Fresh minimums were also attained by October, December, and January futures in New York and New Orleans. The October future in the southern market broke below the 10 cent level when it sank to 9.95 cents a pound, although a subsequent rally carried the quotation back to 10.05 cents at the finish.

At prevailing prices the government has a large theoretical loss on the 6,000,000 bales of which it has advanced loans of 12 cents a pound, which must be added another cent in charges for removal from interior storage points. At 10.3 cents a pound for May cotton in New Orleans, the loss stands at 2.7 cents a pound, including the handling charge, or a total loss for the mortgaged cotton of $81,000,000.

May Remove Processing Tax.

Gossip from Washington said recommendations will be made to remove the processing tax on the staple. The levy can be removed, it is said, by the use of funds allocated to relief.

The House adopted an amendment to the Dugay bill, increasing from two to three bales the exemption that would be allowed small cotton growers, tenants, and share croppers under the Bankhead control program.

Observers described yesterday's decline as a "secondary reaction" following the drastic break of a week ago. Uncertainty over the new crop program and unsettled political conditions in Europe have demoralized sentiment. Brokers are at sea as to the outcome because of world-wide factors.

FEAR MILLS SHUTDOWN

Washington, D. C., March 18.—[Special.]—The cotton textile industry is facing a situation so grave that only prompt and drastic governmental action will prevent a large scale shut down of mills and the dumping of perhaps 400,000 employees on the relief rolls. Senator W. F. George (Dem., Ga.) asserted today. He said he and Senator Walsh (Dem., Mass.) would lay the problem before President Roosevelt at the earliest opportunity.

Senator George put Japanese competition foremost among the factors militating against normal operations in the industry, and said that the only thing that would relieve this situation was a "limited embargo." He will ask for such action. "Any plan involving relief through the raising of tariff walls would be entirely ineffective," he declared.

Other factors were listed as the outlay in processing taxes, the trend of raw cotton prices, and NRA restrictions.

In the first two months of this year imports of Japanese cotton goods reached the total of more than 24 million square yards, or more than three times the total for the year 1934, the senator declared.

Officials of some of the largest cotton mills in New England, South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama, after conferring here and there, would be quick action a crisis would be reached in about five or six weeks.

S. Clay Williams, chairman of the National Industrial Recovery board said today the situation is one of the most serious problems before the NRA.

Electric Bond
Heads Rap U.S.
Utility Bills

While the Electric Bond and Share company has earned more than its preferred stock dividends for more than thirty years, the bills before congress that threaten the life of utility holding companies make prediction of future earnings impossible. C. E. Groesbeck, chairman, and S. R. Inch, president, say in the annual report released yesterday.

Net income for the year ended Dec. 31 amounted to $9,534,373, after all charges. This was equivalent after preferred dividends to 21 cents a share on the common stock, compared with a net of $10,735,288, or 44 cents a share, in 1933. The decline of $1,200,895, or 11.2 per cent, in net income resulted from decreased gross revenue and an increase in taxes.

Gross Income Is Lower.

Gross income for the year amounted to $13,952,702, or $76,370 below the preceding year. Total expenses increased $482,925, or 10.8 per cent. Expenses other than taxes were reduced $423,880, but the savings was more than offset by an increase in taxes of $56,895, the report says.

The 1934 revenues include interest accruals on Cuban Electric company debentures to Nov. 1, 1934, which increased to $45,394,125, cash of $38,454,439, and current liabilities of $2,559,025 on Dec. 31, 1933. Investments totaled $508,008,730, against $505,417,572 at the end of the preceding year. Total assets were reported as $551,965,596.

Subsidiary Bank Loans Cut.

The report says that bank loans of the American and Foreign Power company, which totaled $500,000, when Electric Bond and Share took over $10,000,000 from banking institutions in 1932, are $21,907,048 at the present time. The Electric Bond and Share interest, in addition to the stated amounts, is $7,976,762 at present. These loans and the $35,000,000 of American and Foreign Power note, also held by Electric Bond and Share, have been extended to the fall of 1938.

Electric Bond and Share now holds include $1,400,000 Northern Texas Utilities first mortgage bonds due Jan. 1, 1936, the entire amount, and $4,162,926 miscellaneous bonds of associated companies, with a Dec. 31 market value of $4,239,000.

OLD DAWES BANK PAYS
33½ MILLION TO RFC;
OWES 56½ MILLIONS

Washington, D. C., March 18.—[Special.]—The old Dawes bank, the Central Republic Bank and Trust company of Chicago, has repaid $33½ million dollars on the $90 million dollar loan it received from the Reconstruction Finance corporation, it was learned today.

In addition the bank has paid $2,942,019 in interest to the RFC. Gross deposits cleared 138 millions, New York contributing a rise of 59 millions, interior banks 72 millions, and Chicago 7 millions. Individual deposits advanced 153 millions as the result of turnups of 70 millions in New York, 2 millions here and 81 millions elsewhere.

RECENT PAYMENTS SMALL.

The figures from Washington last night showed that approximately $1,300,000 in interest and only half a million dollars on principal has been paid on the RFC loan to the old Central Republic bank since it was placed in receivership last Nov. 20.

At that time $32,893,000 principal and $2,857,000 interest had been paid since the loan was made June 25, 1932. There was $57,101,000 still due on the loan and secured by $76,300,000 in cash and collateral. In addition, the RFC has filed suit to collect $14,000,000 from stockholders. There also was $1,232,000 still due on a $5,000,000 loan from Chicago loop banks. This was secured by foreign securities.

GAY IS EXPECTED TO BE ELECTED
EXCHANGE HEAD

Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 18.—Charles R. Gay, who has been a member of the New York Stock exchange for 23 years, today was reported virtually assured of election as the next president of the exchange when, in the last of the prescribed three meetings of the exchange's nominating committee, the official slate for the May election was completed. The names of those called to run for election will not be publicly announced, however, until April 8, when the committee formally names its list of candidates.

Four others reported considered by the committee for the presidential nomination are L. K. Martin, Richard L. Johnson of Shearson, Hamill & Co.; Peter J. Maloney of Maloney, Anderson & Block, and Albert L. Lindley, vice president of Lindley & Co.

Gay has been mentioned repeatedly in the financial community in recent months as the choice of a majority of the brokers having membership on the exchange to run for the presidency in opposition to Richard Whitney, who has served as president for five years.

ESTIMATE STEEL
MAKING FOR WEEK
DOWN TO 46.8 PCT.

New York, March 18.—[Special.]—Steel ingot production for the current week will average 46.8 per cent of capacity, or 0.3 of a point less than last week's rate of 47.1 per cent, it was announced today by the American Iron and Steel Institute.

A month ago the rate was 49.1 per cent and in the corresponding week of last year it was 46.8 per cent, exactly the same as for the current week. The decline from last week was six-tenths of 1 per cent.

France Faces
Devaluation,
Experts Admit

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 18.—France's rulers, in their hearts, have abandoned the fight to save the franc from devaluation. Their aim now is first, to postpone the devaluation as long as possible, with an eye to the elections next year; second, to make the slice which must eventually be amputated from the franc as small as possible. If devaluation were decreed today it is generally agreed by experts that the new franc when finally stabilized again would represent a depreciation of 25 per cent whereas the government hopes that in a year or two a devaluation of 15 per cent or less would be sufficient.

Experts Kept from Public.

According to THE TRIBUNE'S informants, the issue has been obscured by official optimism on one side and alarmist speculation based on impressions instead of facts on the other. While there is some disagreement among experts as to the likelihood of the franc being prematurely forced to devalue—for instance by the defection of the other members of the gold bloc—there is no doubt that the best official brains in the country already envisage an eventual voluntary devaluation, although of course they continue to deny it in public.

The explanation of this at the same time serves to debunk the legend of France being "crucified on a cross of gold." While there are many contributory factors only one thing renders devaluation inevitable—governmental indebtedness.

Public Debt Is Growing.

France's public debt now stands at $13 billion francs—approximately 20 billion dollars. The per capita indebtedness is about $435. It is mounting all the time. Last year the public debt climbed $800,000,000.

The budget for several years has suffered a chronic deficit. It has been greatly reduced in the last two years, but is still substantial. Added to it is the deficit of all the French railroads, which the government shoulders, although four of the five principal lines are privately owned and operated. The deficit for 1935 by the most conservative estimates will be around half a billion dollars, maybe more.

Previous deficits still hang over the country's finances in the shape of the short term floating debt which the Flaminio government has already been forced to increase by some three hundred million francs while some $400,000,000 to $500,000,000 more must be provided this year to cover current and previous deficits. In the opinion of such experts as former Finance Minister Joseph Caillaux.

Has Policy of Short Term Borrowing.

By this policy of short term borrowing the government can get along for a while but there is always a residue of debt left over from one year to another and eventually this residue must be met.

Further reduction of government expenses is believed impossible because the nation's business is already dying of "asphyxiation," and more deflation can only aggravate the evil. On the other hand the government cannot think of more long term bond issues because the total of government issues weighs on the money market now and is chiefly responsible for the high interest rates which are paralyzing industry—4 per cent in other paid even by borrowers offering the best security.

As the government can't borrow and can't save the only possible solution is a devaluation of the franc which would revalorize the government's gold stocks and allow the printing of enough new bills to wipe out at last the residue of deficit, it is said.

BELGIUM WILL
PARIS REPORTSCurrency Advances; Pound Declines.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 18.—Despite efforts of French newspapers to cover up the failure of the Franco-Belgian monetary negotiations it was reported in financial circles tonight that Belgium's official abandonment of the gold standard may be expected shortly. Likewise, it was reported that Belgian Premier George Theunis will resign.

The drastic exchange restrictions adopted this morning at a cabinet meeting in Brussels instead of protecting the belga are believed to be merely a preparatory step toward abandoning gold altogether.

Sets Up Gold Embargo.

It was pointed out that the new Belgian law sets up an effective gold embargo. This would have been unnecessary if the Belgian government had really intended to defend the belga. It is said, but it becomes perfectly comprehensible if the Belgians are preparing to leave gold.

Official denial was made in Brussels that the Belgian ministers have any statement to the press in Paris. The only statement with which the Paris papers credited them was: "The belga is saved."

Brussels Disappointed.

[Copyright: 1935; By The New York Times.]

BRUSSELS, March 18.—There was a general feeling of disappointment here today over the meager results of evidence of much anxiety for the immediate future of the belga.

Two royal decrees published this morning created a sensation in financial and industrial circles, although the modification was being made in the country's monetary status or in the belga's gold parity, the decrees instituted a national exchange office to restrict exchange operations to legitimate commercial needs, thus preventing speculation and the export of Belgian capital which was becoming substantial.

No Loan Negotiated.

It was confirmed here today that no loan or credit had been negotiated with the Bank of France, but that an agreement had been reached whereby, if it became necessary to defend the belga, France would offer monetary support. For the present the Belgian National Bank's resources are adequate.

There is little hope here that a satisfactory trade agreement with France can be negotiated in time to do much good. Belgium's chief hope seems to lie in France's transferring to her the trade she formerly gave to the Saar.

The Luxembourg government announced this morning exchange restrictions similar to those decreed in Belgium.

BELGA MOVES HIGHER

New York, March 18.—[Special.]—Belgian currency advanced sharply in the international money market today and the British pound sterling exchanged for a new sinking spell as a result of the reported decision of France to aid Belgium in maintaining the gold standard.

In financial quarters here, however, it was believed that Belgium faces a critical period. The prevailing belief was that the Franco-Belgian understanding is of only passing importance and the position of all the nations in the "gold bloc" was still precarious.

Devaluation of the belga is regarded as probable in French financial circles, despite any assistance France can extend.

New York, March 18. (Special.)

In sympathy with other financial markets, bonds traded on the New York stock exchange today generally followed an uncertain price trend in nervous dealings in consequence of disturbing news of Germany's rearmament decision.

In the United States Government group the Liberty Loans and guaranteed issues were off 1/32 to 3/32 of a point. Several of the treasury issues worked a little higher, but the majority followed the main trend downward. Treasury 4s of 1951, the most active issue, lost 7/32 at 103.7 and Home Owners Loan was 8/32 off at 101.15. The turnover in government bonds was $2,550,000.

Belgian Bonds Break.

Four issues of Belgian bonds declined from 3/4 points to 5/4 points in a heavy turnover following announcement that the Belgians had placed under government control in foreign exchange.

The armament situation in Germany brought out only a small amount of Dewees 7s which yielded 3/4 points to 5/4, but some of the German private obligations, as well as those of other European nations, were offered in larger number at concessions of a point or so.

South American loans were irregular, with several of the inactive issues making wide swings.

Corporation Issues Mixed.

Public utility holding and communication companies made a good showing, railroad issues were steady to slightly higher, while industrials moved unevenly.

There were a few notable soft spots, including obligations of the Southern Pacific, New Haven, Big Four, Purdy Bakeries, and Baltimore & Ohio, all of which were off 1/4 to 1/2 points, but the majority showed only fractional change and there were quite a number in the plus column.

Columbia Gas was 1/4 higher and Federal Light & Traction was gained a full point, while there were minor fractions upward included obligations of Youngstown Sheet, Western Union, Western Maryland, and Liggett & Myers.

MINNEAPOLIS FLOUR.

Flour prices were 10 cents lower today. Carload lots of family flour at $6.85, 50 lb. barrel at $6.85, 25 lb. barrel at $6.85. Shipments were 100,000 bushels. Standard middlings at $24.50, 25 lb. barrel at $24.50.

Nobilit-Spark.

Investors' Guide: Kindly give me your opinion and report on Nobilit-Spark company. Thank you for your advice and efforts.—Mrs. C. H. H.

Answer: Nobilit-Spark company was originally established in 1919. Its products are designed mainly for the automobile industry. Output consists of mufflers, tire pumps, jacks, rear view mirrors, "Arvin" automobile heaters, automobile radios, and heaters for rooms. Distribution is effected direct to automobile manufacturers and through an organization of 240 jobbers.

The company has a fairly good record of operations. It has shown a profit every year since 1922, except in 1931 and 1932, when moderate losses were sustained.

The four year record of earnings follows:

Year	Net sales	Net income
1934	$2,370,000	$300,000
1933	$2,300,000	$200,000
1932	$2,300,000	$200,000
1931	$2,300,000	$200,000

*Loss—Reflecting the Jan. 2, 1934, fire.

Current position at the close of 1934 was satisfactory. Current assets, including cash of $100,000, were $1,250,000 and current liabilities were $321,000. There was no funded debt. Capitalization consisted of 150,000 shares of no par stock. The stock pays 30 cents a quarter. It is medium grade.

Margin Requirements.

Investors' Guide: If I want to buy stock on margin, what amount shall I have to put up?—P. R. F.

Answer: On a purchase of a listed security you would have to pay either 10 per cent of the current market price or 100 per cent of the lowest market price since July 1, 1933, provided that the payment was not less than 25 per cent of the current market price.

For example, if a stock is currently selling at $100 a share, under the first option you would be required to advance $40 and the broker would lend you $60. If the stock had been quoted at a low of $30 since July 1, 1933, you would only have to advance $30 a share; if the low since then was less than $25 a share, however, you would be required to advance $25 a share, since the broker is not permitted under the securities exchange act of 1934 to lend more than 75 per cent of the current market value.

The broker has the option of asking for more margin than the act stipulates as a minimum.
